The committee heretofore appointed to wait upon the Governor appeared in the Hall of the House of Representatives accompanied by the Governor, who, after being presented to the Joint Session, personally delivered his biennial message to the General Assembly, as follows, to-wit:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
STATE OF ILLINOIS.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

Illinois is now well started upon its second century of Statehood. The transition from the old century to the new was signalized by the formulation, adoption and initiation of "The Civil Administrative Code." The administration of the government of Illinois during the past four years has revolved around this Code. As, therefore, under the requirements of the Constitution, I report to your honorable body, the condition of the State and make some recommendations which seem to me pertinent at this time, I am impelled to present both report and recommendations in the light of experience with the Code.

THE CIVIL ADMINISTRATIVE CODE.

This document, enacted by the General Assembly in 1917, constitutes a distinct contribution to political science. Illinois is the pioneer in the reconstruction of State governmental machinery. It has pointed the way for administrative reforms in other State governments. Many states have adopted, in part at least, the principles of the Code. Others are now making intensive studies of these principles and of the results achieved under them.

ADMINISTRATIVE CONDITIONS PRIOR TO 1917.

In view, therefore, of the nation-wide recognition of the Code it is appropriate to review, somewhat in detail, the principles embodied in its provisions and the policies vitalized into administration. Fully to understand the Code and its practical workings a brief reference must be made to administrative conditions which prevailed prior to 1917. In my inaugural message, commenting upon conditions as they then existed, I said:

"Administrative agencies have been multiplied in bewildering confusion. They have been created without reference to their ability economically and effectively to administer the laws. Separate boards govern the penitentiaries, the reformatories, and the educational institutions. Several boards and commissions have charge of matters affecting the agricultural interests. Administration of laws affecting labor is parceled out among numerous agencies, including several boards having jurisdiction of mining problems and several free employment agencies, each independent of the other. Our finance administration is chaotic, illogical and confused.

"The administration of the health laws is divided between boards and commissions, with no effective means of coordination. Our educational agencies are not harmonious.

"Over one hundred officers, boards, agencies, commissions, institutions, and departments are charged with the administration of our laws. No systematic organization exists, and no adequate control can be exercised. Diffusion rather than concentration and responsibility marks our system.

"One of the imperative needs of the State is the consolidation of its multiplied agencies into a few principal departments. The Governor is held responsible for the conduct of the State government. His executive functions should be discharged through a limited number of agencies over which he may exercise actual control. Under the present system of confusing perplexity, the Governor can not exercise the supervision and control which the people have a right to demand."

DIVISIONS OF CODE.

The enactment of "The Civil Administrative Code" followed. Its plan is simple, but comprehensive. It organized and consolidated the civil governmental agencies under the jurisdiction of the Governor, more than 125 in number, into nine departments, as follows:

- The Department of Finance.
- The Department of Agriculture.
- The Department of Labor.
- The Department of Mines and Minerals.
- The Department of Public Works and Buildings.
- The Department of Public Welfare.
- The Department of Public Health.
- The Department of Trade and Commerce.
- The Department of Registration and Education.

Boards and commissions were eliminated, except quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative boards and advisory boards.

Quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative boards are allocated to departments as follows:

- To the department of agriculture, the food standard commission;
- To the department of labor, the industrial commission;
- To the department of mines and minerals, the mining board, and the miners' examining board;
- To the department of trade and commerce, the public utilities commission;

To the department of registration and education, the normal school board; and

To the department of finance, the tax commission (added in 1919).

Advisory boards are allocated to departments as follows:

To the department of agriculture, a board of agricultural advisors, and a board of State fair advisors;

To the department of labor, a board of State free employment office advisors, and boards of local free employment advisors;

To the department of public works and buildings, a board of art advisors, a board of water resource advisors, a board of highway advisors, and a board of parks and building advisors;

To the department of public welfare, a board of public welfare commissioners;

To the department of health, a board of public health advisors;

To the department of registration and education, a board of natural resources and conservation advisors, a board of State museum advisors, and an immigrants' commission (added in 1919).

The Code, as its name indicates, is purely an administrative measure. In its enactment it was not found necessary to disturb the substantive provisions of any law. Powers previously exercised by agencies which were abolished were simply transferred to the appropriate department.

PRINCIPLES OF THE CODE.

In its provisions are embodied the following fundamental principles of government and administration:

(1) The functions of administration, while made up of many details, are susceptible of classification into a limited number of departments.

(2) Simplicity of governmental organization is necessary to energetic, efficient, and economical administration. Such simplicity secures unity and responsibility in administration.

(3) Concentration of administrative agencies is necessary to achieve the prompt and proper functioning of executive duties and powers. Duties being centralized, responsibility can neither be evaded nor shirked.

(4) Executive functions should be discharged by a single, responsible head, vested with plenary powers of supervision and control, and accountable to the Governor alone, and not by a multiple body; for it is individuals who do things, and not boards or commissions.

(5) Quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative functions are properly discharged by boards.

(6) Energy, unity and harmony of administration within a department can be secured by vesting its responsible head with authority to prescribe by rule the duties of subordinate officers and to direct and coordinate its varied activities.

(7) Energy, unity and harmony of administration as a whole can be secured by vesting in the Governor—the supreme head of all departments—absolute and immediate control of all heads of departments.

(8) The department heads should constitute the cabinet of the Governor, through whom, at all times, the Executive may be in intimate and immediate contact with all administrative activities.

(9) In the discharge of public functions, there should be no sinecures. Full time work and full time pay are necessary for efficient public service.

(10) For the economic and efficient administration of finances, expenditures must be supervised, criticised and controlled.

(11) The revenues of the State can be administered and appropriations made with intelligence, only with full knowledge of facts which can be secured through budgetary machinery.

(12) All materials and supplies for public offices and institutions should be provided through one central purchasing agency.

ORGANIZATION WITHIN DEPARTMENTS.

Such are the outstanding basic principles embodied in the Code under which the State governmental machinery of Illinois was reorganized on July 1, 1917. Divisions within the departments were organized as follows:

In the department of finance:

Tax commission.

In the department of agriculture:

Division of game and fish.

Division of foods and dairies.

Division of plant industry.

Division of animal industry.

Division of apary inspection.

Division of dairy extension.

In the department of labor:

Division of industrial commission.

Division of general advisory board free employment offices.

In the department of mines and minerals:

In the department of public works and buildings:

In the department of registration and education:

Division of registration.

Division of State museum.

Division of natural history survey.

Division of State water survey.

Division of State geological survey.

Division of normal schools.

Division of immigrants' commission.

The work of the quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative boards was assimilated to their respective departments. Under the Code each of such boards, in the discharge of its functions, is free from the control or supervision of the head of the department, but is subject to his control and supervision, as well as to that of the department of finance, insofar as its financial operations and expenditures are concerned. Several boards were so organized and have been so functioning.

The advisory boards were appointed shortly after the Code became effective. Their province is that of suggestion and advice and not of administration.

The form of governmental administration therefore was radically changed from the previously existing type of a highly disintegrated and decentralized organization. The transition occurred without confusion. The new order took the place of the old with the passing of a day, and without disturbing the ordinary processes of administration. The Code has been in successful operation for three and a half years. It has fully justified all the expectations of its friends. It can no longer be considered an experiment.

THE DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE.

Keystone of structure: One of the outstanding achievements accomplished under the Code is that of locating and correcting extravagance and incompetency. This was done through the department of finance.

This department is the keystone of the structure. It exercises two sets of powers: (1) It is charged with the general supervision of the finances of the State; and (2) it is required to prepare a budget.

Financial control: The department of finance was a new conception in our State government—and in that of government of any American state. Its function is to see that the government lives within its income, that unnecessary expenditures are checked, that unwise expenditures are prevented, and that policies of departments are controlled and coordinated. While other departments are imbued with the ambition to extend departmental activities, the department of finance occupies the position of sympathetic critic, proportioning expenditures so as to carry out all the administrative policies. By this means a wellbalanced administration, serving the needs of the whole State, is secured. Without it, expenditures are incapable of apportionment in accordance with the needs of the various branches of government.

Financial control occupies a large part in the activities of the department. The law charges it with the duty of examining and approving, or disapproving, of all bills, vouchers and claims against the other departments. This power compels other departments, not as a matter of law, but as a matter of administrative expediency, to consult the department of finance before any unusual expenditure is made and procure its advice. In order still further to promote coordination of expenditures as well as cooperation among departments, meetings of directors are held and financial as well as other policies are discussed. Investigations of the quantity and quality of materials and goods to be supplied, of the purpose and policy of expenditures, of the relative importance of the expenditures for various activities are made. The result of this procedure cannot be stated in dollars and cents. It does not appear upon any particular balance sheet. It is reflected in the general result, not only in unity and efficiency of administration, but in the tax levy, which, during times of mounting prices, has been reduced.

Standard accounts prescribed: Among other duties assigned to the department is that of prescribing and installing a uniform system of accounts. The task was no small one. The numerous disjointed and disconnected agencies of the government had diverse methods of accounting, both for receipts and for expenditures. Without precedent to guide, the department entered at once upon the pioneer work of constructing an accounting system for the State. Standard accounts were prescribed for all activities. These operating accounts, as modified and corrected by experience, are:

- (1) Salaries and wages.
- (2) Office expenses.
- (3) Travel.
- (4) Operation.
- (5) Working capital.

- (6) Repairs.
- (7) Equipment.
- (8) Permanent improvements.
- (9) Land.
- (10) Contingencies.
- (11) Reserve.

Appropriation methods defective: The standard accounts when first prescribed were difficult of operation for the reason that appropriations had been made without plan or consistency. Early in the administration, the operation of the Code disclosed that the appropriation methods of the State were seriously defective. They prevented the execution of sound fiscal management and control. The faults in these methods may be summarized as follows:

(1) The purposes for which money was appropriated were described in minute detail, thus preventing any elasticity, and resulting in waste and extravagance.

(2) Appropriations were made without recognition of the fact that the ordinary expenditures of government fall within a very definite and reasonable number of logical classification items.

(3) Appropriation acts contained no consistent scheme for certification and approval before vouchers were transmitted to the auditor of public accounts for payment.

These defects, and others less glaring, caused confusion in administration as well as waste in expenditures. The construction of appropriation acts was not clear. The control of accounts and expenditures, contemplated by the Code, was not as efficient as it should be. The first two years of administration demonstrated the necessity for a finance code.

The State finance code: The reasons for the enactment of such a code were placed before the General Assembly in 1919. The value of a measure of this kind was recognized. A finance code was promptly enacted, its salient provisions being as follows:

(1) The fiscal year was changed so as to commence on the first day of July instead of on the first day of October, in order to harmonize the fiscal with the appropriation year;

(2) The funds in the treasury, general and special, were classified and described;

(3) The officers by whom vouchers are to be approved were designated with certainty;

(4) The objects and purposes for which appropriations are made were classified and standardized to conform with the standard operating accounts evolved by the department of finance;

(5) The conditions under which the several appropriations are made were prescribed and the time when appropriations shall lapse was definitely fixed.

In 1919, the General Assembly made its appropriations in conformity with the provisions of the new finance code. The results have been eminently successful. It has made possible a better working basis, a more intelligent consideration of financial problems, and has created a system of checks and reports which have tended to a clearer and more careful understanding of the needs of the State.

Lump sum appropriations: The finance code has revolutionized appropriation methods. It has made possible lump sum appropriations. Except for salaries and wages, appropriations for the various activities of the State were made in 1919 under the standardized items enumerated and defined in the finance code. A further advance may be noted in that appropriations for the charitable and penal institutions are combined, the appropriation for salaries and wages being in a lump sum. Furthermore, in order to finance the industries maintained at a number of the State institutions, a revolving appropriation, authorized by the State finance code, was made, as a result of which the State is able to ascertain the financial condition attending the prosecution of such industries.

Reserve fund appropriation: Experience has demonstrated that appropriations to departments and officers for contingent expenses have a tendency to encourage waste. A department was without effective control of the application of the moneys so appropriated. The subject was brought to the attention of the General Assembly in 1919, and, in response to the suggestions of the department of finance, departmental appropriations for contingent expenses were limited to small amounts, and in place thereof, a reserve fund of $500,000, to be used for contingencies, was placed at the disposal of the department of finance. The plan has worked well. The appropriation has been rigidly protected, only $247,888.75 having been expended therefrom up to December 20, 1920.

Transfer of funds: An experience of two years convinced the administration that efficiency and economy would be promoted if funds appropriated for a given purpose for one institution might be transferred and used for the same purpose in another institution of a similar character. After all, the charitable institutions, while operating of necessity in various parts of the State, constitute a single unit, and are administered for a single purpose. Appropriations might well be made to the department of public welfare simply for "operating expenses," for instance, for charitable institutions. The experience of this department was laid before the General Assembly in 1919, resulting in an appropriation authorizing the transfer of funds set aside for one institution to be used for similar purposes in other institutions. Under industrial conditions prevalent during the last biennium, it would have been impossible to have operated the various State institutions without the elasticity afforded by this method of utilizing appropriations, or without a special session of the General Assembly. It enabled the State to increase salaries in order that experienced persons tempted by larger salaries elsewhere might be retained. Moreover, it made possible the application of the savings of one institution to the necessities of another. Conversely where such elasticity was lacking and appropriations were specified with too great detail, the State suffered the loss of valuable workers who might have been retained by relatively small salary advances. So satisfactory has this principle or policy of appropriation worked that it might well be extended to the normal schools and to other State activities.

Trade discount: The department of finance has been alert in availing itself of the advantage of trade discounts. Over $130,000 has been saved in cash discounts alone.

Public buildings: Through the power of investigation and financial control, the department early in its work, had its attention directed to the public buildings of the State. In cooperation with the department of public works and buildings, a survey of the buildings and mechanical equipment belonging to the State was made with a view to ascertaining their repair and replacement requirements. Keeping in close and intimate contact with the physical property of the State, needed repairs were made promptly, with the result that, on the whole, the public buildings are in good state of preservation.

Previous to the enactment of the Code, appropriations for new buildings and for repairs on old buildings, were made on a haphazard basis. Favored institutions received much, while needy institutions were frequently overlooked. Money intended for repairs often was used for new quarters and new appliances. Power plants, especially, were neglected.

The survey just completed shows the exact condition of all the State's property—of each building, its size, kind of construction, condition of the floors and roofs, plumbing and heating plants, plastering and painting. Everything of importance in connection with each structure has been set forth in detail and furnished to the department for budget use.

Recommendations now made to your Honorable Body for repairs and improvements on the thirty million dollars worth of buildings owned by the State are based upon a careful and technical survey of the properties.

Budgetary control: The power to supervise the financial operations of the State suggested budgetary control. Hence, the law makes it the duty of the department of finance to prepare and submit a State budget.

The old way was for each official who expended public money to make an estimate of what he desired and to submit that direct without revision by anyone. He always asked for what he needed, and usually for more, and therefore the General Assembly, no matter how earnestly it tried to meet its duty, had to guess at the amount of appropriations.

Illinois General Assemblies, as a rule, have not been wasteful or extravagant. They have appropriated money for governmental operations as they have been advised of the needs of the State. But appropriations were not based upon knowledge of the facts or upon a comprehension of the relative needs of State activities. There was no means of acquiring an intelligent and exact knowledge either of conditions or of needs. All this is changed by the budget plan. Appropriations now are based upon knowledge of facts. In the exercise of financial control, the department daily acquired familiarity with the needs—the actual needs, not the supposed needs—of every agency. It compared the expenditure of one institution with those of another similarly situated. It compared one activity with another. Cost accounts have been kept. A record and classification of revenue and expenditures has been maintained. Institutions have been visited and carefully inspected.

It will thus be seen that the budget in Illinois is prepared under the direction of that official who is responsible for the general supervision of the finances of the State. He is in constant contact with the administration of State affairs so far as finances are concerned. It is difficult to see how budgetary officers detach from general financial administration can acquire the information or have the prestige necessary for an intelligent budget. It is believed that the budgetary plan of Illinois is based upon the correct principle. Work on the budget now ready for submission to your Honorable Body has been in progress since July 1, 1919.

The results have been most gratifying. Weaknesses and extravagances have been revealed. Overhead expenses may be reduced to a minimum. Overlapping of duties and duplication of effort may be prevented. The relative needs of the various agencies are set forth in the light of experience.

The excellence of the first budget was attested by the fact that its recommendations were followed by the General Assembly in practically every instance. The second budget to be delivered by me to my successor in office, should be even more helpful because of the experience gained in the preparation of the first one.

Standardization of salaries: Early in my term of office the salary problem became pressing. Experience demonstrated that the method of fixing specific amounts for salaries for the performance of specific services was not conducive to sound administration. No latitude or elasticity was permitted. It was questionable whether a given employee legally could be assigned to duties other than those defined or implied in the clause making an appropriation for his salary. This defect in methods of salary appropriation, while important, was not the most serious. The defects which caused disorganization in personnel were the wide variance in amounts appropriated for the performance of duties of equal character and the lack of encouragement for competent and ambitious employees to advance in the public service. The system of detailed specific appropriations fettered the ambitious and efficient, and gave security to mediocrity and incompetence.

The principle of equal pay for equal services seems to be sound. But before this principle could be vitalized into appropriation acts or into administration, it became necessary to standardize and classify public employments according to duties and responsibilities. The department of finance entered upon this task. The problem was a tremendous one. It involved the consideration of a great mass of data. It was further complicated by the unusual situation presented by the World War. At the time of the convening of the last General Assembly sufficient data had not been procured, analyzed and classified upon which the department could with confidence make any specific recommendations for standardization and classification. The meager facts collected, together with tentative conclusions from such facts, were presented to the General Assembly in 1919, without, however, an insistence that legislation on the subject at that time be enacted.

The General Assembly, however, was impressed with the presentation then made and with the experience of lump sum appropriations heretofore made for salaries in the charitable institutions of the State, and accordingly extended the principle of such appropriations for salaries to the grants made to the University of Illinois, and to some other divisions of the State government.

As has previously been indicated, the results of appropriations of this character have been most gratifying. It has been pointed out that except for the lump sum appropriations made to the charitable and penal institutions, to the University of Illinois, and to other divisions, it would have been practically impossible, in the rapidly rising labor market, to have retained a sufficient number of employees to carry on the necessary work. The question of standardization of positions and salaries was regarded of such serious moment that provision was made by law for the appointment of a commission to work out some plan to provide equal pay for the same service and better opportunities for the faithful and intelligent employee. It is hoped that as a result of the labors of this commission, further progress may be made in the solution of this most perplexing problem.

State employment: The rule for classification, standardization, advancement and promotion in the State service must be prescribed by the General Assembly. Its administration must be committed to the executive department.

The operation of the law relative to employment in the State service, known as the civil service law, is now entrusted to a commission of three members. The functions of the execution of such a law are purely administrative. Its exercise demands prompt and vigorous action. Experience has shown that civil service laws may be administered with more energy and efficiency by a single head than by a commission. The principle of individual responsibility dominating the Code in other fields of administration raises the question whether it might not be made equally applicable to the conditions of State employment.

BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS.

Practical administration for four years has strongly confirmed my views as to the inutility of boards and commissions. Where duties are purely or largely ministerial, experience has shown that it is a man, not a body of men, who gets results. There are some who have assumed that large responsibility could be more safely vested in a body of men than in an individual. Experience has not justified this. Where the responsibility is upon the individual, he cannot shirk it. Where it is placed in a body of men, the individual can find shelter behind that body when called to account for the manner in which he has executed his power.

For the same reason there is a deadly inertia in a board or commission which is not so likely to be found in the individual. It is a true saying that "what is everybody's business is nobody's business." It is equally true that where several members of a board or commission have a given responsibility, no one of them feels that responsibility as keenly as though he bore it alone. Good and efficient public service makes it mandatory that responsibility be fixed definitely. Then only can a public official be held to a strict accountability. Responsibility can be definitely placed only if it be reposed in an individual.

EXECUTIVE COMMISSIONS UNDER THE CODE.

Executive commissions were retained in the Code only where they had quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative powers to discharge. In practice, however, administrative functions form a large part of the work of any board or commission.

If quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative boards are to be retained, a clear line of demarcation should be drawn on the one side of which the quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative powers of such board are placed and, on the other side, the executive functions. The true principle of administration is found in the amendment to the Code, made in 1919, creating the tax commission. In that amendment quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative powers only were committed to the tax commission, while all administrative duties pertaining to its work were devolved upon the head of the department of finance. There is here a separation of quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative powers from duties which are ministerial. The amendment of 1919 embodies the sound principle of government.

The time has come, however, to consider whether or not, in any case, even though there may be duties which are referred to as quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative, the principle of a board should be abandoned, and all the duties placed in an individual. All governmental experience is demonstrating that the diffusion of executive powers tends to weakness and inefficiency.

ADVISORY BOARDS.

It is true that there is wisdom in numbers, and it is likewise true that a man at the head of any great work likes the advice of other men. Acting upon the theory of cooperation on the part of citizens with public officials, the Code created advisory boards. The members receive no pay. Many of the most eminent people of the State are serving the public in this capacity. The result is, that the State has connection with the best thought and the best effort in the different lines of activity. As a matter of fact, members of advisory boards are frequently called into meeting, and their advice sought. They exert much influence upon the policies of departments. The creation of advisory boards, having no administrative powers, does not impinge upon the theory of individual responsibility for executive work.

SCIENTIFIC AND INVESTIGATORY DIVISIONS.

In the survey of State government made before the enactment of the Code, it was found that there were many scientific and investigatory agencies independent of any authority, and having circumscribed powers and duties. The General Assembly embodied in the Code a plan for their utilization. That plan, to borrow military language, is that of separation of the duties of the line from those of the staff, the line being the responsible, executive officials, and the staff being their scientific advisors. Hence the staff, consisting principally of scientific divisions, was assigned to the department of registration and education. In practice the theory of the Code has been demonstrated to be eminently sound. Scientific divisions during the last four years have been utilized by practically every department. For illustration, reference might be made to the close harmony and cooperation of these divisions with the department of agriculture in combatting insect pests, and in studying their habitat and methods of activity; with the department of public works and buildings through the topographical survey, in locating and estimating the extent and character of all available road building material of the State; with the Secretary of State in safeguarding the interests of the people in connection with "The Illinois Securities Law." Departments daily are calling upon the scientific bureaus for investigation, suggestion and advice. The scientific bureaus, being relieved of administrative responsibility, are rendering, and will continue to render, incalculable aid in administration.

COORDINATION AND COOPERATION.

The idea of coordination of work and cooperation between departments, embodied in the Code, has been frequently, if not daily applied. To recount all instances of such applications would involve a detailed review of the activities of the several departments.

CENTRALIZED PURCHASING AGENCY.

Before the enactment of the Code, each State activity was a law unto itself in the matter of purchasing materials and supplies. Millions of dollars were expended for those purposes, without any systematic policy. No reason was perceived why the State should not avail itself of the business methods employed by private institutions. Very wisely, therefore, the Code concentrated the purchasing power in a department.

The department of public works and buildings, through its division of purchases, during the last four years was subjected to as great, if not greater, strain than any other department.

Market conditions were chaotic. Scientific buying was out of the question. With no precedent to guide, the department was obliged to buy, no matter what the available supply or price.

Had the State not been able to function through a central purchasing agency during and immediately succeeding the war enormous sums would have been lost through unintelligent purchases. Without a central purchasing department, the State through its different agencies would have been competing against itself.

Three and half years' experience has demonstrated that centralized purchasing is a success. In favor of the provisions of the Code on this subject, it may be stated that:

(1) Centralized purchasing makes available to the State the services of experts in buying through coordination with the specialists of the several departments;

(2) Purchasing in large quantities instead of small secures uniformity of price and quality for the same article consumed in the different departments;

(3) It centralizes the point of contact between bidders and the State;

(4) It locates responsibility;

(5) It promotes the establishment of standards for various classes of supplies;

(6) The taking of cash discounts invites prompt deliveries, lower quotations, and reliable competition;

With the downward trend of prices for all commodities, a tremendous saving will result to the State by reason of the activities of the purchasing division.

LICENSING TRADES AND PROFESSIONS.

Prior to the enactment of the Code numerous trades, occupations and professions were licensed. Each had, for licensing and supervisory purposes, its separate board or commission. Each was independent of the other.

The Code made it the duty of the department of registration and education to exercise the functions previously performed by many boards and commissions. It was not deemed wise, however, to depart from the principle that each profession, trade or occupation should have its prospective members examined and their licenses revoked by the judgment of its own representative members. Hence, for purposes of licensure and revocation, committees of the respective professions, trades and occupations, designated from time to time by the department of registration and education, act. But all purely administrative and executive functions pertaining to the execution of the laws regulating professions, trades and occupations, are discharged by the department—an instance again of the separation of quasi-judicial or quasi-legislative functions and those purely ministerial.

THE CHARITABLE AND PENAL INSTITUTIONS.

A distinct advance was made in the conduct of the charitable institutions a few years ago when such institutions were placed under the jurisdiction of a single board of administration. A further distinct advance was made when these together with the correctional institutions, were placed in the department of public welfare, and their administration transferred to it. Experience has shown not only that the consolidation was wise but that the policy of committing administration to a department was conducive to better administration.

THE NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The earnest friends of the normal schools entertained considerable fear of the centralization of their administration into a single department. These fears have not been realized. Experience has demonstrated that the same policy by which the charitable and penal institutions were consolidated, is applicable with equal force to the normal schools. The same beneficial results have been attained through such consolidation. Unity for administrative purposes has been secured without interfering with the individuality of the several institutions.

THE WAR AND THE CODE.

In my last biennial message I said of the Code:

"It seems to me almost providential that it should have been enacted into law before war actually came. A large number of the State's most expert officials and employees were drawn upon by the government at Washington because of the exigencies of the war. The same difficulties arose in the conduct of public business, which vexed private business so much. There was necessarily much confusion. The cost of all supplies rose rapidly. Unless the more than hundred scattered agencies, which had existed theretofore, had been welded by the Civil Administrative Code into a compact and coordinate government, anything like efficient State government, during these difficult times, would have been impossible. Illinois, through the greater elasticity and efficiency of her new form of government, was able to meet every emergency of the war without an extraordinary session of her Legislature."

In that message, I did not emphasize as fully as I should the important part played by the organization provided by the Code. The elasticity and flexibility of the organization permitted the whole power of all governmental agencies to be thrown at once upon any critical problem as it arose. In time of war, not only quick decisions must be made, but quick action taken. Through the instrumentality afforded the government by the Code organization, such acts were possible.

RESPONSIBLE AND RESPONSIVE GOVERNMENT A FACT.

Responsible and responsive government has become an accomplished fact under "The Civil Administrative Code." The smallest activity of the State relates itself directly to the Governor's office under the system of organization by departments with individuals at their head. The great desideratum in government, that for every dollar expended the people should receive a dollar's worth of service, has been more nearly secured, it is believed, than ever before. Of course, under any scheme of government that may be evolved, the quality of those who administer will determine whether good, efficient and economical administration is obtained or not. There is no form of government known to man which is self-executing. All that is claimed for the Administrative Code is that responsive and responsible government can be had under it if the officials so will.

FINANCIAL RESULTS OF THE CODE.

The enactment of the Code is justified by the financial results alone. The cost of everything increased tremendously during the last few years, and yet, notwithstanding that, the tax rate has been twice reduced. In 1917 it was fixed at 90 cents on the hundred dollars; in 1918, it was reduced to 75 cents.

In 1919, the basis of taxation having been changed from one-third to one-half of the cash value, the tax rate was again reduced, to 40 cents on the hundred dollars, which was equivalent to 60 cents upon the former basis of taxation. In 1920, the rate was again fixed at 40 cents. The department of finance estimates that this rate, considering the other income of the State, will be ample to raise revenue to meet all expenses until July 1, 1922.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF STATE.

The financial condition of Illinois is excellent. Upon January 1, 1917, there was in the treasury in the general revenue fund, $307,660.74; against this there were outstanding warrants amounting to $307,131.92; therefore the available cash in the general revenue fund was $528.82; besides, there were many claims against the treasury for which warrants had not been issued. On January 1, 1918, or a year later, there was in the same fund (less outstanding warrants) $4,734,316.20; on January 1, 1919, there was (less outstanding warrants) $15,326,261.90, and on January 1, 1921, there was (less outstanding warrants) $15,132,658.03.

The question naturally arises whether there is need to carry so large a balance. The answer is that there remains six months of the fiscal year for which appropriations have already been made, which must be paid in large part from this fund. For, though the proceeds of the general property tax begin to be realized in April, such receipts are properly applicable only to the fiscal year beginning July 1 following.

ADDITIONAL SOURCES OF REVENUE.

Corporation franchise tax: At the last session of the General Assembly, provision was made for a franchise tax on corporations. This tax yields to the State approximately three million dollars annually instead of something like fifty thousand dollars formerly collected from these companies.

Insurance privilege tax. It had never been the policy of this State to levy a tax upon the gross premiums of insurance companies received from Illinois policy holders by non-resident insurance companies doing business in this State. It had always been urged by those companies that it was not sound public policy to levy such taxes and thereby discourage insurance. It was found, however, upon an examination of the practice of other states, that Illinois was almost the only state in the Union not levying such taxes, except where insurance companies formed an important industry in the state, such as New Jersey, and Connecticut and where therefore the state derived directly large revenues from the insurance business. It was thus seen that Illinois policy holders in such companies were contributing to the revenues of almost every state except their own. This was not deemed fair to Illinois. A law was therefore enacted in 1919 by which an annual privilege tax of 2 per cent was levied upon the gross amount of premiums received from Illinois policy holders in such companies. Under the system heretofore obtaining, there was collected from such companies during the calendar year 1918, $639,996.87. Under the present direct privilege tax during the year 1920, there was collected $2,327,289.02. This is no injustice to any one and only puts Illinois on a parity with other states.

IMPORTANCE OF TAXATION POLICIES.

There is no question but that the whole industrial structure of the future of our country is directly related to the question of taxation. In fact, when we talk about readjustment, I do not see how we can begin getting back to a normal basis—I do not see how we can handle intelligently a single one of the problems of readjustment—until we have dealt as effectively as we can with the subject of taxation. The problems of national taxation are more acute than those of State taxation. But State taxation problems are none the less important.

TAXATION PRINCIPLES RIGID.

The principles of the ad valorem tax are written rigidly into our Constitution. It is earnestly to be hoped that the Constitutional Convention may provide a scheme whereby the General Assembly will be given more latitude in the matter of providing revenues for the State.

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION ABOLISHED.

While the principles of taxation are rigidly prescribed by the Constitution, prohibiting the General Assembly from meeting taxation problems in the light of commercial and economic conditions, yet the Constitution does not prescribe the administrative agencies through which taxes may be assessed. In my last biennial message, I said:

"One of the imperative needs of the time is a general revision of our revenue laws, with radical changes in our taxing machinery. Taxation has become an intricate and complex science. A State Board of Equalization, however high its motives, finds itself ill equipped to deal with these questions. The more advanced states have already abandoned this method of taxation. With the best that they can do, the assessments they fix are merely guesses and inequality in taxation is the rule and not the exception.

"I believe that the State Board of Equalization should be abolished. Its functions should be devolved upon a central department with plenary powers of supervision and control which, with the assistance of men trained and expert on the subject of taxation and devoting their whole time to their duties, may secure a just and equitable assessment of property."

The recommendations were followed, the State Board of Equalization was abolished and its functions were devolved upon a tax commission, consisting of three members, assigned to the department of finance.

THE TAX COMMISSION.

The enactment of the law creating the tax commission was the first step in the consolidation and unification of our cumbersome tax machinery. In process of time local township assessors will be abolished, as were local township collectors, and in their places will be substituted an officer with larger territorial jurisdiction, preferably a county assessor, responsible to and under the supervision of the tax commission.

However, the first step was taken in the enactment of the tax commission law whereby the commission is made the advisor of local assessing authorities. The result will naturally ensue that, from time to time, local authorities will lean more heavily upon the central commission, and the transformation from a highly decentralized system to a moderately centralized one will be made gradually and naturally.

The Tax Commission assumed the powers of the old State Board of Equalization, with the additional power to order the reassessment of property. Like the old board, it has no assessment powers except as to the capital stock of certain corporations and a portion of the property of railroads. It equalizes the valuation of property as between counties or assessment districts.

In undertaking to fix the assessment of capital stock of corporations, the commission found that, of 1,232 corporations in Cook County assessed by the former Board of Equalization, only 726 paid any tax. There were 506 corporations assessed which were defunct. The investigation then begun has resulted in the compiling of an accurate list of live corporations, including both those under the jurisdiction of the commission and those whose capital stock should be assessed by local taxing authorities. The names of defunct corporations have been stricken from the list and, as a result, the percentage of taxes returned as uncollected has been materially reduced. For the first time in many years, the State is able to tax corporations upon an intelligent basis.

Names of mercantile and manufacturing corporations, coal mines, newspapers, and live stock companies, whose capital stock as well as tangible property must be assessed by local officials have been furnished by the commission to the supervisor of assessments and the county clerk in each county. In many instances the capital stock of these corporations was assessed in 1920 for the first time.

The full value of all the property in the State returned for tax purposes in 1919 showed an increase of $332,076,656 over the amount returned in 1918 under the board of equalization. Much of this increase was due to careful equalizing of assessments.

Through its investigators, the Tax Commission is securing statistics in the various counties showing the assessed value of real estate as compared with the actual sale value of the same property. This information is being used in the equalizing of assessments or for the purpose of ordering reassessments where deemed essential. The data will cover a period of five years beginning with 1917 so that the valuation may be estimated on an average valuation for that period.

When the State Tax Commission came into being, it found the grossest inequality of assessment in the different counties of the State. In some the cash value was as low as 30 per cent of the actual value and in others as high as 70 per cent. That meant that in some sections people were paying more than twice as much to the support of the State government in proportion to their wealth as those living in others. The commission began at once to correct these inequalities. Equality of taxation is the primary test of any system. People do not object to paying reasonable taxes for the support of their government, provided they are assured that their fellow-citizens are bearing a like just share of the burden.

In arriving at the value of railroad property for assessment purposes, the commission makes use of the valuations fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the reports on file with the Public Utilities Commission.

The commission also is rendering excellent service in instructing local taxing authorities. Conferences have been held with many of these since the commission was established and a uniform system of assessment is being worked out.

THE REVENUES AND THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

The response of the State to the demand following the widespread quickened interest in education was prompt and generous. In order that the people who pay the taxes might themselves make local adjustments, the General Assembly enacted a law authorizing the school districts of the State to increase their rates of taxation for educational purposes one-third without submitting the question of such increase to popular vote, and authorizing an increase up to double the original rate, if approved by the people of the district. Furthermore, the proceeds of the State tax levy were so apportioned as between educational purposes and other State activities as to secure a notable advance.

In 1917 a little over 70 cents of each dollar of the State tax levy went into the revenue fund which is used for general State purposes, while a little over 28½ cents went into the educational fund. In 1919 only 35 cents from each dollar of the State tax levy was used for general State purposes, while 57½ cents went into the educational fund. In a comparison of the years mentioned, it is thus seen that of every dollar of the State taxes paid last year twice as much went into the various educational funds as in 1917, and only half as much was used for general State purposes. When it is recalled in addition that the 57½ cents of each dollar of the general taxes for 1920 devoted to educational purposes did not include appropriations for the normal schools, the vocational educational system, the education of the deaf, blind and delinquents, and the expense of the operation of the department of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the generosity of the State to education in recent years appears all the more evident.

SPECIAL TAX FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

The law, popularly called "the mill tax" for the maintenance of the University of Illinois, was believed by the friends of the University at the time of its enactment a measure which would amply provide for its development and support. The growth of the University has been so rapid that this rate will no longer meet its needs. Either the rate should be increased sufficiently to maintain the University, or it should be abolished altogether and the University supported from the general revenues of the State. The University of Illinois has gone forward so rapidly that it has now become one of the foremost educational institutions of the world.

THE STATE AND THE ALIEN.

During the war America awoke to the fact that it had received millions of the foreign-born into the body politic without taking any steps to make these millions understand American institutions and without much effort to make them acquainted with the English language. That this was a menace to our future was at once realized by all intelligent observers. Under the stimulus of the war, steps were taken, by cooperation between employers and public officials, to correct this condition. Many of our teachers, at great sacrifice, contributed largely to this work. Through adult citizenship schools, conducted for the most part at night, rudiments in English were acquired and lessons in citizenship taught. While the last General Assembly enacted a compulsory continuation school law, whereby children under eighteen years of age, and not graduates of a high school, will ultimately be compelled to attend school during at least eight hours a week, yet immigrants may enter our industrial and political life without any preparation for the duties of citizenship.

The duty primarily rests upon the Federal government, chargeable with the subject of immigration, to follow up the immigrants, or at least to supervise their education and Americanization, and then to confer citizenship upon those only who have proven themselves worthy of it. This, however, the Federal government has neglected to do in any adequate way. It is a Federal function primarily because the Federal government, of course, is supreme over all questions of immigration. Besides, the State in itself cannot adequately protect itself, for the reason that a large proportion of the foreign immigrants is mobile—moving from one state to another.

Because the Federal government had made no adequate provision for the immigrant, the State, through the Immigrants' Commission, authorized by the last General Assembly, undertook to supply the need. This commission, assigned as an advisory body to the Department of Registration and Education, has been organized and has carried on several important investigations. Until the Federal government assumes the performance of the duties now discharged by the Immigrants' Commission, its work should be continued.

HIGHWAYS.

During the last few years, Illinois has entered upon an ambitious project for the construction and maintenance of highways. In the main it is contemplated that these highways shall be permanent, and shall be durable hard-surfaced roads. Three separate classes of highways are authorized to be constructed by the State, as follows:

(1) Highways constructed from the proceeds of the bond issue of sixty million dollars, authorized by vote of the people in 1918:

(2) State-aid roads, constructed in conjunction with the several counties of the State which meet the requirements of the law as to financial assistance; and

(3) Federal-aid roads, constructed jointly by the Federal and State authorities, and paid for equally by both authorities.

The above classification is made by law for administrative purposes only. As a matter of fact, Federal-aid roads have been constructed wholly upon highways included within the system of State bond highway. Many State-aid highways are also included within this system.

The work outlined in the act providing for a State bond issue for roads is comprehensive, contemplating the construction of highways crossing and recrossing the State, and of about forty-eight hundred miles in length.

Of the appropriation made in 1917 for State-aid roads, a balance remained unexpended in 1919, which was re-appropriated. It was thought by the department that it would be impossible advantageously to expend more than such amounts because of the extensive program already decided upon for the construction of roads provided for in the Bond Issue Act and in conjunction with the Federal government.

Federal aid of highways was agreed upon between the Federal and State authorities in 1917 for the following highways:

The National Old Trails Road, extending from the Indiana line near Terre Haute, Indiana, to East St. Louis;

The Lincoln Highway, from Chicago to Clinton, Iowa;

The Dixie Highway, from Chicago to Danville;

The Chicago-East St. Louis road, from Chicago, through Joliet, Ottawa, LaSalle, Peoria and Springfield to East St. Louis; and

The Chicago-Waukegan Road, from Chicago, through Waukegan to the Wisconsin State line.

Considering the adverse conditions under which the Department of Public Works and Buildings labored in 1919 and 1920, the showing made of completed roads of all classes is remarkable. Before contracts were let in 1919, a conference with material men was held. They were advised that whether or not road building was undertaken by the State would depend largely upon their willingness to cooperate by making reasonable prices. They met the department fairly. Contracts were let by the State department and by counties, under the supervision of the department, for a substantial mileage at an average price of $32,000 per mile. Work was begun at once and pressed vigorously.

Unexpected obstacles developed. The strike of railroad shopmen, the coal strike, and the switchmen's strike, together with the rulings of the Car Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, deprived contractors of transportation facilities. For the reasons mentioned, the delivery of road building material was seriously curtailed in 1919. Even with this handicap, 189 miles of road were completed that year.

It was expected that more favorable conditions would prevail in 1920. Plans and specifications for an additional 1,000 miles of road were prepared. It became apparent that contracts for new construction would necessarily be made at increased cost. Bids for new construction in 1920 averaged $44,000 per mile. Road building conditions, instead of improving had constantly become worse, this being true particularly of transportation. It was evident that all that could be accomplished in the way of highway construction in 1920 would be the completion of roads already under contract. It was deemed, therefore, the part of wisdom to defer the letting of new contracts until those under way should approach completion, except for small sections on through highways already under contract.

Time has fully justified this course. The completion of the roads contracted for was pushed with full vigor. Material men were urged to provide supplies. Railroad executives were urged to furnish transportation facilities. Both material men and railroads cooperated. And yet, after making every possible effort towards the completion of the contracts for hard surfaced roads, the season of 1920 ended with 198 miles unfinished.

Illinois notwithstanding this built 341 miles in 1920 and built more miles of modern, high class roads in 1919 and 1920 than any other state, except possibly Pennsylvania.

With the roads already constructed and the one hundred and ninety-eight miles already under contract and which can be completed without the issue of any bonds, there will be more than 800 miles of the State Bond Issue System, or more than one-sixth of that system, constructed without resorting to the issue of bonds. Included in this construction will be two first-class hard roads across the State from east to west, one from Chicago north to the Wisconsin line, one south from Chicago to connect with the National Trail at Marshall, and one southwesterly and southerly from Chicago through Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, and Springfield, to East St. Louis.

The utility of good roads has passed beyond the realm of discussion. The problem is now one of construction. So popular have hard roads become that the people are severely critical of any unnecessary delays. In view of this fact, the completion of Federal-aid and State-bond-aid roads, together with State-aid roads, will be pushed with vigor.

ROAD PATROL.

Several hundred miles of modern roads have been completed, and many hundred miles more soon will be added. This means not only better and cheaper transportation for rural communities, but it also exposes them to injuries by the lawless. For, with the automobile and the modern road, the criminal may now commit his depredations in a rural community with greatly increased chance of escape. The time has come, therefore, when a rural police force is greatly needed in Illinois. There are additional reasons for such a force. The State system of good roads must be patrolled to see that the State law with reference to speed and with reference to the kind of truck that may be used under the law shall be enforced. This State force could also inspect such roads, reporting promptly any slight defect which by neglect might result in serious injury to the roads. It also could discover those who are using cars and trucks without license, and thus add greatly to the receipts of the State from this source. The Secretary of State estimates that a half million dollars annually might be recovered by such a patrol. Indeed it is not too much to expect that such a force might save directly to the State what it would cost to maintain it, to say nothing of the greater security afforded to the lives and property of our people. I, therefore, strongly urge the creation of such a force.

LOCAL ROAD ADMINISTRATION.

Our system of highway administration, like many other administrative agencies, is highly diffused and decentralized. Until a few years ago the township was the only unit. The tendency, however, during the last few years, has been towards centralized administration. The first step was taken in the creation of a highway commission. It acted simply as the adviser of the local authorities. Out of the experience of the highway commission came a revision of the Road and Bridge Act, and the system of State-aid roads. The institution of this system forcibly suggested wider local administration and hence a county highway engineer was provided for. Finally in 1917, the number of highway commissioners was reduced from three to one. All these laws have been steps in the right direction, but they do not go far enough. In these days of automobile transportation, the township has become relatively smaller than was a section of land when the law providing for township highway commissioners was enacted. For modern purposes, a road wholly within the township begins nowhere and leads nowhere. It is also true that such fragmentary roads as are built under authority of township commissioners are not kept in proper repair. The building of good roads necessitates their maintenance. Maintenance is practically only by such supervision as the county and the State authorities can give them. There is nothing to which the old adage "a stitch in time saves nine" applies more emphatically than to the repair of roads.

I, therefore, recommend that township commissioners be abolished and that their powers be transferred to a larger unit of administration. The county, not the township, is the natural unit for road construction and maintenance, and, if the constitution does not make it impracticable, it should be the unit for road administrative purposes.

THE ILLINOIS WATERWAY.

If unforeseen contingencies do not arise, the Illinois waterway should be an accomplished fact within three years.

In 1908 the people voted in favor of a bond issue of $20,000,000 for the construction of a waterway from Lockport to Utica. In 1913 a waterway act was passed which, on account of the objections urged against it by Federal authorities, was found to be inadequate. Based upon experience under the act of 1913, a comprehensive waterway act was enacted in 1919.

At the same time an act was passed providing for the issue of bonds of the State to the amount of $20,000,000, and another act was passed appropriating the proceeds of the sale of the bonds for the construction of the waterway.

Upon the passage of this act preliminary maps and plans were prepared. Formal application was made to the United States Chief of Engineers for approval, and to the Secretary of War for a permit for construction. Many conferences were had between the State officials and the officials of the Federal government. Data and minor details were from time to time furnished the Federal authorities, at their request. Conferences and negotiations delayed governmental action. On January 6, 1920, a permit for construction was issued by the Secretary of War. This permit contained conditions not satisfactory to the State. A further hearing was had, which resulted in changing and modifying the permit, this being done under date of March 6, 1920.

Preparation of detailed plans was commenced immediately and was pushed energetically. The first plans completed were for a lock and auxiliary channel at Marseilles. In November plans for the lock and foundation for the dam at Starved Rock were completed. Plans for a dam and lock at Dresden Island are nearly completed and the other plans are well under way.

Between Marseilles and Starved Rock most of the necessary land has been procured by agreement with the owners. Above Marseilles, although negotiations for the necessary land and dam sites have been carried on for a considerable length of time, no substantial progress has been made. It is now evident that it will be necessary for the State to acquire riparian rights by condemnation.

A contract for the lock and auxiliary channel at Marseilles has been let at a price slightly above the engineer's estimate. The bids for the lock and the foundation for the dam at Starved Rock were excessively high. There were only two bidders, one bid being about $500,000 and the other about $2,000,000 over the engineer's estimate. Both bids were rejected.

In June, 1920, the district court of the United States entered a decree restricting the flow of water to be taken from Lake Michigan by the Sanitary District of Chicago to 4,167 cubic feet per second, as fixed in the original temporary permit issued to the Sanitary District by the Secretary of War. Even if this decree shall be affirmed, the result will not in any manner interfere with the navigation of the waterway.

A problem of increasing importance closely associated with waterway work is presented in the pollution of streams by sewage disposal of municipalities, as well as by the discharge of waste from industries. Many streams of the State, in addition to the Illinois river, which for years afforded opportunity for fish propagation and yielded food products worth large amounts annually are so polluted and defiled that all fish life has been killed. How to ameliorate this condition is a problem to which great attention is now being given by the Division of Waterways.

A PROFITABLE AGRICULTURE.

The recent radical decline in the prices of farm products—in many instances below the cost of production—emphasizes the need and importance of cooperation between agricultural interests, either in the form of farm bureaus, which at this time are voluntary organizations, or otherwise. While farm bureaus should be generously encouraged, yet they derive their great vitality from the fact that they are, in the main, supported by the farmers themselves, and thus are removed from any suspicion of ulterior interest of any party or faction. Through the efforts of these farm bureaus, the farmers are materially assisted in a better agriculture, in the purchase of supplies and in the marketing of their products.

It is generally recognized that something must be done to stabilize the price of farm commodities and to prevent such price from falling below the cost of production. Agriculture is still our great fundamental industry.

Unless it flourishes nothing prospers. Let the price which the farmer receives for his output continue below the cost of production for any considerable length of time and the volume of farm produce will fall below the needs of the nation, and prices will become abnormally high. Therefore, the consumer is no less interested than the producer in a profitable agriculture.

FARM TENANTRY.

I directed the attention of the last General Assembly to the constantly increasing number of farms tilled by tenants. Such a condition is not wholesome for the country. There is no better measure of the real strength of our nation than the number of homes owned by their occupants. This is particularly true as applied to the farm. A commission to investigate and report upon this subject was authorized at the last session of the General Assembly. That commission was appointed. It has held many hearings in different parts of the State and has formulated a report which will be submitted to your Honorable Body for consideration.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE.

To the Department of Labor has been committed the delicate task of administering the laws involving the relations between employer and employee. This task was rendered the more difficult on account of the abnormal conditions through which the country has just passed when their relations were strained to the utmost. Unwise administration would have been a menace to our industrial structure.

The policy was adopted, therefore, of keeping in close and intimate contact with both employer and employee and of urging that a spirit of fairness, justice and right should prevail in all controversies.

Employers and representatives of labor were brought into council with State officers. Illinois inaugurated the movement to "settle the strike before it begins." In a series of meetings both employers and workers were assured that each would have a "square deal"—but not at the expense of the other. The spirit of conciliation prevailing numerous conferences of this type permeated the State.

When the Administrative Code was enacted the old State Board of Arbitration was abolished and its duties were transferred to the Industrial Commission. That body was created to fix compensation to injured employees, under the compensation act. It was composed of five members, two of whom were required to be selected from the employer class and two from the employee class, with the chairman representing the public. It was thought that being already engaged in adjusting compensation between employer and employee, sitting constantly for that purpose, it would be in a better position to gain the confidence of parties to a strike than would a body constituted for the sole purpose of mediation and conciliation. Experience had demonstrated that, though composed of representatives of both employer and employee, they rarely, if ever, divided their judgments upon that line. Results secured have abundantly justified expectations.

The law permits "advisory intervention" only in case of strikes and then only upon the consent of the parties to allow the State mediator and conciliator to intervene. Two mediators were provided for and appointed to act under the general direction of the industrial commission. Seventy-four strikes involving 62,360 men have been settled to the satisfaction of both parties through such intervention. More strikes have been amicably avoided and adjusted through its efforts in the three and a half years since the powers of the old State Board of Arbitration were transferred to it than by the old board in the more than twenty-two years of its existence.

LIMITATION OF HOURS FOR WOMEN WORKERS.

In my inaugural address and in messages to the General Assembly since. I called your attention to the need for further limiting of the hours of labor for women. Under our laws, women are permitted to work ten hours a day. By your authority a commission was appointed by me in 1917 to investigate and report upon this subject. This commission, composed of men and women in every way competent, made a report, finding that eight hours work a day was all that women could safely do, and recommending legislation so limiting the hours of work. The hours of labor and the working conditions for women should be such as not to prevent them from becoming the mothers of strong, vigorous children if our future is to be secure. Again, I urge that legislation be enacted restricting the hours for women in this State.

CONSERVATION.

The great principle of conservation has had abundant illustration in administration during the last four years. It has found expression in measures for the protection of life, property and products. The several departments, either working with their own forces or in cooperation with other agencies organized for similar endeavor or particularly interested in a special field, have accomplished much.

Careful attention has been given to the repair and upkeep of the State parks and substantial improvements have been made in connection with the monuments and historic places. Among these may be mentioned the old State capitol at Vandalia, title to which was acquired under the provisions of a law enacted by the last General Assembly. A marked betterment has been made at Douglas Monument Park and a custodian has been placed in charge, so that it may hereafter be properly maintained. Fort Chartres has been partially restored. Starved Rock State Park, by reason of the care and attention given to it, is becoming each year more popular as a resort. Old Salem State Park has been taken over by the State and the erection of a new dam at that point is well under way. The collections of the State Museum of Natural History have been enriched through the addition of several notable monumental groups, through well selected and exceptionally valuable exhibits relating to the World War, and through an unusual increment of miscellaneous material illustrative of Illinois natural history and archaeology.

Through the cooperation of the Department of Agriculture and of Registration and Education with interested citizens, energetic efforts have been made to check the ravages of insect pests and the destructive effects of plant growths such as the flag smut on wheat. Investigations have also been furthered seeking to find ways by which the streams of the State may be protected from pollution and their fish and vegetable life preserved. Steps have been taken looking to the protection of the existing forests of Illinois and toward the ultimate forestation of those areas in the State better adapted to tree planting than to any other form of production.

Important as such things are, when economic values are considered, of far greater concern are the measures which have been taken to safeguard human life. The Department of Mines and Minerals through rigid inspection has reduced the death rate from mine disasters in Illinois to an exceptionally low figure. The Department of Labor has sought constantly for those protective features connected with employment which make for better sanitation and increased longevity. The Department of Registration and Education has enforced the various practice acts relating to trades, occupations and professions, with vigor. It has toned up the practice in several professions through closer supervision of those holding licenses. It has established and put into effect the principle of a qualifying certificate as a prerequisite of admission into a professional school. It has carried on more rigid inspection of professional schools, all these measures cooperating to safeguard the interests of the people. The Department of Public Health has directed and stimulated the work of many health agencies, and through cooperation and coordination has avoided wasteful duplication of effort. In combatting communicable diseases, and particularly two epidemics of influenza, in establishing clinics for the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis and for the physical reconstruction of crippled children, and in the encouragement of health work in local communities, the department through modern preventive medicine has worked steadily toward the decrease of morbidity and mortality in Illinois.

PUBLIC WELFARE.

The accomplishments of the Department of Public Welfare have practically worked a complete revolution in methods of administration of the dependent, delinquent and defective classes of our people. In my inaugural address I pointed out that the defectives of society were increasing in number in proportion to the entire population, and that if this increase were to continue indefinitely we should some day reach a point where the burden of caring for them would be too heavy to be borne. I urged, therefore, the necessity of discovering and applying preventive and curative methods. This has been the constant aim of the Department of Public Welfare. The outstanding evidence of progress in this direction is the great State hospital for education and research, now building in Chicago, under a practical cooperating agreement between the State University College of Medicine and the Department of Public Welfare by means of which all of the State's facilities for study and investigation into the leading incapacitating diseases are directed at the vital point of rehabilitation and of prevention. This cooperative plan between these two important functions is something new in the country and is attracting attention of all states. New hospitals and colonies have been opened, organized and filled to capacity. Occupational therapy has been established on a comprehensive basis to restore mental patients to clean, profitable existence, and social science has been organized to return mental patients to free life and to sustain them there. The ideal of State charitable service has been to furnish the mentally sick a hospital service comparable with that provided the physically sick in a private hospital of general admission; to transform these big institutions to the character of a simple community; to educate, train and correct the wayward child and to insure to the waif the chances and pleasures in life that are inseparable from the natural home. Outpatient mental clinics have been established at a number of points and have met with instant favor on the part of the public. A special surgical service has been organized to provide for every inmate requiring such attention. Better organization, training and supervision of the blind, both juvenile and adult, has been achieved. A comprehensive penal system has been inaugurated for the State. There has been rigid discrimination among prisoners with the definite purpose of aiding the large number who may be saved to society and to useful endeavor. Toward this end a progressive merit system has been instituted and developed. A modern prison, built on most approved lines, is in process of construction. The parole has been employed with such wisdom that its administration has received the praise of all interested authorities.

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

The Public Utilities Commission, now within the jurisdiction of the Department of Trade and Commerce, was established under an act of the General Assembly effective January 1, 1914. During its first four years it is estimated that, by reduction in rates made with its approval, it saved to the patrons of public utilities in this State, $5,825,000. This was accomplished in spite of the outbreak of the World War and the subsequent American participation. During practically the entire period of its existence the commission has been compelled to solve not only the usual problems which concern an enterprise newly created, but also extraordinary problems of an ever changing character. The effect of the war in its relation to public utilities was not seriously felt during the first few months that it raged, but soon the prices of materials increased, the price of coal advanced, the cost of the necessities of life increased, and correspondingly carried with it the price of labor, all of which vitally affected both construction and operation costs. The commission was called upon in many instances, particularly after the declaration of war by the United States, to increase the rates charged for the services rendered by the public utilities if they were to continue efficiently to function in the performance of their duties to the public. Contrary to all expectations the cessation of hostilities in November, 1918, did not retard the advance in prices, but they continued to increase until a very recent period. There are now many indications that the peak in prices has been reached and that in the absence of unusual disturbances they will gradually approach the level of prices obtaining prior to the war. Should this prediction prove to be correct we may reasonably expect that, so far as rates are concerned, the time of the commission will be as fully occupied in the near future in passing upon applications for the reduction of rates as in the past two years it has been in hearing applications for increases. Were the power to regulate rates by commission abandoned at this time, schedules would be left in effect for an indefinite period, which for the most part, were fixed at a time when the peak in prices of labor, materials and supplies entering into the cost of production was reached.

ILLINOIS AND THE WAR.

During the past four years there has been fought the great World War. The citizenship of Illinois may point with commendable pride to the record of our State in this war. Our total registration was 1,575,932; our total induction 188,010. The additional voluntary enlistments in the National Guard, Army, Navy and Marines were sufficient to raise the grand total of enlistment and inductions in this State to the number of 351,153. The fine achievement of the two thousand and fifty-five citizens functioning as board members under the Adjutant General in the operation of the Selective Service Act will be appreciated when it is considered that they were called from their business vocations to do work for which there was no precedent and which was begun without time for study and preparation; when their success in quickly familiarizing themselves with the technical details involved in the coordinate work necessary in the critical task confronting them is remembered; and when the unexpected length of their time of service, their faithfulness in the discharge of their duties, and the tremendous volume of work they accomplished are recognized.

With the call into Federal service of the National Guard of the State at the beginning of the war it became at once necessary to provide for a military establishment within the State to preserve order so essential to Illinois' great share in winning the war. This necessity met with the immediate response of patriotic citizens. Illinois was the first State in the Union to have an organized and equipped military force for home protection following our entry into the war. These organizations functioned in such manner throughout the war as to call forth the highest commendation and expression of appreciation. The efficiency of this force may be measured by the fact that it successfully met every call to active duty and its very presence during these troublous days made it possible for Illinois to conduct its affairs in an orderly fashion without having to call upon the Federal government for assistance as was the case in some of our sister states.

The public mind of the State was organized for every war need through the State Council of Defense which was established by an act of the General Assembly as a part of the national program for carrying on the war. This council was authorized

- (1) To cooperate with and assist the Council of National Defense in the performance of all its duties, then existing or afterwards imposed.

- (2) To cooperate with councils of defense of other states.

- (3) To carry out within Illinois such plans of national defense as might be mutually agreed upon by the Council and the Council of National Defense.

- (4) To recommend to the Governor and the General Assembly laws necessary to the common defense of the public welfare.

Through the various activities of this Council hundreds of thousands of our citizens were affected. The contributions to various war aid and relief organizations made by our people exceeded $45,000,000. The subscriptions to Government needs through the purchase of bonds and war savings stamps aggregated $1,650,000,000. The Council may be said to have set the pace for other state councils and for the Federal government itself in respect to the following:

(1) Declaration for Federal control of basic commodities, especially food, fuel and transportation.

(2) Intensive cultivation of patriotism by neighborhoods and communities as represented by the Council's Neighborhood Committee.

(3) Fostering the beginnings of the Four Minute Men.

(4) Development of a definite food production program for the entire State.

(5) The seed corn campaign which saved the Illinois corn crop of 1918 and helped other states.

(6) Definite promotion of, and cooperation with, the U. S. Boys' Working Reserve and formation of farm labor bureaus to insure both the planting and harvesting of the great war crop of 1918.

(7) Organized effort by states and lesser units to conserve money, materials and man power for the necessities of essential war industries.

(8) Providing machinery for supplying shorthanded Federal government departments with sorely needed civilian help, particularly the technically trained.

(9) Coordination of highway transport by motor truck with inter-urban electric lines.

(10) Definite utilization of the Fourth of July for patriotic and Americanization purposes.

(11) Coordination and cooperation—Complete team work—among all organizations doing any kind of legitimate war work in Illinois under either the Council or other recognized authority.

The several departments cooperated heartily in the support of the nation. The Department of Public Health rendered valuable aid in creating the medical personnel of exemption boards for the selective draft; in policing and assuming sanitary supervision of the zones surrounding the several camps and cantonments within the State; in securing examination, care and treatment for hundreds of returned tuberculous soldiers before any other relief agencies were ready to function; and in giving to the Federal service technicians capable and ready to assume responsible posts over seas. The Department of Registration and Education through its scientific surveys made thorough investigations of the mineral resources of Illinois as they related themselves to war activities, and a survey of the water supplies and the means of sewage disposal in the zones surrounding military camps. It cooperated with the Department of Agriculture in special care for the protection of the growing crops essential to the world's sustenance. It contributed several of its noted scientists to military and administrative service.

The materials for the history of the participation of Illinois are being collected through several channels. Part of the story has already been prepared and published. In the course of the next few years the collected facts will be properly interpreted by skilled writers so that we shall have for our posterity a record of loyalty and patriotism which shall add greatly to the fame of Illinois.

RE-ORGANIZATION OF NATIONAL GUARD.

At the present time the Adjutant General is engaged in the reorganization of the National Guard for Federal recognition. As was to be expected, following the close of the great war, this task has been a somewhat difficult one and the coordination of State and Federal forces presents problems of adjustment which require both tact and experience in handling. This organization work is now progressing in a very satisfactory manner and the consumation of the work as now planned will undoubtedly result in a military establishment superior to any we have had in the past.

The soldiers from Illinois in the Great War were found upon every battle-front of Europe. They greatly distinguished themselves and brought new luster to their State. Both officers and men are manifesting a genuine interest in the reorganization of the National Guard. The officers selected are principally from those who have proven themselves in the actual command of men in war. The result should be a better trained, a better disciplined, and a more effective force than we have ever had.

The fact that there is an efficient, well trained and well disciplined force of State troops in itself precludes the necessity of its frequent use in the preservation of order. These last years, as everyone knows, have been years of wide fluctuations in the wages of working men and of much unrest. During the war production was carried on at a feverish place and of necessity many men were used who would have been regarded undesirable employees in normal times. Notwithstanding this, during my term of office it has been found necessary to employ troops in labor disturbances but seldom and then for short periods only. This was due in part to the excellent work of the mediators acting under the direction of the Industrial Commission and to the practice of bringing representatives of the employees and employers into frequent personal contact. It was also due in a measure to the policy adopted in the beginning of the administration of close cooperation with the civil authorities of the State in the maintenance of order. At the first signs of disorder we put ourselves in communication with the civil authorities of the municipality and urged upon them that their real and lasting security depended upon themselves and their own efforts and not upon assistance rendered by soldiers. We induced them to organize themselves as deputy sheriffs, or otherwise, under the direction of their sheriff to preserve order within their own midst. We explained to them that it was practically within their own power to protect themselves against any ordinary danger which threatened. We pointed out that only in this way would the community gain confidence in itself and thereby secure more effectually its own future. In instance after instance where municipalities thought at first they needed the presence of troops, they found that by prompt action themselves it was not difficult to maintain order, and they expressed satisfaction afterwards that we had pointed out the way by which they could care for themselves.

SELF-GOVERNMENT GUARANTY OF STABILITY.

Successful self-government in even the smallest political unit is the only guaranty of successful self-government in a great country such as ours. There are many evidences that this type of government is breaking down in America. More and more frequently, the village, the town, the city, finds that it cannot maintain order without outside help. This is one of the gravest symptoms of the times. Whenever a town permits the due and orderly processes of government to be interrupted by a mob, that town is no longer an asset, but becomes a liability to the republic. For, multiply that town by a sufficient number and a situation develops in which only the army can rule. No self-governing country was ever yet ruled successfully by force of arms. The primary duty of every political division, no matter how small, is to keep its own house in order. In these days, when disorder threatens, men are too prone to call for soldiers. Soldiers will always be needed and must be used, if they are the only means to maintain the law. For, at whatever cost, the law must remain supreme. In every nation, there must be someone or something supreme, to whom or to which all must yield obedience. Whoever does violence to the law is laying profane hands upon the sovereignty of the people. Let it be remembered, however, that every time in any community outside force is employed, it is a confession of weakness in the foundations, in fact, of our institutions. The municipality must learn to govern itself when lawlessness appears. A nation is secure against foreign foes only when every able-bodied man within its borders is willing, if need be, to put on his country's uniform. A nation is secure against domestic enemies only when every citizen is willing, if need be, to become a peace officer of his community.

EXECUTIVE EXPENDITURES.

For a statement of expenditures made by me for this department from funds subject to my order, your attention is directed to the biennial report of the Auditor of Public Accounts. Vouchers for all such expenditures have been filed in the Auditor's office.

LEGISLATIVE COOPERATION

In my inaugural address, I invited the cooperation of the legislative branch of the government. I believed that no administration of public affairs could be successful except through the hearty cooperation of all constitutional branches of the government. How generously the General Assembly responded to that suggestion of united effort is indicated by an examination of the notable legislation of the past four years.

And so at the end of my term, I think I may say that there never has been more complete accord between the General Assembly and the Governor than has obtained during the last four years. We have worked together during that time in a spirit of comradeship, seeking, as I believe, only what was best for the public. I cannot leave office without expressing my heartfelt thanks to the General Assembly for its earnest, generous efforts to bring about that accord.

PRIDE IN STATE PERSONNEL.

My fellow officials and employees of the State have earned the gratitude of the people of Illinois for their faithful, devoted services during these years of stress. They have been subjected to the high cost of living in the same measure as those in private employment. However, their salaries have not increased at all or if increased, not in proportion to those in private life. Despite this, I think I may say that from the heads of departments down there never has been a period in our history in which more efficient, disinterested service has been rendered to the people than in this period just closed. To me personally it has been a source of great gratification and pride to have been permitted to be a co-laborer with this fine body of men and women. The spirit which has animated them has seemed to be that of earnest desire to be of the greatest possible service to the people of Illinois. It is very hard for me to bid them good-bye. But official association has ripened into friendship. And while official association is now being severed, I am happy in the thought that the friendship will remain.

CONCLUSION.

I am deeply grateful to the people of Illinois for the opportunity they have given me of serving this great State. I am grateful for the sympathy and confidence they have ever manifested toward me during these difficult years.

The record of my administration is now closed. It must await the test of time. The hurrying years will bring the ripe judgment of history. When that is rendered, I should indeed be glad if I might know that I had added something to the "wondrous story" of Illinois.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK O. LOWDEN, Governor.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the House of Representatives the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

SPRINGFIELD, January 10, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

I am transmitting for the consideration of your Honorable Body copy of a communication from the Director of the Federal Board for Vocational Education under date of November 26, 1920, and also a copy of House Resolution No. 4438 of the 66th Congress, being "An Act to provide for the promotion of Vocational Rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or otherwise and their return to civil employment."

Because of the lack of a State appropriation which might be used to match an allotment of Federal funds for the year ending June 30, 1921, and because of the near approach of the session of the General Assembly at the date of the reception of the letter mentioned, it did not seem to me advisable to accept the provisions of this Act for Illinois under the alternative plan by which such executive action might be taken during the legislative recess.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK O. LOWDEN, Governor.

FEDERAL BOARD FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.

(200 New Jersey Avenue Northwest.)

WASHINGTON, November 26, 1920.

Honorable Frank O. Lowden, Governor, Springfield, Illinois.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR: I am calling your attention to the Act providing for the rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry, copy of which I enclose. You note it provides for cooperation between the Federal Government and the states in the retraining for suitable civil employment of persons who have been disabled in industry. The provisions can either be accepted by the Governor or Legislature. If accepted by the Governor the Legislature must ratify the Governor's action within sixty days after it convenes.

The point I am making with you is that unless the State of Illinois accepts the Act prior to the first of January and the certification is made to the Treasury Department to that effect, Federal appropriations for the year ending June 30, 1921, are not available. On the other hand, if you accept the provisions of the Act and the Legislature does not ratify your action within sixty days after it meets, you will have done your part and the responsibility for not ratifying it will rest upon the Legislature and not upon you.

I am sure that Mr. F. G. Blair, the executive officer of the State Board for Vocational Education, through which the Federal Government must work, or the Director of the State Board, will give you any information which you may desire, or I shall be very glad to furnish you with such information.

So far, twenty-six states have accepted the Act, six by action of the Legislature and twenty by action of the Governor. The Federal Board is ready to furnish any information which you may desire and will, if you wish, have a representative call on you at your convenience for the purpose of giving you any further details which you may desire.

Very truly yours,

Enc.

[PUBLIC—No. 236—66TH CONGRESS.]

[H. R. 4438.]

AN ACT To provide for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or otherwise and their return to civil employment.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in order to provide for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or in any legitimate occupation and their return to civil employment there is hereby appropriated for the use of the States, subject to the provisions of this Act, for the purpose of cooperating with them in the maintenance of vocational rehabilitation of such disabled persons, and in returning vocationally rehabilitated persons to civil employment for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, the sum of $750,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and thereafter for a period of two years, the sum of $1,000,000 annually. Said sums shall be allotted to the States in the proportion which their population bears to the total population in the United States, not including Territories, outlying possessions, and the District of Columbia, according to the last preceding United States census: Provided, that the allotment of funds to any State shall not be less than a minimum of $5,000 for any fiscal year. And there is hereby appropriated the following sums, or so much thereof as may be needed, which shall be used for the purpose of providing the minimum allotment to the States provided for in this section, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, the sum of $46,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and annually thereafter, the sum of $34,000.

All moneys expended under the provisions of this Act from appropriations provided by section 1 shall be upon the condition (1) that for each dollar of Federal money expended there shall be expended in the State under the supervision and control of the State board at least an equal amount for the same purpose: Provided, that no portion of the appropriation made by this Act shall be used by any institution for handicapped persons except for the special training of such individuals entitled to the benefits of this Act as shall be determined by the Federal board; (2) that the State board shall annually submit to the Federal board for approval plans showing (a) the kinds of vocational rehabilitation and schemes of placement for which it is proposed the appropriation shall be used; (b) the plan of administration and supervision; (c) courses of study; (d) methods of instruction; (e) qualification of teachers, supervisors, directors, and other necessary administrative officers or employees; (f) plans for the training of teachers, supervisors, and directors; (3) that the State board shall make an annual report to the Federal board on or before September 1 of each year on the work done in the State and on the receipts and expenditures of money under the provisions of this Act; (4) that no portion of any moneys appropriated by this Act for the benefit of the States shall be applied, directly or indirectly, to the purchase, preservation, erection, or repair of any building or buildings or equipment, or for the purchase or rental of any lands; (5) that all courses for vocational rehabilitation given under the supervision and control of the State board and all courses for vocational rehabilitation maintained shall be available, under such rules and regulations as the Federal board shall prescribe, to any civil employee of the United States disabled while in the performance of his duty.

SEC. 2. That for the purpose of this Act the term "persons disabled" shall be construed to mean any person who, by reason of a physical defect or infirmity whether congenial or acquired by accident, injury, or disease, is, or may be expected to be, totally or partially incapacitated for remunerative occupation; the term "rehabilitation" shall be construed to mean the rendering of a person disabled fit to engage in a remunerative occupation.

SEC. 3. That in order to secure the benefits of the appropriations provided by section 1 any State shall, through the legislative authority thereof, (1) accept the provisions of this Act; (2) empower and direct the board designated or created as the State board for vocational education to cooperate in the administration of the provisions of the Vocational Education Act, approved February 23, 1917, to cooperate as herein provided with the Federal Board for Vocational Education in the administration of the provisions of this Act; (3) in those States where a State workmen's compensation board, or other State board, department, or agency exists, charged with the administration of the State workmen's compensation or liability laws, the Legislature shall provide that a plan of cooperation be formulated between such State board, department, or agency, and the State board charged with the administration of this Act, such plan to be effective when approved by the Governor of the State; (4) provide for the supervision and support of the courses of vocational rehabilitation to be provided by the State board in carrying out the provisions of this Act; (5) appoint as custodian for said appropriations its State Treasurer, who shall receive and provide for the proper custody and disbursement of all money paid to the State from said appropriations. In any State the Legislature of which does not meet in regular session between the date of the passage of this Act and December 31, 1920, if the Governor of that State shall accept the provisions of this Act, such State shall be entitled to the benefits of this Act until the Legislature of such State meets in due course and has been in session sixty days.

SEC. 4. That the Federal Board for Vocational Education shall have power to cooperate with State boards in carrying out the purposes and provisions of this Act, and is hereby authorized to make and establish such rules and regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry into effect the provisions of this Act; to provide for the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their return to civil employment and to cooperate, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act, with such public and private agencies as it may deem advisable. It shall be the duty of said board (1) to examine plans submitted by the State boards and approve the same if believed to be feasible and found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of this Act; (2) to ascertain annually whether the several States are using or are prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of this Act; (3) to certify on or before the 1st day of January of each year to the Secretary of the Treasury each State which has accepted the provisions of this Act and complied therewith, together with the amount which each State is entitled to receive under the provisions of this Act; (4) to deduct from the next succeeding allotment to any State whenever any portion of the fund annually allotted has not been expended for the purpose provided for in this Act a sum equal to such unexpended portion; (5) to withhold the allotment of moneys to any State whenever it shall be determined that moneys allotted are not being expended for the purposes and conditions of this Act; (6) to require the replacement by withholding subsequent allotments of any portion of the moneys received by the custodian of any State under this Act that by any action or contingency is diminished or lost: Provided, that if any allotment is withheld from any State, the State board of such State may appeal to the Congress of the United States, and if the Congress shall not, within one year from the time of said appeal, direct such sum to be paid, it shall be covered into the Treasury.

SEC. 5. That the Secretary of the Treasury, upon the certification of the Federal board as provided in this Act, shall pay quarterly to the custodian of each State appointed as herein provided the moneys to which it is entitled under the provisions of this Act. The money so received by the custodian for any State shall be paid out on the requisition of the State board as reimbursement for services already rendered or expenditures already incurred and approved by said State board. The Federal Board for Vocational Education shall make an annual report to the Congress on or before December 1 on the administration of this Act and shall include in such report the reports made by the State boards on the administration of this Act by each State and the expenditure of the money allotted to each State.

SEC. 6. That there is hereby appropriated to the Federal Board for Vocational Education the sum of $75,000 annually for a period of four years for the purpose of making studies, investigations, and reports regarding the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their placements in suitable or gainful occupations, and for the administrative expenses of said board incident to performing the duties imposed by this Act, including salaries of such assistants, experts, clerks, and other employees, in the District of Columbia or elsewhere as the board may deem necessary, actual traveling and other necessary expenses incurred by the members of the board and by its employees, under its orders, including attendance at meetings of educational associations and other organizations, rent and equipment of offices in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, purchase of books of reference, law books, and periodicals, stationery, typewriters and exchange thereof, miscellaneous supplies, postage on foreign mail, printing and binding to be done at the Government Printing Office, and all other necessary expenses.

A full report of all expenses under this section, including names of all employees and salaries paid them, traveling expenses and other expenses incurred by each and every employee and by members of the board, shall be submitted annually to Congress by the board.

No salaries shall be paid out of the fund provided in this section in excess of the following amounts: At the rate of $5,000 per annum, to not more than one person; at the rate of $4,000 per annum each, to not more than four persons; at the rate of $3,500 per annum each, to not more than five persons; and no other employee shall receive compensation at a rate in excess of $2,500 per annum: Provided, that no person receiving compensation at less than $3,500 per annum shall receive in excess of the amount of compensation paid in the regular departments of the Government for like or similar services.

SEC. 7. That the Federal Board of Vocational Education is hereby authorized and empowered to receive such gifts and donations from either public or private sources as may be offered unconditionally. All moneys received as gifts or donations shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and shall constitute a permanent fund, to be called the "Special fund for vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons," to be used under the direction of the said board to defray the expenses of providing and maintaining courses of vocational rehabilitation in special cases, including the payment of necessary expenses of persons undergoing training. A full report of all gifts and donations offered and accepted, together with the names of the donors and the respective amounts contributed by each, and all disbursements therefrom shall be submitted annually to Congress by said board: Provided, that no discrimination shall be made or permitted for or against any person or persons who are entitled to the benefits of this Act because of membership or non-membership in any industrial, fraternal, or private organization of any kind under a penalty of $200 for every violation thereof.

The Speaker of the House presented to the Joint Assembly, His Excellency, the retiring Governor, Frank O. Lowden, who spoke as follows:

GOVERNOR LOWDEN. Mr. Speaker, Governor-elect Small, and Members of the General Assembly: Just four years ago I made my first appearance before the Joint Assembly of the legislative branches of government of this State. At that time I asked for your cooperation. I pointed out that under our form of government, government would function successfully only when, as was intended by the fathers, there was the closest cooperation between the several branches of government. And now, at the end of that four years, I appear before you gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly to thank you for the generous manner in which during that time you have extended to me such cooperation.

They have been strenuous years. We were approaching the end of our first century as a State. I had been here but a few weeks when the war which was blazing upon the other side of the sea extended itself so as to involve our own people, and I appeared before you then and asked for your cooperation in the name of Illinois, that it might justify the heroic traditions of the first century of our Statehood which was then drawing to a close. Without divisions along party lines, with but one voice, you responded; and during the awful months that then ensued, the General Assembly of Illinois and its chief executive were in perfect accord and had but one aim, as I believe—the honor of the old State. For that cooperation, I thank you.

And while we in civil life could not know, perhaps, in all its intensity the meaning of the word "comradship," which more than 350,000 of our gallant sons had learned in uniform, still we did come to know something of what that word meant; and today, gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly, as I leave you, I have in my heart that sense of comradship with those of you who, with me, lived through those years.

Not only the members of the General Assembly have aroused that emotion within me, but the men and women engaged in the civil service of the State, from the heads of departments down, have also put me under everlasting obligation to them. Those of you who were not familiar at that time with the burdens of government, whether Federal or State or municipal, can hardly realize how difficult it was to meet the needs of government during those troublous times. The very best of our men and women were drafted into the government service in one form or another. There was hardly a department of government, State or municipal, which was not left short-handed because of the exigencies of the war and the demands of the Federal government, and yet these men and women at home, in their civil positions, measured up fully to the duties of that solemn time. I want to thank them. I want to thank them with all my heart, that in the midst of discouragement, with their most skilled officials withdrawn from the service of the State, they still were able to carry on. Especially was what I have said true of the charitable and correctional institutions of the State. I have visited these institutions myself. I know the difficulties under which they labored. There were hospitals every member of whose staff, with the exception of the superintendent alone, were withdrawn from the State service to enter the service of the Federal government. It was difficult at any price to find trained men and women to take the places thus made vacant, and yet these splendid men and women did not for a moment lay down in their efforts to serve the State. In these institutions the watchword was not punishment, not simply restraint of the defectives of society, but to work out ways and methods by which they could be cured and returned to society, and by which their number could be made to decrease in the future. They found that lack of employment accentuated the condition of most, and so they developed the idea, which has been taken up all over the country, that the diseased mind is improved as much by congenial occupation as is the healthy, normal mind, and occupational therapy is now a subject of growing importance throughout the land. They established schools for the training of nurses even during these difficult times, and I want to say that they developed the idea that each of these institutions should be a community, not a place merely of restraint—a community in which the defectives should live as nearly a normal life as was possible for them. They have put the people of Illinois under obligations to them for all time, and I feel to this noble band of men and women, too, a sense of comradeship for what they did.

I am not going to make a speech to you, gentlemen, because I submitted my views to you fully the other day in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution. I am here simply to say a personal word or two, and then I shall be done, but I cannot leave without expressing also my gratitude to the people of Springfield and to the State of Illinois for their sympathy and support during these critical times. The burdens of office, as any one who has been in public office knows, are heavy enough at best, and you have lightened those burdens, you good people of Springfield, by the many little kindnesses you have shown my family and me. You have made us feel that we were among friends, and we leave you with a sense of leaving a home that has been very dear to us because of what you have done. And so, I want in the name of my family and myself, to thank the people of Springfield and the people of the State who have made it possible for us to have these emotions to sustain us in these difficult times.

It is not hard to lay down the burdens of office. I am glad to do that; but it is a little harder than I thought it was going to be to say good-bye to my friends of the General Assembly, my associates in the executive department of government, and the friends that have cheered and heartened me on my way. That is much harder than I had thought it would be.

And now it gives me very great pleasure to perform the duty with which I am especially charged, and I bespeak for my successor the same courtesy from the General Assembly, the same friendship from the people of Illinois and Springfield, which I have had. Courtesy is not a word perhaps expressing one of the great basic virtues, but it is a word which makes the great virtues possible, and that courtesy which so abundantly has been shown me I ask for my successor. I wish, and you all wish, a most successful administration, I know, for the gentleman who I am about to present, the Honorable Len. Small, Governor of Illinois. (Prolonged rising applause.)

Preliminary to the administering of the oath of office to the Governor-elect, Bishop Archibald J. Carey, of Chicago, addressed the Chief Justice as follows:

DR. CAREY. Mr. Chief Justice, this beautiful vision of golden glorious sunlight is but prophetic, indeed, of the peace, prosperity and good will that will prevail throughout the State of Illinois during the term of Governorship of him whose inauguration we come to witness in this hour. With a firm and lasting faith in the sterling qualities of the Honorable Len. Small, and an abiding confidence in his purpose to serve all the people, and with fervent prayer that Almighty God, who has guided him to this glorious hour, will continue to protect and preserve and keep him, I am requested by the A. M. E. Ministry of this State to present to your Honor, sir, this Holy Bible, upon which the Governor-elect has agreed to take his oath of office.

Thereafter, Chief Justice James H. Cartwright, administered the oath of office, provided by section 25 of Article 5 of the Constitution of the State of Illinois, separately, to Len. Small, Governor; Fred E. Sterling, Lieutenant Governor; Louis L. Emmerson, Secretary of State; Andrew Russel, Auditor of Public Accounts; Edward E. Miller, State Treasurer; and Edward J. Brundage, Attorney General.

Governor Small in delivering his inaugural address to the Joint Assembly, spoke as follows:

Genilemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly, Representing the People of the State of Illinois:

I am deeply sensible of the responsibility as well as the great honor which has come to me with the office of Governor. Realizing my own limitations and the magnitude of the task ahead, I appeal to all citizens of Illinois and all State and local officials for their support in fulfilling the trust our people have reposed in me.

The powers of our State government, like those of the National government, are separated into three branches—legislative, executive and judicial—neither one empowered to intrude upon the functions belonging to either of the others. This separation provides wisely for the stability of our Republic and should be repeatedly emphasized and inviolably maintained as a guarantee of responsible representative government.

I shall in no manner assume to exercise any of the duties devolving upon the legislative and judicial branches, and my official relations therewith shall be only such as the Constitution contemplates and the law prescribes. However, I earnestly solicit sincere and cordial cooperation among all branches and departments of our State and local governments in order that the people may be better served and protected; and I urge all officials and agencies to exchange advice and counsel for the common good.

In my candidacy for the office of Governor, I stood for principles which the people endorsed in those contests, and, as Governor, I shall stand for the self-same principles, the achievement of which, I believe, will insure to the people a determining voice in their own government.

Majority rule is the fundamental basis of American government. Obedience to the lawfully expressed will of the people is one of the great safeguards of our country, and makes for liberty, prosperity, peace and good order. Let us then recognize the supremacy of the people's mandate and facilitate the enactment of measures and the development of policies of which they have unquestionably voiced approval.

In political contests, principles and policies are at issue on which it is proposed the government shall be conducted, and, as a result of those contests, authority is obtained from the mass of the voters to carry out the policies believed to be right and rational.

As a member of the Committee on Resolutions of the Republican State Convention held in Springfield on May 10, 1920, I supported in committee and on the floor of the convention, and voted for, the minority report of that committee embodying certain principles affecting the liberties and rights of our people and the lives and well-being of every man, woman and child in our commonwealth. In the announcement of my candidacy for Governor, I reiterated my stand for those principles and appealed for popular support on the basis of my attitude. Now as Governor I again announce my fidelity to those principles and give notice that I shall rely upon them as a constant guide in determining administrative and political policies.

We are faced with important problems of state in Illinois as in the nation. It is a waste of valuable energy to spend time in regretting closed events. We need concern ourselves about past history only that we may learn lessons for the future.

RETRENCHMENT AND ECONOMY.

We should not forget that every dollar taken from the State treasury comes from the pockets of the taxpayers, most of whom have to toil for a livelihood. These funds are trust funds and it is our duty as elected officials to guard against waste and extravagance in the expenditure of the people's money. I trust the General Assembly will exercise care in making appropriations, and I believe you will. I, on my part, shall endeavor to see that every dollar appropriated will secure a dollar's worth of service. It will be the fixed policy of my administration to oppose the payment of any salary or expense account which has not been duly authorized by law.

REPEAL OF THE STATE PUBLIC UTILITIES ACT AND RESTORATION OF HOME RULE.

I pledged the people of Illinois that I would do all in my power to secure the repeal of the State Public Utilities Act, thereby abolishing the State Public Utilities Commission, and that I would recommend the enactment, in its stead, of a law giving to all cities in Illinois the right of home rule in the regulation and control of their public utilities. I therefore urge the General Assembly to repeal the State Public Utilities law and thereby abolish the State Public Utilities Commission. I further urge the passage of a law giving to all cities in Illinois the right of home rule in the regulation and control of their public utilities.

In cities having an elected City Council or an elected commission exercising municipal functions wherein the regulation and control of public utilities was vested prior to the adoption of the State Public Utilities Act, the regulation and control of public utilities in such cities should, by a provision of law, revert to such bodies immediately upon the taking effect of the repeal of the State Public Utilities Act, and until such time as the people of such cities may by a referendum vote indicate their desire to submit the regulation and control of their public utilities to a newly created State body or agency as hereinafter proposed, or until they may decide upon some other method.

There should, no doubt, be some State body or agency exercising governmental authority, with powers and jurisdiction similar to the Railroad and Warehouse Commission which was supplanted by the present Public Utilities Commission. This may be necessary in cases where two or more communities are served by the same utility. The law should expressly prohibit such body or agency from setting aside, modifying, or in any manner impairing any contract heretofore or hereafter entered into between a public utility company and the corporate authorities or people of any municipality, unless mutually agreed to by the parties to such contracts and approved on a referendum vote by the people affected. Such law should also provide for allowing any municipality, through action of its corporate authorities, or by referendum vote of its citizens, to subject itself to or withdraw from the jurisdiction of such State body or agency, either permanently or for a definite period of time to be fixed by statute.

I earnestly urge that this subject receive the immediate attention of the General Assembly and that appropriate legislation be enacted, with the expressed will of the people uppermost in mind, and with a just regard for the rights of the public service companies, their actual investments, and the well-being of their employees concurrently in mind.

"THOMPSON TRACTION PLAN."

The people of the City of Chicago have repeatedly voted in favor of public ownership of the street car lines, but the desire of the people for a voice in the management and control of their local transportation has been thwarted.

The inadequate service under private ownership and operation, and the increase in rates authorized by the Public Utilities Commission in violation of the terms of the contract-ordinances providing for a 5 cent fare, intensified the dissatisfaction with private ownership and led to the appointment by the Mayor of Chicago of a "Commission on Local Transportation," authorized by an ordinance passed by the City Council at the request of the Mayor.

This Commission, after mature deliberation, recommends the enactment of a law authorizing the creation by vote of the people, of Local Transportation Districts under which the people shall own and operate local transportation systems through Trustees elected by the people residing in such districts.

Believing that the people should have the power to create such Transportation Districts if they so desire, I respectfully urge the General Assembly promptly to enact legislation to permit the citizens of Chicago and vicinity, or of any other contiguous territory in the State, if they so elect, to establish such Transportation Districts, and to provide for people's ownership and operation of local transportation systems.

HARD ROADS.

One of the pressing needs of the present day is to find means to bring our city and country populations into closer relationship to the end that the advantages enjoyed by one may be applied to the benefit of the other. The United States Census of 1920 reveals the fact that more than one-half the population of the entire country resides in incorporated cities and towns. These cities possess advantages in the way of water, light, heat and transportation services which are not generally furnished in the rural districts. Illinois cannot afford to have its rural population enjoy less of the comforts and conveniences of life than the rural population in sister states. The surest means of bringing city and country together is the only way, that is the highways which bind our towns and communities to each other.

The State-wide system of hard roads provided for under legislation passed in 1917 was approved by the people of Illinois on a referendum vote in November, 1918, by a majority of over two hundred thousand. This vote authorized the issuance of bonds to the amount of sixty million dollars for paying the cost of the system. The validity of this Act has been upheld by the Supreme Court of Illinois. The forty-six routes proposed for the roads are described in the law and extend throughout the State of Illinois from boundary to boundary and provide for connections with each other.

In my opinion, the greatest economic good that can be accomplished for the country districts of our State is to push this road system to completion. Good roads will tend to level the inequalities, both fancied and real, between the country and the city. Good roads will help harmonize political or economic misunderstandings existing between the people of metropolitan centers and suburban and rural centers. Good roads will safeguard the producer and the consumer against extortionate transportation rates, and will insure the people of the cities and of the country districts an uninterrupted interchange of their products at all seasons of the year, regardless of congestion or other conditions prevailing on other means of transportation. Good roads will minimize the opportunities for monopolists to corner the city markets, especially on foodstuffs produced in nearby sections.

As these roads are extended throughout the State, grade crossings over railroads should be avoided as far as possible, and the General Assembly should provide for the protection of human life at the points where the highways cross the railroads. During the past year, the toll of life taken at these grade crossings averaged more than one per day for our State, and to this list must be added the lesser casualties where many victims escaped death but were seriously injured.

These roads in order to be always available, at all seasons of the year, must be permanently maintained by the State in much the same manner that the steam railroads are kept up. For this reason I recommend that our State aid roads be subdivided into sections of reasonable lengths, each section to be in charge of an employee of the State, whose duty it would be to constantly keep his section in repair and in a passable condition.

Immediate construction of the hard road system approved by the people was one of my platform pledges and I shall exert every effort to push the work to early completion. Should it develop that additional legislation may be required on this subject, I shall immediately communicate with the General Assembly so there may be no unnecessary delay in the completion of this most important improvement.

ILLINOIS WATERWAY.

The construction of the Illinois Waterway will be continued without delay in accordance with the mandate of the people and the laws enacted by the General Assembly.

RECLAMATION PROJECTS.

I desire to call to the attention of the General Assembly the fact that there are in this State vast areas of rich lands along its water courses which are not under cultivation because they are subject to overflow. These should be reclaimed for cultivation, and I recommend legislation to encourage the reclamation of this valuable addition to our natural resources.

COOPERATIVE BUYING AND SELLING.

As a further means of aiding our agricultural resources, I favor the development of cooperative buying and selling in order to place at the disposal of the country districts just as effective organizations as are found in the cities and towns. Cooperative buying and selling, intelligently conducted and free from dishonest or grasping tendencies, will insure to the country producer a fair price for his labor and commodities, and to the city consumer the saving of the extortionate profits of corrupt combines, speculators and profiteers.

TAXATION.

A more even distribution of the burdens of State and municipal taxation should be attempted without delay. Rich tax-dodgers who conceal millions of dollars worth of property from State and local assessment officers should be forced to schedule, under oath, all their wealth and pay their just share of the expense of government. With an honest scheduling of property in Illinois, the tax rate for all purposes could be materially reduced and millions of dollars added to State and local revenues, thus relieving the burdens now borne by the taxpayers of moderate means.

I therefore recommend the amendment of our revenue laws so that rich tax-dodgers would be compelled to file honest returns, just as they are compelled under Federal laws to make true and accurate returns of their incomes, and I further recommend that the State inheritance tax be materially increased.

The State Tax Commission created by the General Assembly in 1919 possesses powers over the assessment of all real and personal property, railroad property, capital stock and franchises in this State superior to those delegated to any local assessors or boards of assessors or boards of review. It is the function of this commission to see that all assessments of property be made relatively just and equal.

I direct the Commission to avail itself of the ample powers granted it by the General Assembly for the purpose of bringing to light the extensive holdings now hidden from local authorities, but accessible to Federal agents for the purpose of relieving the injustices now prevalent in the assessment and collection of State and local taxes.

RE-DISTRICTING.

The re-districting of the State into Senatorial and Congressional districts on the basis of population as shown by the 1920 Federal Census is a matter requiring urgent attention. Such lines should be established with reference strictly to the equal representation of the people and their convenience in choosing representatives who reflect their will and without regard to partisan or factional considerations.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS.

The penal institutions of the State should be operated, first, to protect society against the depredations of the criminally inclined, and, secondly, to bring about, if possible, the reformation of those confined there. It was this humane idea that was responsible for the indeterminate sentence and the parole law, under which offenders committed to penal institutions might be released when, in the opinion of parole officials, there had been sufficient reformation of the prisoner so that it would be safe and advisable to allow him to make a new start in life under the watchful eye of parole officials with power to re-commit him in the event that the experiment failed.

While such an experiment might be justifiable in the case of the first offender, I do not believe habitual criminals should be released repeatedly to commit further crimes. It has been found in our populous centers that a great deal of the crime committed is by experienced and seasoned criminals who have been released under the provisions of the parole law again to prey upon the public.

I recommend a careful survey of this situation by the General Assembly with a view to denying to those convicted of previous delinquency the benefits of the parole law. The startling increase in robberies at the point of a revolver suggests the enactment of more drastic penalties for this form of crime, and I request the careful consideration of the General Assembly of this problem.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The care of the wards of the State in our charitable institutions must be in the hands of managing officials of the highest standing, and they will be held to a strict accountability of their stewardship.

HOSPITALS FOR THE INSANE.

Cases have been brought to my attention where, I regret to say, helpless patients in our hospitals for the insane were subjected to cruel and brutal treatment by attendants. Coroners' inquests have disclosed that patients in our insane institutions have sustained, at the hands of other patients, serious injuries resulting in death. Such a condition is shocking and intolerable.

Patients are sent to these hospitals for the protection of the public and for their own protection because they are unable to care for themselves. They should be suitably clothed and supplied with an abundance of good, wholesome, properly prepared food, and given the best medical attention, and made as comfortable as their physical and mental conditions permit. Upon being committed to the institution, the State owes an obligation to the public and to the patients to see that patients shall not be allowed to roam at large, as has been a practice, exposing themselves to injury or to death and the public to possible violence. In cases where the condition of patients justifies such freedom, it should be only under strict observance.

Another practice which will be discontinued is that of placing young, inexperienced girls in charge of disturbed male patients, where the attendants are subjected to the indelicate language and acts of men who do not know what they are saying or doing.

I believe in reasonable physical exercise, light labor, athletic games and sports, as well as band concerts and other clean entertainments for the patients, in order to make their surroundings as pleasant as possible thereby assisting in removing from their minds their real or imaginary troubles.

I fully believe these suggestions if carried out will cause the patients of our State hospitals to respond more readily to medical treatment and hasten recovery where recovery is possible.

We should make it known that real service and merit, and careful, considerate treatment of the wards of the State will be rewarded. We now have many faithful men and women in the service who are conscientiously devoting their lives to this worthy calling. Those so engaged in the care of the inmates of the institutions should be paid a sufficient salary to justify them in making this work their business.

I shall devote my time and energy, to the best of my ability, to the service of the State, and I shall require all appointees or employees in places under my control to do the same. Every appointee and employee is expected to give his best and most efficient service to the State. No lazy, incompetent or brutal employee will be retained in the service under any pretense.

EDUCATION.

It was ordained in the first American charter for the government of the territory in which we live that schools and the means of education should forever be encouraged. This sentiment was echoed in our State Constitution, which declares that "The General Assembly shall provide a thorough and efficient system of free schools whereby all children of this State may receive a good common school education."

Our State has never failed in its duty in this regard, and it will not fail now. On account of the importance and bigness of this subject, I shall not attempt here a discussion in detail of particular changes, and shall reserve definite recommendations until the developments of the session, particularly with reference to the amendment of the revenue laws, shall show how far we can go in the adoption of further legislation required by our advancing civilization.

The position of the teacher in our social fabric is one that needs thorough readjustment. Underpay and ingratitude on the part of the public for the invaluable service rendered to the State by the teaching force employed in our public schools has been, too often, the common lot of these faithful servants engaged in the basis work of true Americanization. There should not be an underpaid school teacher in the State of Illinois.

Salaries and school equipment should be such that the very best and highest types of men and women are attracted to the profession of teaching.

The common schools, the normal schools and the State University are all seeking to enlarge their respective fields. If we are to extend their usefulness, we must be prepared to increase their appropriations. I say now, as I said before my election, that our educational institutions are the foundations of good government and of the well-being of our State. Their improvement should be constantly sought and their growth should be encouraged, for with them lies the future stability of our commonwealth.

The worthy additions requested could be granted without increasing the tax rate if the General Assembly gives favorable consideration to the recommendations made in that portion of my message devoted to the subject of taxation.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The upbuilding of healthy citizens, the prolongation of life is one of the purposes of good government. The physical well-being of the mothers, fathers and children of our commonwealth is worthy of the highest consideration. Sound preventive measures and adequate relief provisions are the essentials for a healthy State.

Sanitation, good housing conditions, wholesale surroundings of employment, healthful recreation, pure water and milk, efficient food inspection, all make for clean, red blood coursing in the veins of our people, sound, vigorous bodies and clear, industrious minds.

I stand for a strict enforcement of the laws of Illinois directed toward the prevention and remedying of physical or mental ills which produce disease and epidemics and underlie insanity and crime.

The recent epidemic of influenza in our country has served to call the attention of our people to the need of greater health supervision. I recommend to the General Assembly that full time medical health officers be provided for each county in the State such as are now provided for in Chicago, Springfield, LaSalle, Bloomington and other cities. I further recommend that every city in Illinois have local health organizations qualified to cope with disease. These health organizations should have under their supervision trained visiting nurses, and doctors and nurses should be provided for the medical inspection of all our schools.

I am reliably informed that at least 20 per cent of the inmates confined in the insane asylums of the State are there as a result of paresis due to Venereal disease. Such contagion should be wiped out of Illinois and the United States, and more rigid provisions made for its prevention. Illinois should go further and abolish all places where such diseases have their inception and whence they are spread. This will be true economy for it is cheaper to prevent than to build and maintain institutions to care for the criminal and the infirm.

The registration of births is vital. We have the standard law. We should enforce it. It is essential to the legal and health interests of our new-born. It prevents much blindness, aids the feeding and mothering of babies, helps future citizenship and facilities such rights as are involved in the inheritance of property, securing working age certificates, and traveling unmolested in foreign lands.

We are met with a woeful shortage of trained women to care for our sick, not only for times of epidemic, but normally. Illinois should train thousands of women as a health militia, preparing them to render first aid in their own homes and enabling them to care for their neighbors in times of sickness, the same as has been so successfully done in Chicago. Such training need in no way interfere with the hospital training schools for professional nurses. I recommend that the General Assembly study ways and means to provide proper care for our sick, especially the 90 per cent who can neither secure nor afford the services of professionally trained nurses.

STATE MILITIA.

I heartily favor the upbuilding of the Illinois State Militia and the National Guard and Naval Militia into voluntary organizations of the highest possible efficiency. I shall give my sincere support to all measures and policies, which seek to benefit in proper proportion the military forces of this State. I shall aid and encourage the officers and men of our militia organizations to attain proficiency in their avocations, and quarters and equipment in keeping with the importance and dignity of their generous service to the State.

FEDERAL RELATIONS.

The affairs of the State of Illinois are inseparably linked with the affairs of the nation, and we have a right to express ourselves upon national policies to which we may become perpetually bound. I feel that I would be remiss in my duty to the people of Illinois if I did not take this occasion to direct their attention to threatening policies confronting the country of which we form a part.

We have emerged from the actual conflict of a great world war. The strain and soreness of that conflict still bears heavily upon most of our people. On top of the grief and distress of our people over the shedding of American blood has come their resentment and anger toward the rich and powerful interests that in the nation's most sorrowful hours exacted merciless tolls of profit on the necessary and essential commodities for the sustenance of human life.

These interests that oppress the people never were and are not now partisan. They operate with equal facility in either the Republican or Democratic party. They are not American, though intensely patriotic in all outward manifestations. They are predatory in character and worldly in their aims and objects.

It is our duty to ourselves and to the people to investigate closely the interests back of every measure that comes up for consideration, and thereby prevent the forces of organized wealth and greed from continuing to rob the masses.

The so-called Covenant of the League of Nations advocated by President Wilson was submitted to a "solemn referendum" in accordance with his dictum in the recent election and as solemnly rejected by an overwhelming vote of the American people. Nevertheless we hear whisperings of a proposal for a League of Nations or Association of Nations for the pretended guarantee of world peace. If I interpret aright the sentiment of the people of Illinois, as well as other states, they are in no mood to have their sovereignty subjected to discussion by discredited old-world monarchies, or to pool their issues with countries where liberty and the right of the people to determine their own political systems is more restricted than in their own.

Under no circumstances should the American Congress forsake the policy laid down by George Washington, by entering into any League or Association of Nations which would involve this country in foreign entanglements or alliances, without first submitting the proposed covenant of the League or Association of Nations to a vote of the American people.

The Congress of the United States should again adopt for the approval of the incoming President a resolution declaring our country at peace with the world, that his proclamation may follow lawfully terminating the present war, that obnoxious war-time legislation may be summarily repealed and that American soldiers now in Europe and Asia in the theatre of foreign strife may be returned to our shores forthwith.

The soldiers, sailors and marines who responded to their country's military and naval needs, jeopardizing and sacrificing their lives, relinquishing home ties and foregoing their income-earning opportunities are entitled to every honor and consideration that may be bestowed. My platform favored the payment of a liberal bonus to those men and I urge upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress the consummation of plans that will bring this about.

And especially do I urge that immediate relief be provided for those who, because of injuries received in the service of their country, are suffering in body or mind, to the end that no American soldier shall ever become an object of charity.

Compulsory military service or conscription defies the opinion of a free people. It is the ancient instrument of kings and princes and of despotism and tyranny and inevitably induces war. I recommend to the General Assembly the presentation of a memorial to the Congress of the United States protesting against compulsory military service and conscription for foreign service.

The military policy of the United States directly concerns the people of Illinois. They must bear its burdens and share its benefits with the people of other states. "To insure domestic tranquility and provide for the common defense" are principles on which our system of government is founded. Our national army should be so organized, equipped and disciplined as to serve the fundamental principles of our government comprehensively and should extend no further, and thus help reduce present oppressive taxation.

The American people are now burdened with an amount and variety of Federal taxes, due to the war which is without precedent in the Nation, largely owing to the unparalleled waste and extravagance practiced by those entrusted with administering expenditures during the period of the war and subsequent thereto. To reduce this oppression and maintain the honor of the Nation's just obligations is one of the first problems that should engage the efforts of the new President and Congress.

I am pledged to the proposal of exempting from Federal taxation incomes of American citizens of less than $5,000 per annum. The United States government is now collecting in the State of Illinois more than the cost of administering the State and the counties and municipalities therein. This excess is entirely disproportionate to necessities.

I shall aim to execute the laws fairly and equitably toward all, and accord to the people of Illinois their inherent rights of free speech, free press and peaceable assembly as provided for in our Federal and State Constitutions. It has been well said that "justice is the end of all government" and justice reflects the greatest desire of the overwhelming majority of the masses of the people. I shall at all times and under all circumstances render undivided allegiance to the Constitutions of the United States and the State of Illinois, and hold myself in constant obedience to the laws of our State and country and to my oath of office.

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
SALARY INVESTIGATION COMMISSION,
SPRINGFIELD, January 18, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly.

Pursuant to the provision of "An Act to create a Salary Investigation Commission and make an appropriation therefor," approved January 21, 1919, the Salary Investigation Commission did, on June 30, 1920, present its report to the Governor. A copy of the report which has been submitted to the Governor is herewith transmitted to your Honorable Body.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD J. SMEJKAL, Chairman.
OMAR H. WRIGHT, Secretary.

REPORT OF SALARY INVESTIGATION COMMISSION.

To His Excellency, Frank O. Lowden, Governor of the State of Illinois:

The Salary Investigation Commission begs leave to submit the following report:

By an Act passed by the Fifty-first General Assembly, a Salary Investigation Commission composed of thirteen members was created. Section 1 of this Act provides that the Commission shall be composed of three members of the House of Representatives, three members of the Senate, the Lieutenant Governor, the Secretary of State, the Auditor of Public Accounts, the Attorney General, the President of the University of Illinois, the Director of Finance, and one member of the Civil Service Commission. The duties of the Commission are set forth in Section 2 of the Act, which is as follows:

The Salary Investigation Commission shall investigate and report to the Governor a plan for the standardization of salaries, wages, fees and other compensation for personal services of all employees of the State. Such commission shall, not later than the first day of July, A. D. 1920, make a report of its findings and conclusions to the Governor, and shall transmit a copy thereof to the Fifty-second General Assembly. The existence of the Salary Investigation Commission shall cease upon the convening of the next General Assembly of this State.

The sum of $15,000 was appropriated to defray the expenses of the Commission in the performance of its duties.

Senators Morton D. Hull, Simon E. Lantz and Al. F. Gorman and Representatives Edward J. Smejkal, Carl Mueller and Michael Fahy were appointed members of the Commission by the presiding officers of their respective houses of the General Assembly. Albert D. Early, President of the Civil Service Commission, was designated a member of the Commission by the Governor. The other members of the Commission are John G. Oglesby, Lieutenant Governor; Louis L. Emmerson, Secretary of State; Andrew Russel, Auditor of Public Accounts; Edward J. Brundage, Attorney General; David Kinley, President of the University of Illinois; and Omar H. Wright, Director of Finance. The Commission organized by electing Representative Edward J. Smejkal as Chairman and Omar H. Wright, Director of Finance, as Secretary.

Movement for Salary Standardization in United States and State Governments. In recent years there has been a strong movement toward the standardization of salaries for public employees. By an Act of March 1, 1919, Congress provided for the appointment of a Joint Commission on Reclassification of Salaries to investigate the compensation of government employees in the District of Columbia, other than those in the navy yard and the postal service. This commission in March, 1920, made a full report, setting forth the situation with respect to federal employees in the District of Columbia and recommending an elaborate and detailed plan of classification.

By an Act of February 28, 1919, Congress also provided for a joint commission "to investigate the salaries of postmasters and employees of the postal service with a view to the reclassification and readjustment of such salaries on an equitable basis." This commission made a preliminary report in May, 1920, and upon the basis of this report legislation was enacted readjusting postal salaries.

Reports upon the subject have been made in the states of New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts. The most detailed analysis of state employees is that found in the First Report of the Committee on Civil Service of the Senate of the State of New York (Albany, 1916). This report contains more than nine hundred pages and recommends a detailed classification of state employees, with standardized salaries for each class of employment.

A report presented to the New Jersey State Civil Service Commission in 1917 proposed a complete standardization of salaries and of employment in that state, and presented a detailed classification in several hundred pages.

In Massachusetts a special committee of the Executive Council on the standardization of salaries in the state service reported in 1918. This committee made recommendations, not only as to the state administrative service, but also regarding the salaries of judicial and county officers and employees. The Supervisor of Administration of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1918 prepared a report on the standardization of salaries of the teachers in the normal schools of that state.

By legislation in 1919, the Indiana General Assembly authorized the appointment of a commission "to classify all state house employees whose salaries or wages are now fixed by law or by state officials and heads of departments of the state government, by fixing and standardizing maximum and minimum salaries and wages, for the purpose of making such salaries and wages uniform in the same class of employment, and so as to conform with the prevailing schedule of salaries and wages paid for similar services in private employment and service." No commission has yet been appointed in Indiana.

State Legislation for Standardization of Salaries. Legislation regarding salary standardization has been enacted in some states, and in several of these states authority is given to a state civil service commission to classify positions and adjust salaries to the character of work done, though powers so conferred on civil service commissions are in some cases practically defeated by virtue of the fact that state appropriation acts specify the salaries to be paid to positions appropriated for. By the terms of the Illinois Civil Service Act, for example, the Commission appears to have somewhat wide power to standardize salaries, but it actually has little power in this respect.

Michigan, in 1917, passed an act for the grading of certain clerical positions, dividing such positions into six classes, and fixing in the act itself the compensation of those in each class.

Ohio, in 1917, by legislation set up the following groups in the state service: engineering, bookkeeper, clerk, stenographer, telephone operator, typist. Grades were established in each group, and within each grade advances of salary were permitted. Salaries were fixed by statute for each group and grade, and the rates of advance were also specified. A somewhat similar classification has been established in Nebraska.

New York legislation of 1901 classified the clerical and semi-clerical service of the state into ten grades, and prescribed a maximum salary for each grade.

Massachusetts, in 1914, by statute provided for the salaries of clerks and stenographers whose compensation was not already fixed by law. Stenographers and clerks were each divided into three grades. Salaries in grades 1 and 2 were fixed by the statute with annual increases in each grade through the action of the head of the department. For grade 3, both of stenographers and clerks, salaries were fixed "by a vote of the governor and council upon the recommendation of the head of the department." Legislation of 1918 provided that all appointive offices and positions except those in the judicial and legislative branches "shall be classified by the supervisor of administration, subject to the approval of the governor and council, in services, groups and grades according to the duties pertaining to each office or position." No salary of a classified position was to be increased by a department head unless a specific appropriation for the purpose has been granted. This act was amended in 1919 so that recommendations for increases "shall be submitted in the first instance to the supervisor of administration, and if approved by him shall take effect upon notice by the supervisor to the civil service commission and the auditor of the commonwealth." Recommendations for increase disapproved by the supervisor of administration go to the governor and council for final action. All increases are required to conform to the standard classifications set up under the terms of the law, and are not to be granted unless they can be met by appropriations made by law.

New Jersey, by legislation of 1914, authorized the State Civil Service Commission to suggest standards of salaries to heads of departments, and further provided: "Such standardization shall provide for increase of compensation from time to time, based upon length of service, meritorious action and efficiency, and shall also provide methods for promotion through the different grades of the service." The powers of the Commission were greatly enlarged in 1918 and extended to county and municipal civil service.

Standardization of Salaries of Municipal Employees. It may be worth while to review briefly the movement for the standardization of salaries paid to municipal employees. The City of Chicago took the lead in this matter, and the classification of employments worked out in that city, beginning in 1909, represents the first successful undertaking of this character by any governmental organization in the United States. Elaborate classifications of municipal employees of New York City began to be undertaken in 1912. A report on the standardization of salaries of the City of Milwaukee was made in 1913, and further reports were made in succeeding years which resulted in the official adoption of salary standards. Milwaukee County, in 1918, also adopted a salary standardization plan. Pittsburgh and St. Louis have adopted plans of salary standardization. Reports upon this subject were made for the cities of Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, in 1917, and Seattle, Washington, in 1918. Work in the same field had been done in Oakland, California, and Los Angeles County, California, and similar work is now under way in Philadelphia.

Canada. One of the most recent and most thorough classifications of governmental employees was that prepared for the government of Canada under the direction of the Canada Civil Service Commission. The report of the commission was published in 1919.

Expense of Investigations. In order to work out a satisfactory standardization of salaries for state employees it is, of course necessary to analyze the work performed by each employee of the state. Such a task must, therefore, be expensive, but when done, correct standards of salaries can be established and thereafter maintained without great expense. The Congressional Joint Commission on the reclassification of salaries dealt with about 100,000 employees all located in the District of Columbia. For the work of this commission $75,000 was appropriated, and the expense would have been much greater had the employments to be investigated not been located within a small territorial area. For the investigation of the New York Senate Committee on Civil Service $30,931.69 was expended, and a large part of the work was done without expense to the state by the New York Bureau of Municipal Research. Information has been received from Massachusetts that the investigation in that state with respect to the standardization of state employees cost $18,049.87, and the investigation of county employees $2,133.95.

Situation in Illinois. There is a great need for the standardization of salaries paid by the state government of Illinois. At present there is no assurance of equal pay for those performing the same duties. Original salaries for new positions, and advances and promotions after one is in the state service are not so adjusted as to treat all employees equally. Great variations exist in the salaries paid by different offices. One entering the state service has no assurance of treatment equal to that of others doing the same work, or of advances for faithful service. The state, as an employer, does not offer financial opportunities equal to those of private business, and cannot maintain the proper spirit among its employees unless they have the assurance of equal treatment and of advancement if their work is satisfactory. Salaries in the state service depend primarily upon detailed items in appropriation acts, and salaries from one state office to another now vary to a large extent according to the pressure brought by the head of an office for increases in appropriations.

No detailed information is now available regarding differences in rates of pay and of advancement in the several state offices, and no standardization of state salaries can be made without a thorough investigation. Salaries, so far as they are determined by statute (and except for the charitable and penal institutions and the University of Illinois, they are to a large extent so fixed), are fixed in the biennial appropriation acts. The House and Senate committees on appropriations cannot, in the time available to them, investigate the salaries paid to several thousand employees in order to equalize compensation, nor would it be possible for such committees, with varying membership each two years, to carry out a consistent policy of salary standardization.

Under the terms of the present statute the State Civil Service Commission has wide powers to standardize salaries; but these powers are practically meaningless, for salaries are now, in the main, fixed definitely by appropriation acts. Classifications have been worked out by the Commission, but are ineffective when conflicting with appropriation acts. In the Division of Foods and Dairies of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, certain automatic increases in salary for the second year of service are provided for in the appropriation act. Such a provision, however, merely emphasizes the fact that no regular provision for advances is made throughout the state service. Advances in salary are now made, of course, in many places throughout the state service, but no general plan exists for such advances.

The general (omnibus) appropriation act of 1919, in appropriating specific salaries for positions in the state service, uses in most cases the words "not to exceed the annual rates herein specified," and sought in this manner to confer a discretion upon the heads of offices to appoint or retain employees at salaries less than the amounts appropriated. Such a power has been used to some extent. Under it, salaries may be reduced but not increased. Of course, if such a power were exercised in making an original appointment at a rate lower than that fixed, it would be possible, under the statute, at some later time, to increase the compensation of such appointee up to the amount fixed by the appropriation act. But the power here under discussion is incapable of use so as to work out any standardization of salaries in the state service.

For a number of years appropriations for the charitable institutions have not itemized salaries and wages, and in 1919 the same plan was adopted for the penal institutions. The Department of Public Welfare has, therefore, a free hand to adjust salaries for such institutions, and has done so by General Order No. 222, effective July 1, 1919. For the charitable institutions such an adjustment was first made by General Order No. 40, issued by the State Board of Administration in 1911, and superseded by General Order No. 133, issued in 1915. Under General Order No. 222, now in force as to charitable and penal institutions, maximum and minimum compensations are prescribed in most cases, with automatic increases. For the positions covered by this order a definite policy of standardized salaries is, therefore, in operation.

Lump sum appropriations for salaries and wages are, of course, sometimes included in the appropriations for other offices and institutions, and this has been the policy for some time with respect to the University of Illinois. With respect to unskilled labor, and particularly with respect to labor not permanently employed, lump sum appropriations are ordinarily made, and some power, therefore, exists to adjust compensation; but this power is not capable of being used to bring about a standardization of salaries and wages. Little has as yet been accomplished toward the proper classification of positions, or toward an equitable standardization of salaries for employees of the state. The problem of classification of state employees and standardization of state salaries may be said to involve the whole issue as to the policy to be pursued by the state as an employer.

The results to be anticipated from a standardization of salaries in the state employment are the following: (a) To equalize salaries in the several offices so that those performing similar duties shall receive similar payments, and so that an equitable system of advances may be provided. (b) To obtain a better standard for appropriations, so as to simplify the work of the General Assembly in making appropriations, and to permit the establishment of a better method of accounting control over appropriations made for salaries and wages. (c) To establish salary standards for appointments and advances in state positions, which can be used in the employment of persons by the state, whether such employment is obtained through the Civil Service Commission or otherwise.

An investigation to accomplish these purposes must: (a) Outline in detail the duties of each department or office of the state service. (b) Analyze the duties of each employee. (c) Present a reclassification of state positions based upon the character of the work actually performed, and work out standards of salaries for each class of positions.

Such an investigation is important, and its results can be employed to improve materially the efficiency of the state service. Reference has already been made to the expense of such a task for federal employees, and for the states of New York and Massachusetts. The State of Illinois has about seventy-five hundred employees, with an annual pay roll of about ten million dollars, and such employees do their work in widely separated parts of the state. This statement does not include those who are termed "officers," nor transient and part time labor.

Conclusion. The task of salary investigation when begun should be pushed to completion without delay. The commission has felt that the sum of $15,000 appropriated by the Act of 1919 is insufficient to conduct a thorough investigation as the basis for reporting "a plan for the standardization of salaries, wages, fees and other compensation for personal services of all employees of the state." Moreover, the wisdom of proceeding with an investigation of this character and magnitude during the present period of reconstruction and unsettled industrial conditions, may well be doubted. We have, therefore, thought it best not to use the appropriation of $15,000.00 made for this purpose, 1919, and $14,924.60 of this appropriation will lapse. The Commission recommends that the Fifty-second General Assembly appropriate $25,000 for the purpose of conducting an investigation, through a commission constituted in the same manner as that provided by the legislation of the Fifty-first General Assembly.

Every committee hearing shall be open to the public.

There shall be filed, in the proper envelope, with every bill or resolution reported upon, a sheet containing the foregoing information as to such bill or resolution, to be filed by the Clerk of the House numerically by the number of the bill in such form as to be most accessible for the use of the members and the public, during the session, and at the end thereof in the office of the Secretary of State.

17. When any bill is about to be considered by a committee the introducer of the bill shall be notified of the time and place where such bill shall be considered by such committee.

17½. No committee shall sit during sessions of the House, without consent of the House.

BILLS.

18. When the roll shall be called for the first introduction of bills, each member may introduce three bills. And should the call be suspended by adjournment or otherwise, the calling of the roll shall be taken up when that order of business is reached, at the point at which it was discontinued, and this order shall be observed until the roll call shall be alphabetically completed. No bill shall be introduced at the expiration of three weeks, after the adoption of the permanent rules, except upon each Tuesday and except by Standing Committees of the House.

19. The Clerk shall indorse on every bill the number thereof, the name of the member introducing it, the date of the introduction, and the several orders taken thereon; and when printed, said several indorsements shall be printed at the head of the bill.

20. When a bill is introduced it shall be read by its title, ordered printed and referred to the proper committee for consideration. It is hereby made the duty of any member introducing a bill proposing an amendment to any statute law of this State, to underscore the word or words, comprising the proposed amendment, and no bill shall be printed until such word or words are underscored. All parts of bills which are underscored shall be printed in italics.

21. The Clerk shall, as soon as any bill is printed, place the same in the postoffice boxes of the members; and printed bills shall be furnished to others than public officers and members of the General Assembly and the press only on the written order of the Speaker, the President and the President pro tem. of the Senate, and members of the General Assembly.

22. Amendments to bills may be offered at the conclusion of the second reading, and all amendments to bills, except amendments by striking out, shall be printed when adopted, and shall in like manner be deposited in the postoffice boxes of the members one day before such amended bill shall be read the third time.

23. After the second reading of the bill, and amendments, if any, the Speaker shall state the bill is ready to be ordered transcribed and typed for a third reading.

25. When an emergency is expressed in the preamble or body of an Act, as a reason why such Act should take effect prior to the first day of July next after its passage, and when such an Act contains a clause or proviso fixing such time prior to the first day of July, the question shall be, "Shall the bill pass?" and if decided affirmatively by a vote of two-thirds of the members elected to the House, then the bills shall be deemed passed; and, if, upon such vote a majority of said members elected, but less than two-thirds thereof, vote affirmatively on said question, then the vote on said bill shall be deemed reconsidered, and the bill subject to amendment by striking out such part thereof as expresses an emergency and the time of taking effect, and then said bill shall be under consideration upon its third reading, with the emergency clause and time of taking effect stricken out.

26. Every bill shall be read at large on three different days.

27. When a bill passes it shall be certified by the Clerk, who, at the foot thereof, shall note the day it passes.

REFERENCES.

Appropriation bills which contain provisions relating to nothing else than the appropriation, and apportionment bills which contain provisions relating to nothing else than the apportionment, shall be in order in preference to any other bills unless otherwise ordered. All bills for appropriations of money from the State treasury, or providing for the expenditure of money when referred to other committees and by them reported back to the House with favorable recommendations, shall be referred to the Committee on Appropriations for its consideration before being finally acted upon by the House.

The Speaker may reserve any bill or resolution introduced of general State importance, or in case of emergency, on the Speaker's table and lay the same before the House; after the same has been printed, and with the consent of the House the same may be considered as in Committee of the Whole House, in the order in which such measures may be entered; otherwise, or upon the failure of the House to consent to such reference, the bill or resolution shall be referred to its appropriate committee; provided, however, that no bill or resolution may be considered in the Committee of the Whole House, until two days after the same shall have been printed and placed in the postoffice boxes of the members.

29. All questions relating to the priority of business to be acted upon, not otherwise provided for in these rules, shall be decided by the Speaker without debate.

30. When a question has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for a member of the majority to move for a reconsideration thereof, or give notice that he will make such motion within the time prescribed by these rules, for which time he shall control the motion. But no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion, upon which the vote was taken, shall have gone out of the possession of the House; nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless within the next day of actual session of the House: Provided, that should the member giving notice of a motion to reconsider, not make such motion within the time prescribed by the rule, any other member voting with the majority, may make such motion, within the next succeeding legislative day. Such motion shall take precedence of all other questions, except a motion to adjourn: And, provided, further, that when a bill has passed the House it shall require a constitutional majority to reconsider the vote by which the same was passed: And, provided, also, when a motion to reconsider, the vote by which a bill is passed is made, or a notice is given that such motion will be made within three days of the last legislative day of the session, it will then be in order for any member to move that such motion or notice of motion may be taken up and disposed of.

PRACTICE.

31. Upon the demand of five members, which may be oral or in writing and made before or after a viva voce vote, or before or after a division, the yeas and nays shall be taken on any question, and entered upon the Journal. Such demand shall be made before proceeding to other business.

32. Upon a call of the House for the yeas and nays on any question the names of the members shall be called in alphabetical order.

33. A motion to strike out the enacting words of a bill shall have the precedence of a motion to amend, and, if carried, shall be considered equivalent to its rejection.

34. No person shall visit or remain at the Clerk's desk, while the yeas and nays are being called, and in the performance of their duties, all clerks of the House shall be under the supervision and control of the Speaker.

35. A motion for commitment, until it shall be decided, shall preclude all amendments to the main question.

36. A motion to lay any particular proposition on the table shall apply to that particular proposition only.

37. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of an amendment.

38. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desires it.

39. When a motion is made, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or if it be in writing, it shall be read aloud by the Clerk before debate thereon.

40. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, or read by the Clerk, it shall be considered in possession of the House, but may be withdrawn at any time before decision or amendment, by leave of the House.

41. Any member may call for a division of the question, when divisible, but a motion to strike out and insert shall be indivisible.

42. Whenever any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the House, he shall rise and respectfully address himself to "Mr. Speaker," and confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality, and no motion shall be considered in order unless made from the seat occupied by the member.

43. When two or more members arise at once the Speaker shall name the member who is to speak first.

44. All questions, except as provided in rules 45 and 51, whether in the Committee of the Whole or in the House, shall be disposed of in the order in which they are moved, except that in filling up blanks the largest sum and the most remote day shall be the first put.

45. The rules of the House shall be observed in all committees as far as may be applicable.

46. When the committee reports a substitute for an original bill, with the recommendation that the substitute pass, it shall be in order to read the substitute a first time at once and order it printed.

47. Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House may be presented by any member, who shall state briefly to the House the contents thereof, which may be received, read and referred on the same day.

48. No member shall speak longer than thirty minutes at one time, nor more than once on the same question, except by leave of the House; but the member who introduces a measure shall, in all cases, have the right to close the debate, and this right shall not be denied him even after the previous question has been ordered, although he may have spoken once on the same subject: Provided, the member so speaking shall not be allowed more time in all than is permitted by the rules of the House to other members.

49. While the Speaker is putting a question or addressing the House, or when a member is speaking no person shall walk out of or across the room, or pass between the member speaking and the Chair, or entertain private discourse.

50. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the House the Speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order.

51. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received but—

To fix the time to which to adjourn.

To adjourn.

A call of the House.

To lay on the table.

The previous question.

To commit.

To postpone to a day certain.

To postpone to a day indefinitely.

To amend.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are named; and no motion—

To postpone to a day certain.

To commit, or

To postpone indefinitely.

Being decided, again shall be allowed on the same day, or at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

Provided, that when a call of the House, or a roll call upon any bill, resolution or motion, shall disclose the fact that there is not a quorum present, then the following shall be the order of business—

A motion: To produce a quorum by compelling the attendance of absent members.

To fix the time to which to adjourn.

To adjourn.

A motion for a call of the House.

52. The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Cushing's Parliamentary Rules and Practice, shall govern the House in all cases in which they are applicable and in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules and orders of the House, or the joint rules of the Senate and House of Representatives.

53. If a question be lost by adjournment of the House, and revived on the succeeding day, no member who has spoken on the preceding day shall be permitted to speak again on the same question without leave.

54. Any two members shall have the liberty to dissent from, and protest, in respectful language, against any act or resolution which they shall think injurious to the public or any individual, and have the reasons of their dissent entered upon the Journal.

55. In accordance with the provisions of an Act to create the Illinois Farm Commission, et cetera, approved June 28, 1919.

I respectfully transmit herewith for the consideration of your Honorable Body the report of the Illinois Farm Commission.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

To His Excellency, Frank O. Lowden, Governor of Illinois.

SIR: The commission provided for by "An Act to create the Illinois Farm Commission, to define its powers and duties, and to make an appropriation therefor", to investigate conditions in Illinois regarding the operation and leasing of Illinois farm lands, the growth of farm tenancy in this State, the maintenance of the fertility of the land, and such other questions as may bear upon the problem of crop production and profitable agriculture, beg leave to submit to Your Excellency the following report, as required by law.

Tenant farming is more prevalent in the central and northern parts of the State than elsewhere in Illinois. The richer and more productive the soil, the higher the percentage of farms operated by tenants. Statistics of 1910 show as high as 66 per cent of the farms in the northern and central sections operated by tenants as compared with only about 30 per cent in southern Illinois.

Public hearings were advertised and held by the commission at the following cities: Champaign, Danville, Watseka, El Paso, Galesburg, Princeton and Woodstock. Few tenants living under unfavorable conditions appeared at these hearings. They would naturally refrain from coming before the commission and telling of the bad conditions under which they were living, as in many cases such action on their part would terminate their leases, yet there was a fairly representative attendance of landlords and tenants of the better class at each meeting. They gave an apparently fair report of the conditions under which the land is farmed by both land owners and tenants in each locality.

On February 23, 1920, a meeting was held at Champaign, attended by forty farmers. Most of the tenants who were heard had one-year leases, and the majority of them seemed to see no special advantage in long-term leases. This sentiment prevailed at other places. Most of the landlords and tenants took the ground, that where both parties were satisfied, a long term by the tenant naturally followed. On the other hand, if either party to a long-term lease became dissatisfied, it made a very unpleasant working condition between the two, which could not be terminated until the expiration of the lease.

Another idea brought out at all the hearings was that it was not safe for a tenant farmer with a limited amount of money to buy land at the present high prices. There were exceptions, some taking the position that a tenant stood as good a chance of becoming a land owner at present high prices of farm products (which was in February, 1920) as he did when land and products were cheaper.

At Champaign, Watseka, Danville and El Paso, grain farming predominates. A start had been made in the use of clover, limestone and phosphate. The landlord generally furnishes one-half the clover seed, all the limestone and phosphate, and the tenant hauls them to the farm and puts them on. This is being done, however, only to a limited extent on rented farms. In these localities land is generally leased for one-half of all grain delivered at market and from $6.00 to $10.00 per acre for pasture. Some owners charged the tenant the above rent and a bonus of from $1.00 to $2.00 per acre, and occasionally as high as $10.00 per acre, and some rented their land for two-fifths of the grain, but these terms were exceptions. Only a few rent on a cash basis. Generally speaking, very little is being done to maintain the soil, and in most cases the land is growing poorer, while tenancy is on the increase. According to the 1920 census, about 59 per cent of the farms in this section are operated by tenants, an increase of about 5 per cent in ten years. Land is selling at from $300.00 to $500.00 per acre.

Many of these farms are owned by absentee landlords who generally take little interest in maintaining their farms and in the community life. Where there is a large percentage of tenancy, it was learned, the land is not quite so productive, improvements are not so good, and there is less community spirit than is found where operation of farms by the owners is the rule.

On February 26 a meeting was held at Galesburg. Here we found a different system of farming. Most of the live stock in this State is fed between the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. A different system of leasing is followed, due to live stock farming. Here the landlord furnishes the land, one-half the live stock and one-half the seed, while the tenant furnishes work stock, labor, machinery, and one-half of live stock. Farm crops are fed to live stock and everything sold off of the farm is divided equally. The landlord maintains buildings and fences.

In this locality tenants have better farm improvements. One-year leases prevail, yet the tenants stay longer on the same farms than where grain farming is followed. Land is maintained better and is more productive because of the live stock farming. There are better churches, better schools, better community life, better satisfied tenants, and fewer absentee landlords. Most of those who expressed an opinion thought a man with $10,000 and his equipment to run a quarter section of land would have a hard time paying for a 160 acre farm at present prices. A few were of the opinion that he could do it as easily as twenty years ago, if the prices for farm products were maintained. Corn then was about $1.80 per bushel on the farm; it was about 50 cents per bushel on November 26, 1920.

At Princeton and elsewhere in that locality more live stock is raised than at Champaign, Watseka and El Paso, but less than at Galesburg. More land is rented for cash.

On February 28, 1920, the commission met at Woodstock. In this vicinity 45.9 per cent of the land is farmed by tenants. This is an increase of 3.6 per cent in ten years. Land is selling at from $150.00 to $300.00 per acre; dairy farming is followed for the most part. Not much phosphate is used. Land is rented on the partnership or cash rent basis. Cash rent is from $8.00 to $12.00 per acre. There is not much absentee landlordism. About 50 per cent of the farms are operated by the owners' sons. These young men said that if their fathers did not own the land they would go to the city, because they thought the opportunity to succeed there would be better than to start in as farm hands or tenant farmers in the hope of acquiring farms. Most of the land here was bought and sold by speculators. Some of the tenants declared that improvements, phosphate, etc., applied by the tenant, should be paid for by landlord if the tenant leaves the farm before reaping the benefit.

It would seem from the above investigation made by your Commission, that if we hope to maintain the fertility of our soil and our community life in the rural districts, to make farm life attractive enough to keep our best young people on the farms, to feed the present generation, and leave our soil so that it will feed future generations, it is necessary:

First, to discourage speculation in land, whereby land values are made higher than the producing power will justify. To accomplish this we would recommend a transfer tax of one per cent of selling price on all transfers made in less than one year after ownership is acquired, safeguarded with such provisions as will protect transfers other than speculative.

Second, with the large percentage of tenancy in this State, the tenant necessarily is an important factor in maintaining the soil, and he should be encouraged and protected in his efforts to do so. Therefore, your commission would recommend a "tenant's rights" law, properly safeguarding both the rights of the landlord and tenant, to encourage the tenant to build up the soil and the farm generally. This law should provide for reimbursement of the tenant, on the termination of his lease, for the improvements he puts on the land with the consent of the landlord. It should also protect the landlord against the unnecessary destruction of his property by a careless tenant. This would encourage both good landlords and good tenants.

Third, we recommend the Federal Farm Loan Bank as a sane plan to furnish long term credit on farm lands, and urge the enactment of necessary legislation to protect and promote second mortgage loans on farm lands.

Fourth, we recommend that an appropriation of $25,000 be made to the Farm Management Department of the University of Illinois, for the purpose of making a farm tenancy survey.

The following message from the Governor was received and ordered placed on file:

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the House of Representatives the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SPRINGFIELD, February 1, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

Pursuant to the provisions of section 31, Article VI of the Constitution, Honorable James H. Cartwright, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, has submitted to me a report of a defect or omission in the laws, together with an appropriate form of bill to cure such defect or omission. A copy of the report of Judge Cartwright, and copy of the bill suggested by him is transmitted herewith.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

MY DEAR SIR: In compliance with Section 31 Article VI of the Constitution requiring Judges of the Supreme Court to report in writing to the Governor such defects and omissions in the laws as they may find to exist, together with appropriate forms of bills to cure such defects, I beg leave to call attention on behalf of the Judges of the Supreme Court, to a very serious defect in the laws of this State which has become a great evil of late years and results in the destruction of wills and the defeat of just and proper dispositions of property by testators. The defect arose out of the Common Law Rule established in feudal times in England concerning future interests, which required that any such interest should take effect in possession during the existence of the previous estate or immediately on its termination, so that if an individual had a life estate and it came to an end by forfeiture or in any other way before his death, a future estate to take effect at his death was lost. The reason for that rule of law was that under the feudal system, there must always be an occupant of the land to fulfill feudal duties to the Lord, to defend the estate and represent it so that other claimants might maintain their right. The only way to pass such an estate was by delivering possession and if the property became vacant, there was no one to perform military service and other duties to the Lord and the future interest was at an end. There never was the slightest reason for such a rule of law in this country where no feudal Lord has ever had any right to call upon occupants of land for feudal services and there ceased to be any reason for it long ago in England. The evil was cured and the rule abolished in the early years of the reign of Queen Victoria. (7 & 8 Vict. C. 76, sec. 8 & 8 & 9 Vict. C. 106). The rule has been abolished by statute in many states, but in this state the common law was adopted by statute and the courts are powerless to remedy the evil. The responsibility rests with the Legislature. The evil and wrong may be illustrated by many cases. Take for example, a case where a testator devises a life estate in land to his wife with remainder in fee simple to his son when he shall become 21 years of age. If the widow dies before the son becomes 21 years of age, the will is defeated and the estate devised to the son lost because the future interest did not vest immediately on the death of the widow. Such cases were not so frequent, but in Bond v. Moore, 236 Ill. 576, the Supreme Court was compelled to declare the law to be that heirs and a life tenant could destroy future contingent interests and that becoming generally understood, it has become a common practice. In every case such destruction defeats the will of the testator and almost invariably works an unjustifiable result and a great wrong. Cases come to the court continually where the court is powerless to afford any remedy. The creation of such future interests is generally wise and just and enables the testator to make suitable provision for the objects of his bounty and it is not a means nor used for the purpose of tying up estates. That is accomplished by creating trusts and it is done mainly in large estates employing capable lawyers who understand the method of doing that kind of work. It is strange that a rule of law which had its origin solely in feudal times in which the occupant owed duties to the Lord and which has long since been abolished in England and in many of the States should still prevail in this State. There is real and pressing need that the rule should be changed and I have the honor to submit herewith the form of a bill for that purpose.

With highest respect, I am, your obedient servant,

(Signed) JAMES H. CARTWRIGHT,
Chief Justice Supreme Court.

Honorable Len. Small, Governor.

A BILL FOR AN ACT CONCERNING FUTURE INTERESTS.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: That no future interest shall fail or be defeated by the determination of any precedent estate or interest prior to the happening of the event or contingency on which the future interest is limited to take effect.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 5.

WHEREAS, There is pending before the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, H. R. 14097, "A Bill having for its object and purpose the assurance to persons within the jurisdiction of every State the equal protection of the laws and to punish the crime of lynching;" and

WHEREAS, The crime of lynching has become so widespread throughout the country, which in many States the State authorities have almost wholly failed to prevent or punish, and in a vast majority of cases seem to have been induced by local prejudice against the race, color, nationality, or religion of the person lynched; and

WHEREAS, The taking of the lives of 3244 human beings in this country in thirty years, fifty of whom were women, shows that public conscience has become insensible to the enormity of this evil, and that the ordinary processes of law are not able to cope with it; and

WHEREAS, Lynching is not confined to any particular section, but is liable to be resorted to anywhere within the confines of our great country, evidenced by the fact that even the soil of our beloved State, consecrated to the dust of Lincoln, Grant, Logan and John M. Palmer, has been stained by blood drawn by the cruel hand of the lyncher; and

WHEREAS, The taking of so many lives without due process of law, many of whom were only charged with minor offenses, and a considerable number proven by subsequent developments to have been innocent of the crimes with which they were charged, is not only a travesty upon justice, but a blot upon the civilization and the fair name of America; and,

WHEREAS, It is the duty of the Federal Government to make every person secure in his life, not only as a matter of justice to the individual, but also in order that this shall be what our fathers intended, a government of, by and for the people, be it therefore

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That the members of the Fifty-second General Assembly of the State of Illinois request the members of Congress from the State of Illinois, to endeavor to bring about the passage of H. R. 14097, or of similar legislation at as early date as possible; and, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of Congress from the State of Illinois.

Mr. Church offered the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Contingent Expenses, when appointed:

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 22.

WHEREAS, A large amount of time is consumed at each session of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly in calling the roll; and

WHEREAS, The House of Representatives of the State of Wisconsin, and the House of Representatives of the State of Iowa have been and are now successfully using an electrical voting device whereby roll calls are made instantaneously, thereby saving a large amount of time; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed by the Speaker to investigate the subject of electrical voting devices and report their recommendations regarding the feasibility of adopting such a device in the House of Representatives of Illinois.

Mr. Young offered the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, when appointed:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 6.

Section 2. Amendments to this Constitution may be proposed in either House of the General Assembly, and if the same shall be voted for by two-thirds of all the members elected to each of the two Houses, such proposed amendments, together with the ayes and nays of each House thereon, shall be entered in full on their respective journals, and said amendments shall be submitted to the electors of this State for adoption or rejection, at the next election of members of the General Assembly, in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The proposed amendments shall be published in full at least three months preceding the election, and if a majority of the electors voting at said election shall vote for the proposed amendments, they shall become a part of this Constitution. But the General Assembly shall have no power to propose amendments to more than five articles of this Constitution at the same session, nor to the same article oftener than once in four years.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 9.

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the State of Illinois, the Senate concurring herein, That there shall be submitted to the electors of this State for adoption or rejection at the next election of the members of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois in the manner provided by law, a proposition to amend Article IX of the Constitution of this State by adding thereto three additional sections, to be known as Sections 14, 15 and 16 of Article IX, as follows:

Article IX, Sec. 14. For the purpose (or any one or more of them) of acquiring, constructing, owning, leasing, maintaining, and operating such income-producing properties as it is by law authorized to own or operate (or to own and operate) for the supply of transportation, communication, light, heat, power, and water (or any of them) any city, village or incorporated town may issue interest bearing bonds, in excess of any limitation of indebtedness otherwise prescribed in this Constitution, to an amount not at any time exceeding in the aggregate fifteen per centum on the full value of the taxable real property therein, to be ascertained by the last assessment for State and county purposes previous to the issuance of such bonds. Any city, village, or incorporated town issuing such bonds shall, before or at the time of doing so, provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest thereon as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal thereof within thirty years from the date thereof.

Article IX. Sec. 15. Unless otherwise provided in the act of any city, village, or incorporated town, authorizing the issuance of any bonds for the purpose of financing any income-producing public utility, such bonds shall be held to be issued in excess of the limitation prescribed by section 12 of this article. Each issue of bonds, or of other securities, by any city, village or incorporated town, for the aforesaid purpose, shall be payable in substantially equal annual installments of principal and interest combined, being not more than five years from the date thereof. No such bonds or other securities shall be issued until the proposition therefor shall have been consented to by a majority of the legal voters of such city, village, or incorporated town voting upon the question. Any city, village, or incorporated town owning or operating any income-producing public utility shall conform to all requirements with respect to the keeping of accounts and the audit thereof and to the making of reports that shall be prescribed by law with respect to such matters for any other persons or corporations owning or operating a like utility.

Article IX, Sec. 16. Any city, village, or incorporated town issuing bonds, in excess of the limitation of indebtedness prescribed by section 12 of this article, for the purpose of financing any income-producing public utility, shall, not less than four months prior to the time when any tax for the payment and discharge of the principal of and interest on such bonds, or of the principal of and interest on any other indebtedness incurred for the purpose of financing the same utility, shall by law become collectable, deposit or cause to be deposited with the treasurer thereof, out of the gross earnings of the utility for the financing of which the indebtedness to be discharged by such tax was incurred, a sum equivalent in amount to such tax, the funds so deposited to be used solely for the purpose of paying and discharging such indebtedness, both as to principal and interest, as the same falls due. To the extent that funds to be used for the payment of any such indebtedness, as to either principal or interest, shall be deposited with the treasurer of any such city, village, or incorporated town prior to the collection of such tax, such tax shall not be collected, but no subsequent loss or misappropriation of the funds so deposited shall relieve such city, village, or incorporated town of its liability to pay such indebtedness.

Any city, village, or incorporated town issuing bonds in excess of the limitation of indebtedness prescribed by section 12 of this article, for the purpose of financing any income-producing public utility, shall thereafter (irrespective of the subsequent amortization of the debt evidenced by any bonds or other securities whatsoever, issued for the financing of such utility) establish and maintain such rates or charges for the service supplied as are necessary to provide sufficient revenue (in addition to amounts required for the payment of the principal of and interest on all outstanding bonded or other indebtedness incurred for the financing of such utility) to pay and discharge at least all costs and expenses involved in or incidental to the ownership, operation, and maintenance of such utility, including expenditures and reserves for repairs and renewals necessary to maintain the properties in first class condition in every respect at all times.

The provisions of this section and of sections 12, 14 and 15 of this article shall be self-executing, but laws not in conflict therewith may be passed to facilitate their operation. Any tax payer of any city, village, or incorporated town owning or operating any such utility shall have the right to enforce all provisions of said sections by appropriate proceedings in any court of competent jurisdiction, but the right of such taxpayer with respect to the enforcement thereof shall not be exclusive. It shall be the duty of courts of general jurisdiction to enforce all such provisions and for such purpose they shall have all necessary powers, including the power to control and regulate the service supplied by any such utility.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 13.

WHEREAS, It has been represented that the lack of housing facilities is undermining the health of the people of the State of Illinois, is subversive of their morals, and is causing serious financial loss, and that the removal, in so far as possible, of all obstacles which retard activity in the building trades is an imperative need; and

WHEREAS, It has been represented that numerous individuals, associations and corporations of this State, engaged as building contractors, in the manufacture and sale of building materials, and persons in control of such trade unions as are engaged in the building industry, have unlawfully conspired together to prevent the use of building material other than such material as is manufactured or purchased by these manufacturers and contractors, thus monopolizing the building industry of this State and enabling them to charge extortionate prices for building material; and

WHEREAS, It has been represented that under the pretense of the protection of the interests of the members of the trade unions engaged in the building industry, but in fact for their personal gain, and because of pretended or real infractions of the rules of these unions by owners and builders who have in no way bound themselves to these rules, certain business agents have, by threats of strikes, boycotts and violence, and the placing of explosive bombs charged with obnoxious odors, commonly known as "Stink Bombs," coerced owners and builders into paying large sums of money, calling them fines, to these business agents for their personal use; to employ labor unnecessarily; to destroy work already done and reconstruct same at a greatly enhanced price; to pay for labor that has not been done and to pay for refraining from the use of labor; and that such unlawful practices are still continuing, to the detriment of the liberties and personal security of the people of this State; and

WHEREAS, It has been represented that these conditions make the construction of new buildings, the alteration of old buildings and the maintenance of all buildings onerous to the owner and home builder, thereby checking the building so essential to the welfare of the people of the State of Illinois; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That a committee of nine be appointed, five from the House and four from the Senate, to investigate these said persons, associations, corporations and conditions; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee is hereby fully authorized to take evidence and have the power to summon before it, or such sub-committee as said committee may appoint, such witnesses and documents as said committee may find necessary, to fully and completely investigate and examine into all of the affairs of the said persons, associations and corporations with reference to the said conditions, and to report the same with the recommendations of said committee to both Houses of the General Assembly; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee have full power to employ a sergeant-at-arms and a secretary and such stenographers and other necessary help as may be necessary to fully and completely carry out said investigation.

R. 5227, approved July 11, 1919, re-appropriated to be used in the erection of a Memorial Archway at the intersection of Clay Street, extended, in the City of Vicksburg, within the bounds of Vicksburg National Military Park, in commemoration of the participators and defenders in the siege of Vicksburg fortifications, who sacrificed their lives there; and, especially, memorializing the remarkable success and sacred incidents of that Reunion and Peace Jubilee of October, 1917; and

WHEREAS, The said archway is now completed in imperishable granite on its chosen site, though without any knowledge of pre-arranged plans that, if carried out, will seriously militate against the sacred purposes of the Arch; the rich perspective of surrounding vistas emphasizes the simplicity with hallowed dignity of honor and patriotism sanctifies the purposes of the reunion of the Union and Confederate Civil War Veterans. By unanimous consent, the Speaker laid before the House, a communication transmitting a copy of a Resolution adopted by the City Council of Chicago which was referred to the Committee on Municipalities.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—The Governor directs me to lay before the House of Representatives the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SPRINGFIELD, February 24, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

I have the honor to transmit herewith, for the consideration of your honorable body, a report by the Illinois Housing and Building Commission, appointed by my immediate predecessor in the office of Governor, the Honorable Frank O. Lowden, pursuant to an Act approved on June 28, 1919. The commission has conducted hearings and made an exhaustive study of the housing situation in Illinois, and they submit with their report certain recommendations as to legislation upon the subject of their inquiry which I think deserve the earnest and thoughtful consideration of the General Assembly. The Commission will submit at a later date, in compliance with the provisions of the aforesaid Act, the draft of a bill for a State Building Code.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

To his Excellency, the Honorable Len. Small, Governor of the State of Illinois:

The Illinois Housing and Building Commission, authorized by an Act of the Fifty-first General Assembly, begs leave to submit the following report for the consideration of Your Excellency and for transmission to the two Houses of the General Assembly:

GENERAL STATEMENT.

The Illinois Housing and Building Commission was authorized by legislation of the Fifty-first General Assembly (Laws 1919, page 591), the Act providing that "it shall be the duty of the commission to prepare and draft a State Housing Code, a State Building Code, and a Zoning Bill for the State of Illinois for presentation to the Fifty-second General Assembly." The commission as appointed by Governor Frank O. Lowden is composed of the following members:

Senator HAROLD C. KESSINGER, Chairman;
Senator WILLETT H. CORNWELL,
Hon. GOTTHARD A. DAHLBERG,
Hon. HORACE W. McDAVID,
Mr. CHARLES H. HAMMOND,
Mr. ROBERT KNIGHT,
Mr. THOMAS A. COLLINS.

The commission selected Walter F. Dodd as secretary. Sixteen meetings of the commission were held between the dates, September 30 and January 5, 1920. Meetings averaging one a week were held between January 5 and the date of this report. A number of special conferences composed of several of the members of the commission and the secretary, were held, the special conferences more than equalling the number of regular meetings.

Public hearings upon the housing shortage were held in the City Hall of Chicago on December 16 and December 17. Public hearings upon the proposed housing bill were held, one at the City Hall on December 6, and a second at the office of the Department of Public Works and Buildings in Chicago on December 30. A hearing upon the proposed zoning legislation was held on January 7, 1920.

In connection with the housing shortage, Mr. Carl H. Zeiss, of the Chicago Bar, served as an advisor to the commission. In connection with zoning, Mr. Henry P. Chandler, counsel of the Chicago Plan Commission, acted as an advisor to the commission, and Mr. Edward M. Bassett of New York was called into consultation. In connection with zoning the commission desires also to express its indebtedness to Mr. William M. Lawton, Mr. John L. Vette, and Mr. Eugene H. Dupee.

II.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS.

A result of its investigations the commission makes the following recommendations:

(a) It recommends the passage of a bill for an Act in relation to housing, the text of which is made a part of this report and will be found in Appendix I.

(b) The commission recommends the enactment of a revision of the Zoning Act of 1919. The text of this proposal is made a part of this report as Appendix II.

(c) The commission recommends the passage of a joint resolution providing for an Investigating Committee to inquire into combinations or agreements which restrict building construction. The text of such a proposal joint resolution together with a bill to appropriate for the expense of the investigation, will be found in Appendix III.

(d) The commission recommends the passage of an Act permitting the establishment of rental commissions by cities. The text of such a proposed Act will be found in Appendix IV.

(e) The commission recommends the enactment of the following bills with respect to relationships between landlord and tenant; amendment of sections 2 and 6 of the Landlord and Tenant Act; so as to do away with the double penalty for holding over, and to require sixty (60) days notice in place of thirty (30) days notice to terminate tenancies by the month; amendment of the Forcible Entry and Detainer Act so as to prevent waiver of jury trial in such cases, and so as to authorize the court to grant a stay of execution not exceeding six (6) months; amendment to section 60 of the Practice Act so as to avoid waiver of jury trial in cases relating to residence property. The text of such proposals will be found in Appendix V.

(f) The commission recommends that this State use its influence in favor of the enactment of the so-called Calder-Nolan Bill by Congress providing for a home loan banking system, based primarily upon building and loan associations but also permitting other institutions to re-discount their home mortgages under Federal supervision.

(g) The commission is not yet ready to report a proposed Building Code, but expects to report a bill for this purpose later.

III.

HOUSING STANDARDS.

The proposed Housing Bill, which will be found in Appendix I, was based upon a careful investigation of housing legislation in other states, and seeks to embody standards which are thought desirable as minimum standards for the State of Illinois. There has been much discussion in the commission with reference to: (a) The communities to which a proposed Housing Bill should apply, and (b) the method of enforcing such proposed legislation. The commission has thought it best at the present time to limit the application of such a bill (except as to certain water and sewer provisions) to cities, villages and incorporated towns of 5,000 inhabitants or over. It has also felt that it would be wise to maintain a division between local building and health departments in the enforcement of such proposed legislation.

In the preparation of this bill the commission has sought suggestions from every possible source. The bill before being presented in its present form was printed in tentative form and sent out widely for criticism. The criticisms received upon the tentative draft have been considered in detail by the commission, and public hearings were held after full criticisms had been presented in writing. The bill as submitted represents, therefore, a careful investigation of the problem, and a careful weighing of criticisms presented upon an earlier draft.

The commission recognizes that it is undesirable at the present time to increase the cost of building unnecessarily, and has sought in its recommendations to do nothing which will hinder the construction of dwellings to meet the present serious housing shortage. On the other hand, the commission has thought that it is highly undesirable at the present time to reduce the standards of housing. At a time such as this arguments will always be heard for a reduction of standards of housing, but the health and safety of the community make it essential that desirable standards should be maintained. Arguments of expediency based upon an emergency situation would lead to a permanent lowering of standards as to housing conditions. It must be remembered that the life of a dwelling may extend for fifty years, and that lowered standards if now permitted may therefore fix the housing condition of part of our population for half a century.

IV.

BUILDING CODE.

Under the Act creating it, the commission was instructed to prepare and present a Building Code. The commission after a good deal of discussion of this matter has decided that there is little possibility of presenting a satisfactory Building Code, without going fully into all the details of building construction; and that more time is required for the preparation and submission of a bill upon this subject. A commission was authorized in this State in 1911 to "revise and codify the buildings laws of the State of Illinois." This commission reported in 1914 an elaborate "Proposed Building Law for the State of Illinois." This proposed Building Law was well drawn, and contains much that is now useful, although it was, perhaps, somewhat too detailed. The General Assembly did not enact this proposal into law. The present commission has been unwilling to recommend the enactment of the bill drawn by the previous commission, and must have further time for the preparation of a proposed substitute.

V.

ZONING.

The commission presents herewith an Appendix II, the draft of a proposed revision of the Zoning Act passed by the Illinois General Assembly in 1919 (Laws, 1919, page 262). The Act of 1919 is in many respects unworkable. The chief defects found in practice to exist with respect to the Act of 1919 are the following:

(a) The Act permits only cities and villages to enact zoning ordinances, and does not include incorporated towns.

(b) The Act proceeds upon the assumption that piece-meal zoning is to be permitted, rather than upon the assumption that a zoning ordinance should cover the whole city, village or incorporated town.

(c) In practice the requirements as to notice in connection with public hearings upon proposed ordinances constitute the most serious defects in the Act of 1919. The requirements as to notice proceed upon the assumption that a notice must contain a specific description of each piece of property included in a zoning plan, and that a mailed notice must go to each property owner. Zoning ordinances for a city are likely to be matters of general knowledge; and zoning as it has been upheld by the courts of other states, is based upon the police power for the welfare of the community rather than upon the notion of taking the property of individuals. A published or posted notice of hearings is, it is thought, an ample safeguard for the individual property holder. Such a provision does not place a proposed zoning plan under such handicaps that it would be substantially impossible to enact a zoning ordinance in a large community.

(d) The Zoning Act of 1919 permits a group of people to take themselves out from a general zoning plan by protest. Such withdrawal of particular groups by protest is thought to raise serious constitutional objections to the Act of 1919. It is also thought practically to destroy any uniform plan of zoning in the interests of the entire community.

(e) The Act of 1919 does not provide for a continuous administration of a zoning ordinance after it is once adopted. The bill as here presented specifically provides that the officer by whom a zoning ordinance is to be enforced shall be designated by ordinance and also provides for a board of appeals which shall have certain continuing authority with respect to the zoning ordinance and its amendment.

A preliminary draft of the Zoning Bill was printed so as to indicate all changes made in the legislation of 1919, and was widely distributed for criticism. A public hearing upon this bill was held in Chicago on January 7, 1921. The present bill was then drawn.

(f) The Act of 1919 requires the recording of every ordinance passed thereunder. The recording of the Evanston zoning ordinance is estimated to cost twenty-one hundred dollars ($2,100). The expense of recording a zoning ordinance for the city of Chicago would be so great as to be unduly burdensome, without any compensating advantage.

The commission desires to emphasize the fact that zoning plans are not intended merely for the protection of residential districts, but that any zoning legislation and ordinances thereunder should be devised with equal reference to the protection and development of the manufacturing and commercial interests of the community. The commission feels that there is need for cooperation among adjacent communities in connection with zoning, and a need also for some State advisory body which might prevent local conflicts and aid in the working out of more satisfactory local zoning plans.

The commission also feels that it is desirable to emphasize the need for more careful city planning than has existed in the past. City planning has to do largely with matters covered by zoning and housing legislation, but it has many broader aspects, and the time has come when legislation may well be enacted to encourage cities in preparing and carrying out adequate and comprehensive city plans for developing themselves over long periods of time. Much in this respect has already been accomplished by the Chicago Plan Commission, and by the city planning commissions organized in a number of the smaller cities of the State. However, these steps have been taken under the general powers of cities, without any specific encouragement from legislation. Although the commission feels that the time has come for legislation authorizing cities to establish city planning commissions, this body was not authorized to propose any such legislation, and has not done so.

The commission also feels that there is need for what may be termed State planning; that is, for a State organization which will plan the systems for State roads, State parks, etc., with reference to the plans to be worked out by particular communities as to their own city plans. The commission also feels that it is desirable that the State should have some official body which could not only work out plans with reference to the arrangement of State roads, State parks, etc., but which could advise with cities as to general city planning and which could aid adjacent communities in the working out of their local plans without conflict. The Forest Preserve Act has taken a distinct step in the direction of broader planning of parks for territory outside of the limits of cities, but what has been done so far by legislation in encouraging local parks, forest preserves, etc., is somewhat haphazard, without any State direction, advice or supervision.

VI.

HOUSING SHORTAGES.

Although the investigation of the present housing shortage and the consequent effect upon the relations of landlords and tenants was not one of the specific duties of the commission, nevertheless, this problem has been carefully investigated by the commission, because of its pressing nature and because of its close relationship to the duties of the commission.

The commission finds that owing to the practical cessation of building of dwelling premises during and since the war, coupled with the increase in population and demand, there exists today a serious housing shortage in the City of Chicago, and in other cities of the State. As one result of this shortage there has been great overcrowding in living quarters. This has been detrimental to the health, morals and general welfare of the public.

The Chicago Housing Association has for the City of Chicago sought by private endeavor to meet to some extent the present housing shortage, upon a purely business basis, and has among its directors: Benjamin J. Rosenthal, J. Ogden Armour, Col. Abel Davis, D. F. Kelly, H. H. Merrick, Harry A. Wheeler, and William Wrigley, Jr. Mr. Rosenthal, who is one of the best informed men upon the housing situation in Chicago, appeared before the Illinois Housing and Building Commission on December 16 and said:

"In my opinion 500,000 human beings in the City of Chicago are miserably housed, almost living in the slums. Now then, when I say 'living in the slums' I mean they are living without the ordinary comforts of a house. You asked a question of Dr. Taylor, do they sleep in rooms with no light and no windows, and if they are sleeping where there is no air? Hundreds of them are sleeping where there is no light and no air, hundreds of them. You asked a question of Dr. Taylor about outside toilets. Thousands of them go outside as much as 75 feet to go to the toilet. Their homes in many cases are in a terrible condition. These outside toilets in the winter are in a frightful condition, almost impossible to use them. I don't know what they do during that period.

"They are sleeping in the City of Chicago today as many as five in one bed. And when I make statements to you gentlemen I want you to know that I am able to give you the names and places at all times in the City of Chicago. * * *

"I have only had that reported, I have not seen it; it is said that they sleep as many as twelve in one room. I have not seen that, I have seen eight, but only know it is reported that there are twelve. Last week I was around on the West Side and came across one case where there were eight in a room, six children, a father and mother, eating, sleeping, dressing, washing and cooking, everything in a single room. * * *

"The authorities are helpless, for this reason, if they throw these people out, where are they going to go? If you will go to Dr. Barr he will take you to a shack, for it is nothing more than a shack, where there are forty apartments, and three-fifths of those people are tubercular, as proven by an examination of the health authorities. They won't take them out, and you know why. If they take them out, others will come in there, and they become tubercular, so the T. B. situation is very serious, and you don't know unless you have made a study of T. B. in some way or read what has been written on this subject, what the real condition is. It is claimed that T. B. is developed in the child—that 90 per cent have T. B. germs in childhood, they throw them off if housed properly, but in these conditions most of them become victims of T. B.

"There is another condition that I want to make clear to you. You talk of health. It is not health alone that is impaired, but morals. You cannot conceive the moral situation in the City of Chicago. We have instances where boys and girls and sleeping in the same bed night after night, boys 9, 10, and 11 years and girls 10 and 11 years old. We have cases where children are born of the relationship of brother and sister."

Another result has been great hardship upon the house or apartment renting public at large, because of actual or threatened evictions and of great increases in rent. The commission finds that increases in rent have been in many instances justifiable, because of the increased cost of operation. On the other hand, the supply of houses and apartments is so limited that the tenant is almost at the mercy of the landlord in the matter of rental. Although only a small percentage of the present houses and apartments have been built during the present period of high construction cost, the tendency is for landlords to base their rental on the abnormal present day replacement value of their premises. The result of this has been that leases and rental agreements that are unjust, unreasonable and oppressive both as to amount of rental and as to other conditions, have in many cases been imposed upon tenants. Threat of eviction has served as a club for the landlord. In many instances flat buildings have been sold at a high price, and the purchaser has proceeded to oust the tenants who would not accede to his rental terms. The tenants in most cases have no other place to go, so that the landlord has had a practical monopoly and has been able to force his terms upon the tenant.

What has just been said should not be construed into a condemnation of landlords as a class. Before the present housing shortage, owners of houses had for some years been making little on their investments, and with increased cost of building during recent years, and increased cost of operation, substantial increases in rental have in many cases been reasonable, although a hardship on tenants. But in any class, some will take full and unfair advantage of a situation, and this has been true of the landlord class during the past few years. Restrictive legislation of an emergency character may be necessary to protect the honest and fair landlord from unfair competitors in the landlord group.

The commission sees no prospect of definite relief in the housing shortage through building for from three to five years. The commission has investigated what other countries and other states in this country have done in this situation, which is general.

I. Government Construction.

Great Britain under its Housing and Town Planning Act of 1919 (9 and 10 Geo. V. Ch. 35) has set out to build 500,000 small houses. Local authorities raise the money and dispense it, but the national government guarantees them against the greater portion of the annual loss. No effort is being made to rent the houses for a rent sufficient to bring a fair return on the investment, and the government faces an annual loss which has been estimated at 100 million dollars a year for sixty years. This plan practically makes the public as a whole pay in part for the dwellings of that part of the public which occupies these houses. A full review of the English legislation will be found in a recent report by Lawrence Veiller on How England is meeting the Housing Shortage (National Housing Association, 1920.)

Other European countries likewise are building homes for their people.

A general view of foreign housing activity and legislation will be found in a brief of the Attorney General of the State of New York in the case of Guttag v. Shatzkin, in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Some of the statements in this report regarding foreign legislation are taken from this brief.

Massachusetts. Article 47 of the Constitutional Amendments of Massachusetts provides that in a time of emergency the providing of shelter is a public function. Chapter 554, General Acts of 1920, of Massachusetts, authorizes a city or town in which the mayor or a majority of the board of select men proclaims that a public emergency exists, to acquire real property and provide shelter for the inhabitants. It also authorizes cities or towns to borrow for that purpose. This law was passed May 28, 1920, and will be in effect only until February 1, 1922.

In connection with government construction, reference should be made to the house construction activities of the United States government during the period of the war. This work of construction was, of course, undertaken during an emergency in order to house those engaged in the production of necessary war supplies. For the purpose of this report the important activities of the United States government in this connection are merely referred to, but not here discussed.

II. State or Local Advancing of Funds.

Canada has a plan whereby the Dominion government lends from a $25,000,000 fund to the provinces according to population. The provinces permit the money to be administered through municipal housing commissions. A number of the provinces have also passed laws providing for the loaning of money to home builders. Ontario, for instance, has "The Municipal Housing Act" under which the municipalities issue debentures guaranteed by the province. The maximum loan is $5,100. Soldiers and widows or widowed mothers of soldiers are given a preference in the matter of loans. Under the Canadian system the houses are expected to be paid for by the purchasers. Several thousand houses have been erected under these plans. A brief statement of Canadian experience will be found in Alfred Buckley, Government Housing in Canada, National Municipal Review, August, 1920.

Wisconsin. Chapter 402, Laws of 1919, provides for the formation of housing corporations authorized to acquire and subdivide land and to erect houses costing not over $5,000. Preferred stock and common stock are issued. The investor buys the preferred stock, which pays 5 per cent. The lessee pays on his subscription and pays rent. Profits go to pay off preferred stock. The members never acquire ownership of an individual home. If a lessee wants to leave, the corporation must buy his stock for what he has paid up. Any city or county is authorized to subscribe for preferred stock of any such corporation operating within its limits. Milwaukee has advanced money under this law.

Cooperative housing associations similar to the Wisconsin housing corporation exist in Pennsylvania, Canada, England, Belgium and Germany.

North Dakota. Under authority of a constitutional amendment, Chapter 150, Laws of 1919, approved February 25th, 1919, it is provided that the State of North Dakota shall engage in the enterprise of providing homes for residents of the state, and to that end there is established The Home Building Association of North Dakota, which is administered by the Industrial Commission.

Prospective home builders deposit money with the association and receive interest not to exceed 6 per cent. When the home builder has 20 per cent, the state through the association advances 80 per cent of the building cost and builds the home. It can acquire property by purchase or eminent domain. The rate of interest on the loan is fixed by the Industrial Commission but must not exceed 6 per cent. The Act providing for "homes" and "farm homes," the former being in or near a city, the latter including barn, outbuildings and land. $5,000 is the limit on "homes" and $10,000 on "farm homes."

South Dakota. A special session of the legislature held in June, 1920, provided by joint resolution for the submission at the next general election of an amendment to Article XIII of the Constitution of South Dakota whereby "the state may establish and maintain a system of credits for assisting in the building of homes by the people of the state and therefor may loan money and extend credit to the people of the state upon real estate security, * * * " (See Chapter 35 of Laws passed at the 1st and 2nd special sessions of the Sixteenth Legislature of the State of South Dakota). This constitutional amendment was approved by the voters in November, 1920, but no law has yet been passed in pursuance of it.

A full review of governmental activity in this field before the war will be found in: United States Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Bulletin No. 158. Government Aid to Home Owning and Housing of Working People in Foreign Countries (Washington, 1915). Reviews of what has been made in this and other countries to aid home owning in cities and in the country (independently of the present emergency) will be found in the Illinois Constitutional Convention Bulletins, Nos. 13 and 14 (Springfield, 1919).

III. Tax Exemptions and Similar Measures.

(a) New York. Chapter 949, of the Laws of 1920, authorizes a county, or a city, village or school district to exempt from taxation for local purposes, until January 1, 1932, new buildings therein, planned for dwelling purposes, if commenced before April 1, 1922, and completed within two years.

Chapter 946, Laws of 1920, makes the bonds of the land bank of the State of New York legal investment for the sinking fund and trust funds of the State of New York.

New York also has excluded new buildings from the operation of the new rent laws.

(b) New Jersey. Chapter 355, Laws of 1920, exempts new improvements for dwelling purposes from all taxation for five years from October 1, 1920, if erected prior to October 1, 1922.

(c) Exemption from Federal income tax of income from real estate mortgage loans has been proposed in a bill by Senator Calder of New York. There is also the "Calder-Nolan" Federal Building Loan Bank Bill which provides for a system of Federal building loan banks by districts, in which the local building and loan associations may become members. The members may deposit their real estate mortgages with the district bank (no mortgage to exceed \$10,000) and obtain a loan up to the amount of 80 per cent of the mortgage securities so deposited. The district bank would issue $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent debentures which are to be exempt from all taxation. The practical result of the law would be to make more elastic the lending power of building and loan associations.

IV. Regulation of Rentals.

(a) Rental commissions.

District of Columbia. Ball Rent Law, Act of October 22, 1919, 41 Statutes at Large 298, Federal Statutes Annotated, 1919 Supplement. This Act provides for a commission with power to regulate the rental and the matter of service in connection with the letting of dwelling premises, business property and hotels. It also provides that a tenant may not be evicted so long as he pays the rent fixed by the commission unless the owner himself or a bona fide purchaser from the owner wishes to occupy the premises.

The Act was held unconstitutional in a rather unsatisfactory decision (in which two justices concurred and one dissented) by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. Hirsch v. Block, 267 Fed. 614, 48 Wash. L. Rep. 378. A writ of certiorari to review this case was denied by the Supreme Court of the United States in Block v. Hirsch, 41 Sup. Ct. Rep. 13, but the issue of constitutionality is expected to be decided on its merits by the United States Supreme Court early in 1921.

Wisconsin. Chapter 16, Laws, Special Session, 1920, effective June 9, 1920, gives to the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin the power to fix reasonable rents in any city in any county having a population of two hundred and fifty thousand or over. Under its terms the Act is only applicable to Milwaukee County. Those administering this legislation feel that it has worked out advantageously in that county, and an effort may be made in 1921 to have the law extended to all cities of the state.

New South Wales. Legislation of 1915 created a "Fair Rents Court," and gave it authority to determine rentals. An interesting review of the experience of New South Wales will be found in an article by H. V. Evatt, A Fair Rent Experiment in New South Wales, Journal of Comparative Legislation and International Law, January, 1920.

South Africa. By legislation of 1920 rent boards were created with similar powers to those in New South Wales.

Discussions of the constitutional aspects of rent regulation by commissions will be found by Henry H. Classie, The Regulation of Rents, 7 Virginia Law Review, 30 (October, 1920); John H. Wigmore, A Constitutional

Way to Reach the Housing Profiteer, Illinois Law Review, January, 1921; 91 Central Law Journal, 459 (Dec. 24, 1920). For a review of legislation during the war reference should be made to Edward L. Schaub, Regulation of Rentals During the War Period, 28 Journal of Political Economy, 1 (January, 1920).

(b) By restriction on eviction.

District of Columbia. The Saulsbury Resolution, 40 Stat. at Large, 593, passed May 31, 1918, prohibited eviction so long as the tenant paid the rent and behaved himself, unless the premises were required by the landlord or a bona fide purchaser for occupation while in Government employ. Held unconstitutional by District of Columbia Court of Appeals, in Willson v. McDonnell, 265 Fed. 432.

New York. Chapter 137, Laws of 1920, as amended by Chapter 948, authorized a stay of a warrant in summary dispossession proceedings for not over twelve months in the discretion of the court. As amended the law applies only to Buffalo and Rochester. This law does not apply to new buildings and expires November 1, 1922.

Chapters 942 and 947, Laws of 1920, provide that there shall be no summary dispossession (942) or eviction (943) where the tenant holds over after the expiration of his term unless the landlord proves him to be objectionable, or the landlord wants to occupy the premises himself, or wants to build a new building for dwelling purposes, plans for which have already been filed and approved, or (under Chapter 942) sells the building to a tenants' cooperative owning corporation. These laws do not apply to new buildings, and they expire November 1, 1922.

Chapter 945, Laws of 1920, makes it a defense to a proceeding to dispossess for non-payment of rent, that the rent is unjust and unreasonable and the agreement is oppressive. If this defense is interposed the landlord must within five days file a bill of particulars showing full facts with regard to his investment and operating costs from which the court may determine the reasonableness of the rent. The law does not apply to new buildings and expires November 1, 1922.

The following decisions relate to this legislation:

Kuenzli v. Stone, 112 Misc. 125. Decision by Appellate term of the Second Department. Opinion by Mr. Justice Kelby concurred in by Justices Clark and Cropsey unholding the constitutionality of Chapter 137 as a valid exercise of police power.

H. D. H. Realty Corporation v. Murphy, N. Y. Law Journal, October 16, 1920. Mr. Justice Mullan in the Supreme Court held that Chapter 942 did not apply to a case where a final order had been entered but had been stayed under Chapter 137; that this was not a pending proceeding. This opinion has been upheld by the opinion of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the First Department rendered December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, December 29, 1920) but the court entered judgment contrary to its opinion in deference to the prior contrary decision of the Second Department in People ex rel. Rayland Realty Co. v. Fagan (N. Y. Law J., Dec. 20, 1920).

People ex rel. Wasserman v. Fagan, N. Y. Law Journal, October 18, 1920. Mr. Justice Faber held not only that Chapter 942 applied to a case where a final order had been entered and stayed, but also that the law is constitutional.

The constitutionality of Chapter 942 has been definitely upheld in several quite recent cases of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. People ex rel. Brixton Operating Corporation v. LaFetra, decided December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, January 3, 1921). People ex rel. Durham Realty Corporation v. LaFetra, decided December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, January 3, 1921). People ex rel. H. D. H. Realty Corporation v. Murphy, decided December 24, 1920 (N. Y. Law Journal, December 29, 1920).

Gutttag v. Shatkin, N. Y. Law Journal, October 20, 1920. Mr. Justice Finch upheld the constitutionality of Chapter 947. His decision, however, has been recently reversed by the Appellate Division with one dissent. (New York Law Journal, Dec. 27, 1920).

Houman v. Osterweis, N. Y. Law Journal, November 3, 1920. Mr. Justice Hotchkiss held Chapter 947 unconstitutional. The case was decided without brief or argument. The defendant's attorney was relying on the decision in Guttay v. Shatzkin, a decision in the same judicial department. The court refused an adjournment in order to permit the defendant properly to argue the case, and the defendant settled the case. The court suggested that even assuming that the business of leasing is charged with a public interest and is therefore subject to the police power, nevertheless the Act is void because it prevents the landlord from discontinuing the business of renting and thus ending the power to regulate him. The court did not discuss the bearing on the question of the fact that the legislation is to be in effect only until November 1, 1922.

Brandt and Co. v. Weil, New Jersey Law Journal, November 1, 1920. Mr. Justice Mullan expressed the opinion that Chapter 947 was unconstitutional.

Massachusetts. Chapter 577, General Act of 1920, permits the court in summary proceedings for possession where the tenancy has terminated without fault of the tenant, to grant a stay where the tenant shows that he cannot find suitable premises elsewhere, the stay to be for not to exceed six months in the discretion of the court. Pending the stay the tenant must deposit in court the reasonable rental determined by the court. This Act expires February 1, 1922.

New Jersey. Jersey City passed so-called "rent ordinances" which provided that the landlord must notify the city as well as the tenant in case of proceedings to evict, whereupon the city was authorized to use its funds to defend the tenant against the landlord. These ordinances were held void by the Supreme Court of New Jersey in the case of Charles Stell v. The Mayor and Aldermen of Jersey City, 111 Atl. 274.

Wisconsin. At the special session of 1920 (Chap. 28) a law was passed, applicable only to Milwaukee County, which provides that: "In any action of unlawful detainer where a judgment of restitution has been rendered in favor of the plaintiff, the court or judge thereof may stay restitution for such period as the court or judge in his discretion may deem necessary to accomplish justice." The court has authority to determine the rental to be paid during the continuance of the stay.

Baltimore. Under constitutional power of municipal home rule, the City of Baltimore by ordinance of October 17, 1919, gave discretion to the court to refuse to grant a warrant of ejectment in certain cases for the dispossession of tenants if the court is of the opinion that such attempted ejectment "is solely for the purpose of profiteering or speculation." Prior to the enactment of this ordinance, the City Collector of Baltimore had given a written opinion that an ordinance of this character would be valid. The text of this opinion may be found in 50 Chicago Legal News, 411 (July 25, 1918).

Great Britain. English legislation of 1915 (5 and 6 Geo. V., Chap. 97), restricts the increase of rent of small dwelling houses, and prevents eviction unless the tenant misbehaves, or the premises are required for the use of the landlord, or there is other ground satisfactory to the court. This legislation was extended in 1919 (9 Geo. V., Chap. 7), and was amended later in 1919 (9 and 10 Geo. V., Chap. 90).

New English legislation was enacted in 1920 (10 and 11 Geo. V., Chap. 17), which to some extent relaxes the prohibitions of previous laws and permits gradual increases of rent during a three year period. An outline of this legislation will be found in the report by Lawrence Veiller on How England is Meeting the Housing Shortage. An interesting review and criticism of English rental legislation will be found in 55 Law Journal 444 (London, December 4, 1920). The case of Neville v. Hardy, 37 Law Times Reports, 129 (December 10, 1920), indicates that under the legislation of 1920, the presumptions are strongly against the landlord in eviction cases.

New Zealand. Similar legislation was enacted in New Zealand in 1918 (10 Geo. V., No. 32).

Spain. By royal decree in 1920, leases were extended without alternation of rent except in accordance with rates of increase permitted by the decree.

(c) By defenses to action for rent.

New York. Chapter 944, Laws of 1920, makes it a defense to an action for rent, that the rent is unjust and unreasonable and the agreement under which it is sought to be recovered is unreasonable. Where it appears that the rent has been increased over the rent as it existed one year prior to the time of the agreement under which the rent is sought to be recovered, such agreement shall be presumptively unjust, unreasonable and oppressive. The landlord is required to file a bill of particulars as to his investment, cost of operation, etc., the same as under Chapter 945. Chapter 944 is an amendment Chapter 136 of the regular 1920 Session Laws, which made a 25 per cent increase presumptively unreasonable, but which was found to be generally misunderstood. This Act does not apply to new buildings and is to be in effect only until November 1, 1921.

The following are some of the decisions that have been rendered as to Chapter 944:

Seventy-eighth Street and Broadway Co. v. Rosenbaum, 111 Misc. 577. Constitutionality upheld by Mr. Justice Spiegelberg. Held not retrospective.

Paterno Investing Corporation v. Katz, 112 Misc. 242. Opinion by Mr. Justice Lehman to same effect as Seventy-eighth and Broadway case. Decision affirmed without opinion by Appellate Division.

Edgar A. Levy Leasing Co., Inc. v. Siegel, decided December 24, 1920. (N. Y. Law Journal, December 30, 1920). Decision by Appellate Division of the Supreme Court upholding the constitutionality of Chapter 944.

Massachusetts. Chapter 578, General Acts of 1920, is similar to Chapter 136, New York, Laws of 1920, before it was amended by Chapter 944. It provides that unjust, unreasonable and oppressive agreements for rent shall be unenforceable and makes a 25 per cent increase presumptively unreasonable. The law is to be in force only until February 1, 1922.

(d) By anti-profiteering legislation.

Maine. Chapter 256, Laws 1919, provides that: "Whoever demands or collects an unreasonable or unjust rent or charge, taking into consideration the actual market value of the property at the time, with a fair return thereon, or imposes an unreasonable or unjust term or condition, for the occupancy of any building or any part thereof, rented or hired for dwelling purposes, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

V. Readjustment of Other Landlord and Tenant Laws.

(a) Length of notice to quit.

Massachusetts. Chapter 257, General Acts of 1919, as amended by Chapter 538, General Acts of 1920, provides 30 days notice in case of tenancy at will.

New Jersey. Chapter 340, Laws of 1920, provided for three months notice to terminate a tenancy from month to month or where no term is agreed upon, or where the tenant holds over with the landlord's consent. It also prohibited termination of a tenancy between October 1 and May 1. This Act was held unconstitutional in Zweig v. Tiffany, 111 Atlantic 263, on grounds having to do with the scope of the District Court Act to which it was an amendment. Thereupon Chapter 357, Laws of 1920, was passed, which is similar to that part of Chapter 340 requiring three months notice to terminate, and cures the defect in the earlier Act.

Wisconsin. By Act of the special session of 1920 (Chap. 15), two months notice in writing is required for termination by the landlord of a tenancy at will or by sufferance.

(b) Appeals in ouster proceedings.

New York. Chapter 943, Laws of 1920, makes provision for stay of issuance and execution of warrant for possession pending appeal.

(c) Repeal of penalty for holding over.

New York. Chapter 138, Laws of 1920, does away with penalty for holding over.

(d) Legislation relating to heat, power and other service called for by lease.

New York. Chapter 951, Laws of 1920, makes it a misdemeanor for a lessor, tenant, manager, superintendent or janitor of any building to fail intentionally or willfully to furnish hot or cold water, heat, light, power, elevator service, telephone or any other service or facility, if called for by the lease.

Massachusetts. Chapter 555, General Acts of 1920, is similar to the New York Law as provided in Chapter 951, New York Laws of 1920.

(e) Legislation relating to the rental of houses to families with children.

New Jersey. Chapter 193, Laws of 1920, penalizes refusal to rent or lease to any person because the family of such person includes children under fourteen years of age, and into any agreement in a lease rendering such lease null and void upon the birth of any child.

Illinois. Since 1909 Illinois has had legislation similar to Chapter 193 of New Jersey Laws of 1920. (Hurd. Revised Statutes, 1919, Chap. 80, Sec. 38).

VI. Investigation of Cost of Building.

New York, in 1919, constituted what is known as the Lockwood Investigating Committee, which has been effectively investigating combinations to maintain high cost of building.

A brief summary of legislation, proposed as well as enacted by state legislatures in this country will be found in an article by S. Edward Hannestad, State Legislatures and the Rent Problem, 9 National Municipal Review, 702 (November, 1920).

As will be readily seen from any examination of the legislation outlined above, the problem has been attacked from two general standpoints: (1) to alleviate the hardships and remove the evils growing out of the housing shortage; (2) to remove the housing shortage.

In England emergency legislation to meet the temporary situation has been combined with a program of governmental house building. In Massachusetts and Wisconsin, emergency legislation for the protection of tenants has been combined with state or municipal aid in the construction of houses, and (in Massachusetts) provision for local furnishing of shelter in time of emergency. New York and New Jersey combine rental legislation with tax exemptions for the encouragement of new building, and New York at the same time is conducting an investigation for the purpose of removing combinations and agreements which hinder building or make it more expensive. North and South Dakota are proceeding upon the plan of state aid in the construction of houses.

The Calder Committee of the United States Senate, on Reconstruction and Reproduction, has studied the situation from the standpoint of the entire country and has, among other things, recommended legislation which may through a Federal home loan bank, with securities free from Federal taxation, better finance the construction of houses. For the District of Columbia the Saulsbury resolution restricted evictions, and was superseded by the Ball law, which established a commission for the regulation of rentals and also restricted evictions. Both the Saulsbury resolution and the Ball law have been held unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; though the constitutionality of the Ball law will not be settled until final action by the United States Supreme Court. There are now before Congress proposed bills for the District of Columbia which would stay evictions for a period of six months and would modify the law as to forcible entry and detainer. For the District of Columbia, the Federal legislation has been purely for the protection of tenants, rather than for the encouragement of building. Proposed legislation for tax exemptions in Pennsylvania, on the other hand, emphasizes the encouragement of building.

The rental legislation has attracted the greatest attention, and discussion of this legislation will be found by Harold D. Aron, The New York Landlord and Tenant Laws of 1920, 6 Cornell Law Quarterly 1 (November, 1920); J. R. Davies, New Landlord and Tenant Laws, 43 Bench and Bar 156 (November, 1920); E. J. Lauer, Rights of Landlord and Tenant as Affected by Recent Legislation in the State of New York, 43 Bench and Bar 103 March, 1920). See also 53 Chicago Legal News 26 (August 19, 1920).

The most important judicial determinations under the New York rent laws are the unanimous decisions of December 24, 1920, by the Appellate Divisions of the Supreme Court in the First Department. The New York Law Journal of December 29, 1920, sums up these decisions as follows:

"The substance of the holdings is that the state legislature had the right to withdraw, by repealing or suspending, the remedy by summary proceedings, in whole or in part, so long as it left the landlords an adequate remedy for the recovery of the possession of their real property, and the landlords have been left with an adequate remedy, since the statute enacted at the same extraordinary session of the legislature (Laws of 1920, Chapter 947) which attempts to take away the remedy by common law ejectment, is void and unconstitutional. See opinion in Guttag v. Shatzkin." (N. Y. Law Journal, December 28, 1920.)

The result of the decisions of December 24, 1920, is that Chapters 942 and 944 are valid and Chapter 947 invalid. The final decision of the New York Court of Appeals upon the validity of these laws will be awaited with interest.

In the case of Marcus Brown Holding Co. v. Feldman decided December 15, 1920, by the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York (reported in N. Y. Law Journal, December 20, 1920), Chief Justice Hough speaking for himself and two other judges expressed the view that the New York laws are constitutional. The court emphasized the emergency character of the legislation and said:

"Should it be shown hereafter that the reason for the laws had in fact passed, questions may arise, not now before us and as to which we do not wish to seem to foreclose discussion."

Though the so-called "rent laws" and other landlord and tenant legislation are of necessity emergency measures, your commission feels that the prospect of sufficient building in the near future is so small that some such measures are essential in order to alleviate the conditions under which the public is now laboring, and which will in all probability continue to exist for several years. The commission has set forth in Appendixes IV and V the text of measures of this character that it recommends.

Although emergency measures may accomplish something to relieve the present situation, permanent relief can be obtained only by building homes. Under present constitutional provisions in Illinois, it is impossible to exempt new buildings or real estate mortgages from State or local taxation; and it is also impossible to authorize State or local advancement of funds for building. It is recommended that constitutional changes be proposed and adopted which will permit legislative action in both of these matters.

A proposed Federal measure, the so-called "Calder-Nolen" Bill, to provide a Federal building loan bank, the commission believes should be enacted into law. In case a Federal building loan bank is established, the commission recommends that the General Assembly pass an Act enabling building and loan associations of Illinois to become members of the Federal organization.

Your commission is strongly of the opinion that the present high cost of building is due in large part to unlawful combinations and agreements which artificially maintain prices and restrict output. The commission recommends the creation of a joint legislative committee with full power to investigate combinations and restrictive agreements, which affect the building of houses. The text of a proposed joint resolution for this purpose will be found in Appendix III together with a bill to appropriate for the expense of the investigation. In making this recommendation the commission has before it the case of Greenfield v. Russel, 292 Ill. 392 (1920), holding invalid a joint resolution of the Fifty-first General Assembly for the investigation of Zion City. This case is inapplicable to the joint resolution here proposed, however, for the object sought as the result of the proposed investigation here recommended in the enactment of legislation to meet a present and continuing evil.

A message from the Senate by Mr. Murray, Secretary:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has adopted the following preamble and joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the House of Representatives, to-wit:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 13.

WHEREAS, Many public improvements for which there is an imperative need have been postponed on account of the existence of a state of war; and

WHEREAS, The industrial life of the country depends on increased transportation facilities, and the progress and development of the country is retarded because of the inability of the railways to take care of the rapidly increasing commerce of the country; and

WHEREAS, One great barrier to the world's commerce was cut two generations ago at Suez; and another was severed a few years ago at Panama; and

WHEREAS, It is time to cut the third barrier, to make a practicable deep-water channel past the rapids which obstruct the St. Lawrence and the Falls which glorify the Niagara, and turn the Great Lakes into an arm of the sea; and

WHEREAS, By cutting this barrier away, the shore line of the whole continent will be remade, and the rich interior of this country will have an outlet to the open ocean; and every lake port will be an ocean port and a world port; and

WHEREAS, The accomplishment of this project would speed up shipments from the Middle West to Europe by taking the direct route down the St. Lawrence; would provide facilities for the movement of traffic, and would result in the increased volume of production because of the ability to market the produce of the country; and

WHEREAS, The State of Illinois would be greatly benefited by this great project, and the City of Chicago would be one of the greatest seaports of the world; and

WHEREAS, The cost of this project would be small in comparison with the great benefits to be derived by the United States; and the water power that will be developed will more than pay for the interest on the bonds to be issued for the work, and ultimately would pay for the cost of the entire improvement; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That the President of the United States and the Congress of the United States be and they hereby are memorialized and respectfully but most urgently requested to take such action as will bring about the construction of a deep waterway to the sea by way of the St. Lawrence River, and the development of hydro-electric power in connection therewith; and

Resolved, That upon the passage of this resolution, certified copies thereof be forthwith forwarded by the Secretary of State of Illinois to the President of the United States, the presiding officers of both Houses of Congress, and members from Illinois of both branches of the Congress of the United States.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—The Governor directs me to lay before the House of Representatives the following communication:

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.
SPRINGFIELD, March 22, 1921.

Gentlemen of the Fifty-second General Assembly:

In accordance with the provisions of an Act approved June 16, 1919, to provide for a veterinary college at the University of Illinois, I herewith transmit to your honorable body report and recommendation of the trustees of the University of Illinois upon the establishment at the University of a college of veterinary medicine and surgery.

Respectfully submitted,

LEN. SMALL, Governor.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS TO THE FIFTY-SECOND GENERAL ASSEMBLY, ON THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE AND SURGERY, IN ACCORDANCE WITH AN ACT PASSED BY THE FIFTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY, APPROVED JUNE 16, 1919.

Letter of Transmittal.

URBANA, ILLINOIS, March 3, 1921.

Honorable Len Small, Governor of Illinois, Springfield, Illinois:

Dear Sir. The Fifty-first General Assembly of the State of Illinois passed the following Act:

An Act to provide for a veterinary college at the University of Illinois.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois, represented in the General Assembly: The trustees of the University of Illinois are authorized and directed to establish as a department of the University, a college of veterinary medicine and surgery.

Sec. 2. The veterinary college shall offer and give such courses of instruction as will, in the opinion of the trustees, best serve to educate and equip candidates for the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery.

Sec. 3. In pursuance of this authority and direction, the trustees are further directed to prepare and submit to the next General Assembly a plan for such a college, based upon study of similar colleges elsewhere and consultation with the livestock and veterinary interests of this State, together with budget estimates of the appropriation necessary to carry out the intent of this Act.

Approved June 16, 1919.

In accordance with the provisions of the above Act, the trustees of the University of Illinois have duly made inquiry into the whole matter and submit their report and recommendations thereon. In arriving at their conclusions the trustees benefited by the advice of a commission consisting of the following persons:

Honorable Charles Adkins, then Director of Agriculture.

Honorable J. G. Imboden, President State Live Stock Association.

Honorable F. Edson White, Vice President of Armour and Company.

Honorable Simon E. Lantz, State Senator.

Honorable R. E. Nesbitt, President Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association.

Dean Eugene Davenport of our College of Agriculture.

Professor H. W. Mumford of the Department of Animal Husbandry of the University.

These gentlemen formed a commission, of which the President of the Board of Trustees, Honorable Robert F. Carr, was chairman, and the President of the University also was a member. This commission had seven meetings and appointed a faculty sub-committee consisting of W. C. Coffey, Professor of Sheep Husbandry; H. P. Rusk, Professor of Beef Cattle Husbandry; Robert Graham, Professor of Animal Pathology; Professor E. J. Townsend of the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Supervising Architect of the University, Professor J. M. White. This sub-committee studied the subject in all its detail and reported to the general commission, which canvassed the information thus submitted and reached its own conclusions. Our report, based upon the report of the commission and committee thus described, is appended hereto and forwarded to you in triplicate for transmission to the Senate and House of Representatives.

Respectfully submitted,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

By ROBERT F. CARR, President.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS TO THE FIFTY-SECOND GENERAL ASSEMBLY, ON THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE AND SURGERY, IN ACCORDANCE WITH AN ACT PASSED BY THE FIFTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY. APPROVED JUNE 16, 1919.

The Board of Trustees of the University was directed by an Act* of the Fifty-first General Assembly to report plans and estimates for a College of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery with a view to determining what kind of an institution in this field would best serve the interests of the State, and what in general would be the organization and probable expense of establishment of such an institution.

A study of the whole field showed that there were four possible kinds of organization to choose from: One is an undergraduate teaching school of veterinary medicine and surgery, of which there are now several in existence; a second is a school of veterinary science for advanced students; a third is a division of animal pathology in the College of Agriculture or Experiment Station much expanded; a fourth is an institute of pathology for research into animal diseases, and especially the diseases communicable to men and animals.

(1) An undergraduate teaching school of veterinary medicine and surgery: This would be an ordinary school or college offering a professional course in veterinary medicine and surgery with a minimum of research and would cost approximately $150,000 per year to operate. In addition it would require certain buildings and provision would have to be made to meet the expense of that portion of the instruction of the course of study which would be given by other departments of the University. Such a school would correspond with the better existing colleges of the kind. At present prices of construction, adequate buildings, similar to those of existing institutions, would require approximately $1,000,000 as an initial outlay. Such a college would be expensive and would not meet the conditions which the various animal industry interests need, for reasons which will appear from a study of the figures in the appendix, especially those showing decreased attendance at similar established colleges. The Board of Trustees does not recommend the establishment of such a college.

(2) A graduate department or school of veterinary medicine and surgery: This organization would be a college, or school, or department, in the Graduate School or Agricultural Experiment Station, training advanced students in Agriculture for research in veterinary science. To provide a staff at least equal to any similar staff in the country would require, in the opinion of the Dean of the College of Agriculture, a staff of thirty-four people, with large facilities for investigation. The estimated cost of operation and maintenance would be about $250,000 per year, and the work would require a building somewhat larger than that required for a teaching college above described. The Board of Trustees does not recommend this plan.

(3) A department of animal pathology: A department of animal pathology could be developed in the existing College of Agriculture or the Agricultural Experiment Station for the sole purpose of investigating the causes and methods of control of animal diseases for a State wide service in the diagnosis of such cases as puzzle the local veterinarians, and for an extension service maintaining a close connection with the stock men on the one hand, and the practicing veterinarians on the other. A building for the housing of such a department would cost at least $100,000 as an initial outlay, and the operation would require on the basis of our present knowledge, from $75,000 to $100,000 a year. The Board of Trustees recommends this plan as a second choice.

(4) An institute of pathology: An institute of pathology would devote itself exclusively to investigation in the methods and means of control of communicable diseases, especially those common to animals and men, and probably plants. Such an institute would not provide undergraduates instruction, but would receive advanced graduate students, although its principal work would be investigation. It should contain departments of bacteriology, physiology, animal pathology, human pathology, plant pathology and possibly other departments. Such an institute would require a considerable staff and its cost of operation would doubtless run as high as between $100,000 and $125,000 for the biennium. The institute would also require a physical equipment, including a building, which would doubtless run to as large a sum. The Board of Trustees recommends the adoption of this plan as their first choice.

The organization of such an institute would include a staff, the head of which might be known as director, or by some other similar title, whose size would depend upon the extent of the work undertaken. To begin with it would be necessary to assign between $20,000 and $25,000 per year for salaries and wages, while for the extension and equipment of laboratories, office expenses, special apparatus, travel, and other expenses would be required from $25,000 to $30,000 more; that is, the first year of operation would require $50,000.

If such an institute were established at the University, buildings provided for the work in Agriculture could be utilized to a certain extent for the work of such an institution but at least one independent building would be required remote from any existing building. That would be an isolation building for diseased animals. This with its equipment would undoubtedly require at least $100,000. A somewhat similar building and equipment in a neighboring State cost $120,000.

The Board of Trustees recommends the adoption of this plan, but begs leave to point out that the necessary appropriation should be independent of that now requested for the University.

In support of the conclusions of this report an appendix is attached giving facts which bear on the inquiry and recommendations.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

By _____, President.

APPENDIX—FACTS BEARING ON THE INQUIRY AND RECOMMENDATION.

(1) Attendance at veterinary colleges.

The private veterinary colleges and schools of the country have, almost without exception, gone out of business within the past five years. There are a few excellent veterinary colleges connected with the larger institutions of learning, particularly in Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Michigan and Iowa. These colleges all give a four-year course leading to the degree of D. V. M. (Doctor of Veterinary Medicine), and some of them are equipped with excellent facilities for research. But the attendance at every one of them has been declining for some time and, in general, they are only about half filled. It was a realization of this situation that induced the authorities of the State of Wisconsin to abandon a plan which they had approved for the establishment of a veterinary college in connection with the State University.

The enrollment at Pennsylvania has dropped from 150 to 55 in the past four or five years. The attendance at other State veterinary institutions is only about half the number that could be readily accommodated. It is clear that there are now facilities enough in the country to take care of many more students than are attracted to this field. Therefore, if the University of Illinois were to establish a veterinary college of the ordinary type, it would have to be in all respects superior to any other school of its kind in the country. This would be a large and expensive undertaking. The cost of the physical plant alone may be appreciated when it is stated that the buildings and equipments of existing institutions like those in Iowa and Pennsylvania represent expenditures of half a million or more, which would now require approximately $1,000,000 to duplicate. The mere cost of a building such as was planned for the proposed veterinary college in the Union Stock Yards in 1908-9 would be approximately $600,000. The Board of Trustees is of the opinion that it would be very difficult to justify the necessary expenditure for the establishment of such a college of residence teaching alone.

Moreover, the field of study in the veterinary profession has shifted. The stress used to be laid on anatomy, materia medica, and therapeutics, where it is now laid on infectious diseases and methods of control of epidemics. All of this has vastly increased the cost of instruction in the veterinary courses and accounts in large measure for the failure of the private veterinary colleges. It also accounts for the fact that the best advices are that what is needed now is not so much a school for the turning out of more practitioners as it is better endowment and facilities for investigation.

(2) Non-resident teaching or veterinary extension.

This is obviously a field in which the University can render much service to the live stock industry. But its prosecution implies, of course, the co-operation of a research and diagnostic laboratory at the University. Indeed, the University is already doing a good deal of this work in the Division of Animal Husbandry of the College of Agriculture. The Division of Animal Pathology submits the following from its laboratory records as an example of the aid it is at present giving in this important field:

Specimens for diagnosis received January 1, 1920, to June 1, 1920:

Horses	13	or	1	per cent of total
Cattle	127	or	9.8	per cent of total
Hogs	1031	or	78.0	per cent of total
Sheep	31	or	2.4	per cent of total
Dogs	3
Poultry	61	or	4.6	per cent of total
Feed and miscellaneous material.....	36	or	2.7	per cent of total

1291

Total number of specimens examined by the Veterinary Laboratory College of Agriculture, September 1, 1919, to September 1, 1920, 4,349.

Of these over 70 per cent were swine.

Number of specimens examined September 1, 1920, to February 14, 1921. 1595.

(3) Veterinary research.

The outstanding demand from veterinarians and live stock men upon the University is for information relative to the causes, prevention, and treatment of many poorly understood animal diseases. The importance of this phase of the subject cannot be over-estimated. The following table gives some idea of the loss due to the absence of proper preventive measures and this absence, in turn, is due, in the main, to lack of proper knowledge, which can be obtained ordinarily by further research:

Estimates on number and value of live stock in Illinois and on the number and value of animals lost through various diseases:

Kind of Livestock	Number Jan. 1, 1920	Value Jan. 1, 1920	Losses due to	Value of diseases for Year 1919-1920 Number	animals lost from diseases Year 1919-1920
Swine	5,323,000	$109,121,500	335,349	$6,874,654
Cattle—
Dairy	1,060,000	101,760,000
Beef	1,290,000	70,434,000	54,050	4,205,090
Horses and Mules. .	1,462,000	137,428,000	29,811	2,802,234
Sheep	1,010,000	12,726,000	24,745	311,787
Poultry	20,753,308	20,573,308	3,112,995	3,112,995
Total losses			3,556,950	$17,306,760

Note: Losses not taken into consideration in the tabulation given above:

(a) Pigs, lambs, calves and colts that die at birth or a few weeks after.

(b) Losses due to condemnation of animals, carcasses or parts of carcasses at the slaughtering plants operating under government inspection.

Of course, no one can say that in any limited time a loss of this kind could be saved or prevented, but there is a high degree of probability that much of it could be prevented by early discoveries in a properly manned and equipped research veterinary laboratory. The practicing veterinarian of today is not always able with the facilities at hand to make prompt and accurate diagnosis of the first cases of communicable diseases that may develop in his neighborhood, and indeed, has not had the opportunity to be trained in the most troublesome diseases which now beset our animal population.

It is, therefore, our conviction that the primary need of the State in veterinary matters can be met only by the development of a strong research and diagnostic staff with adequate laboratories and facilities. The investigations of our Animal Pathology Division during the past year on the existence of botulism in domestic animals will compare favorably with any single accomplishment in the field of veterinary education in America. The result of these investigations, also, have an important relation to the control of the same disease in human beings. This fact is an indication of the value of cooperation between a corps of highly trained experts in the field of veterinary science and in public health. By such cooperation we believe that we shall make more progress than we shall make in any other way in the extinction of the communicable diseases that are common to man and beast. On the matter of research, Dean Stange of the Veterinary School of Iowa State College, at a conference last year at the University of Illinois, said, "The most urgent need from a professional, agricultural, and economic standpoint today is much more extensive and thorough research along further lines. Our practitioners are begging for information which is not now available. The stockman does not have great difficulty in securing a veterinarian, but too frequently the problem confronting the veterinarian cannot be solved with advantage to the client or to the best interest of the live stock industry simply because a solution does not yet lie within our power."

(3) Should a Division of Veterinary Medicine Be Located at Chicago?

Your committee appreciates the possible advantages in both teaching and research to be gained by a close affiliation of the Colleges of Medicine and Veterinary Medicine. We are also aware of opportunities for securing gross pathological specimens and for establishing close contact with the veterinary inspection service at the Union Stock Yards if a division of the Veterinary College were to be located in Chicago. In spite of these advantages, however, we believe that the College would better be a complete and compact unit in Urbana. A Chicago division would be expensive and it would present administrative difficulties, for it would be almost impossible to select a phase of the student's training that would be unrelated to and not dependent on the work of the departments located at the main seat of the College. It would also divide the student's time between Urbana and

Chicago, the probable results of which would be greater cost to the student in securing his education, and fewer decisions to take the course in Veterinary Science because of additional cost and a break in the continuity of the student's life on the campus at Urbana.

Even though your committee views the establishment of a Division of the Veterinary College in Chicago as inadvisable, it nevertheless firmly believes that there should be close contact between the Veterinary College, on the one hand, and the Medical College and the Veterinary inspection service in the Stock Yards on the other. It is believed that this contact can best be established and maintained by the appointment of a joint committee on research.

Conclusions.

In view of all the above circumstances, the Board of Trustees recommends, as already indicated, the adoption of either the third or the fourth proposition in the report with the fourth as first choice. The third proposition, that for a veterinary research institute, comes nearest to meeting the immediate needs, not only from the agricultural standpoint, but from the veterinarian standpoint as well. But the fourth plan, a pathological institute for the study of animal and human diseases, is a much more far-reaching plan, with possibilities of much greater value and moment. The establishment of an institute whose primary object is the study of diseases common to animals and to men would undoubtedly be as serviceable to the animal industries and other agricultural interests of the State as the third plan. It would have the additional merit of entering upon a new field in which there is every reason to believe discoveries of great moment to the public health may be made. Such an institute would attract the attention of the country and the world in that it would be, perhaps, the first to give special study to that class of organisms which seek a host wherever it may be found, invading man, animals and possibly plants, as opportunity offers, giving rise not only to puzzling symptoms, but to a variety of diseases which we are not now prepared to study intelligently, much less to treat. Such an institution should be an association of departments, rather than a college, capable of studying microscopic organisms as such, whether bacterial or protozoan, with a view to determining their primary and secondary hosts and, therefore, the best methods of control. Such an organization should have the most intimate connection with kindred University departments, both in science, in agriculture, and in animal and human pathology. The most intimate connection of all should be established between the institute and the Department of Animal Pathology in the College of Agriculture.

The foregoing message from the Governor was received and placed on file.

2. The same ceremony shall be observed when messages shall be sent from the House of Representatives to the Senate.

3. Messages shall be sent by such persons as a sense of propriety in each House may determine to be proper.

4. In every case of disagreement between the two Houses, if either House request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, the other House shall appoint a committee to confer therewith upon the subject of their disagreement. Said committee shall meet at a convenient time to be agreed upon by their chairman, and, having conferred freely, each shall report to its respective House the result of their conference. In case of an agreement the report shall be first made, with the papers referred accompanying it, to the disagreeing House, and there acted upon; and such action shall be immediately reported by the Clerk to the other House, the papers referred accompanying the message. In case of disagreement, the papers shall remain with the House which referred them. The agreeing report of a conference committee shall be made, read and signed in duplicate by all members of the committee, or by a majority of those of each House, one of the duplicates being retained by the committee of each House. Should either House disagree to the report of the committee, such House shall appoint a second committee and request a second conference, which shall be acceded to by the other House before adhering. 6. After a bill has passed both Houses, it shall be transcribed and typed before it is presented to the Governor.

7. When bills are transcribed and typed, they shall be examined by a joint committee, which shall consist of five members, two from the Senate and three from the House, to be appointed by the Senate and the Speaker of the House respectively. The Clerk of the Committee on Enrolling, Transcribing and Typing of Bills of the respective House shall act as clerk of the committee whenever their services are required. Said committee shall carefully compare the transcribed and typed bills with the engrossed bills, so passed by both Houses, correct any errors which may be discovered in the enrolled bills, and make their report forthwith to their respective Houses; the Secretary or Clerk having previously certified on the margin of the roll in which House it originated.

8. After examination and report, each bill shall be signed in the respective Houses, by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and by the President of the Senate.

14. Each House shall transmit to the other all papers on which any bill or resolution shall be founded.

15. While the two Houses are acting together upon elections, or on any other matter, the Speaker shall preside, and all questions of order shall be decided by him, subject to an appeal to both Houses, as though but one body was in session. A call of members of either House may be had in joint meeting by order of the House in which the call is desired, and to constitute a quorum of the joint assembly, a majority of all the members elected to both Houses shall be present and voting.

16. Motions to postpone or adjourn shall be decided by a joint vote of both Houses, and yeas and nays upon such motions, if required shall be entered upon the Journals of both Houses.

17. Upon questions arising requiring the separate decision of either House, the Senate shall withdraw until the decision is made. Provided, that questions upon motions for a call of either House shall not come within the provisions of this rule.

18. Each House shall have the liberty of ordering the printing of bills, messages and reports without the consent of the other.

19. Whenever any message, bill, report or document shall be ordered to be printed by the Senate or House, for the use of both Houses, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Senate or Clerk of the House (as the case may be) immediately to report the fact of the passage of such order to the other branch of the General Assembly, together with the number so ordered to be printed in case the same shall exceed 300.

A message from the Senate by Mr. Murray, Secretary.

Mr. Speaker—I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has adopted the following preamble and joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the House of Representatives, to-wit:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 17.

There are many different ideas in the several communities of the State in reference to road improvement and maintenance. These are influenced somewhat by the existing conditions in these communities. A uniform system of road work may not be worked out and agreed to by all concerned, but there may by some effort be established a system resting on the foundation of facts supported by experience and a degree of public approval, therefore

WHEREAS, Road construction and maintenance and the cost of the same throughout the State is being carried on without uniformity and with great diversity of results both as to dirt and hard surface roads, and

WHEREAS, These many different methods of treatment, all involving great expenditures of public money, have resulted in a great divergence of opinion as to the best methods of construction and maintenance to be used, and

WHEREAS, Information as to the best methods and their cost would be of much value to this General Assembly to aid it in legislation for uniformity and economy on this subject at this session, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of Illinois, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That a Joint Committee of five from the Senate and five from the House be appointed to act in conjunction with the Department of Public Works and Buildings to confer with local and county highway officials, boards of supervisors throughout the State and by other proper methods investigate and report to the present General Assembly upon the following pressing proposition:

First—For the establishment of a permanent uniform and efficient system of road improvement and maintenance throughout the State.

Second—For the promotion of a county system of road improvement and maintenance throughout the State by extending dirt road improvement and the use of gravel or similar material where advisable.

Third—For the establishment of the so-called Wisconsin patrol system.

Fourth—To investigate and report on the sentiment for and advisability of changing the construction to be used on bond issue roads (where practical) from cement or brick to some other construction, and to investigate and report the present prices of cement, gravel, sand, crushed stone and brick as compared with prices of same material in 1917, when the bond Act was passed, and with prices of same material in 1918, when the bond Act was voted upon.

Fifth—To make recommendations as to the best methods of treatment of dirt roads with oil or other material and the subsequent proper care of such roads, and be it further

Resolved, That said Joint Committee shall report their conclusions, findings and recommendations as expeditiously as possible to the present General Assembly, and that the said committee shall be entitled to actual expenses incurred in the performance of the duties enjoined by these resolutions, and

Resolved, further, That the General Assembly recommend an appropriation in the sum of $5,000 for the payment of the same, and that all vouchers for expenses incurred shall be approved by the Chairman of the Committee, the Speaker of the House, and the President of the Senate.

Adopted March 29, 1921.

A. G. MURRAY, Secretary of the Senate.

And the motion prevailed.

A message from the Senate by Mr. Murray, Secretary:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has adopted the following joint resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the House of Representatives, to-wit:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 20.

Resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein, That when the two Houses adjourn on Friday, April 8, 1921, they stand adjourned until Tuesday, April 12, 1921, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

Adopted by the Senate, April 7, 1921.

A. G. MURRAY, Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Holaday moved that the House concur with the Senate in the adoption of the foregoing resolution.

And the motion prevailed.

Ordered that the Clerk inform the Senate thereof.

The House proceeding on the order of Resolutions, Mr. Sawyer offered the following resolution, which was ordered to lie on the Speaker's table:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 30.

WHEREAS, Hon. Len Small, Governor of Illinois, in his inaugural message to the Fifty-second General Assembly, addressed himself to the question of the relations between the United States and the State of Illinois, as follows:

FEDERAL RELATIONS.

The affairs of the State of Illinois are inseparably linked with the affairs of the nation, and we have a right to express ourselves upon national policies to which we may become perpetually bound. I feel that I would be remiss in my duty to the people of Illinois, if I did not take this occasion to direct their attention to threatening policies confronting the country of which we form a part.

We have emerged from the actual conflict of a great world war. The strain and soreness of that conflict still bears heavily upon most of our people. On top of the grief and distress of our people over the shedding of American blood has come their resentment and anger toward the rich and powerful interests that, in the nation's most sorrowful hours, exacted merciless tolls of profit on the necessary and essential commodities for the sustenance of human life.

These interests that oppress the people never were, and are not now, partisan. They operate with equal facility in either the Republican or Democratic party. They are not American, though intensely patriotic in all outward manifestations. They are predatory in character, and wordly in their aims and objects.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

It is our duty to ourselves and to the people to investigate closely the interests back of every measure that comes up for consideration, and thereby prevent the forces of organized wealth and greed from continuing to rob the masses.

The so-called Covenant of the League of Nations advocated by President Wilson, was submitted to a "solemn referendum" in accordance with his dictum in the recent election, and as solemnly rejected by an overwhelming vote of the American people. Nevertheless we hear whisperings of a proposal for a League of Nations, or Association of Nations, for the pretended guarantee of world peace. If I interpret aright the sentiment of the people of Illinois, as well as other states, they are in no mood to have their sovereignty subjected to discussion by discredited old-world monarchies, or to pool their issues with countries where liberty, and the right of the people to determine their own political systems, is more restricted than in their own.

Under no circumstances should the American Congress forsake the policy laid down by George Washington, by entering into any League or Association of Nations, which would involve this country in foreign entanglements or alliances, without first submitting the proposed covenant of the League or Association of Nations to a vote of the American people.

The Congress of the United States should again adopt for the approval of the incoming President, a resolution declaring our country at peace with the world, that this proclamation may follow, lawfully terminating the present war, that obnoxious war-time legislation may be summarily repealed, and that American soldiers now in Europe and Asia in the theater of foreign strife, may be returned to our shores forthwith.

BONUS FOR SOLDIERS.

The soldiers, sailors and marines who responded to their country's military and naval needs, jeopardizing and sacrificing their lives, relinquishing home ties and foregoing their income-earning opportunities, are entitled to every honor and consideration that may be bestowed. My platform favored the payment of a liberal bonus to those men and I urge upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress the consummation of plans that will bring this about.

And especially do I urge that immediate relief be provided for those who, because of injuries received in the service of their country, are suffering in body or mind, to the end that no American soldier shall ever become an object of charity.

MILITARISM.

Compulsory military service, or conscription defies the opinion of a free people. It is the ancient instrument of kings and princes, and of despotism and tyranny, and inevitably induces war. I recommend to the General Assembly the presentation of a memorial to the Congress of the United States, protesting against compulsory military service and conscription for foreign service.

The military policy of the United States directly concerns the people of Illinois. They must bear its burdens and share its benefits with the people of other states. To insure domestic tranquility and provide for the common defense are principles on which our system of government is founded. Our national army should be so organized, equipped and disciplined, as to serve the fundamental principles of our government comprehensively, and should extend no further, and thus help reduce present oppressive taxation.

FEDERAL TAXES.

The American people are now burdened with an amount and variety of Federal taxes, due to the war which is without precedent in the nation, largely owing to the unparalleled waste and extravagance practiced by those entrusted with administering expenditures during the period of the war, and subsequent thereto. To reduce this oppression and maintain the honor of the nation's just obligations is one of the first problems that should engage the efforts of the new President and Congress.

I am pledged to the proposal of exempting from Federal taxation incomes of American citizens of less than $5,000 per annum. The United States Government is now collecting in the State of Illinois more than the cost of administering the State and the counties and municipalities therein. This excess is entirely disproportionate to necessities; and

WHEREAS, The views thus expressed by His Excellency, the Governor, in his inaugural message, represent the sentiments of a vast majority of the citizens of Illinois, and appeal to us, as the representatives of the people, as correct policies of government, the wisdom of which have been demonstrated in the past four years; therefore, be it,

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein, That we appeal to the President and the Congress of the United States to take prompt action to put in effect these principles of government, which are essential to the welfare of the people of Illinois and of the whole country; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this memorial be transmitted by the Secretary of State to the President of the United States, the President of the Senate of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and the members of the Congress of the United States.

The House proceeding on the order of House Bills on Third Reading, House Bill No. 279 was taken up.

Whereupon Mr. Morrasy raised the point of no quorum.

And thereupon, a call of the House was had resulting as follows: Present, 41.

A message from the Governor, by George D. Sutton, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—The Governor directs me to lay before the House of Representatives the following communication:

SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS, April 12, 1921.

The Honorable, the House of Representatives:

I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 69, the same being an Act to amend section 40 of an Act entitled, "An Act concerning land titles," approved and in force May 1, 1897, as amended by an Act approved January 26, 1913, and in force July 1, 1913, and as reasons for my veto I submit the following:

The Land Titles Act, familiarly known as the Torrens System of Land Registration, which it is proposed to amend by this bill, was enacted for the purpose of registering the titles to real estate, and to simplify the transfer of such titles and to reduce expense and delay in connection therewith. The original act of 1897 was passed subject to a referendum vote, and its provisions have been adopted only by the County of Cook. Therefore, the present amendment embodied in House Bill No. 69 would have effect only in that county. I am credibly informed that over fifty thousand home-owners in Chicago and Cook County have acquired titles to their homes under the provisions of this Act, and it is of transcendent importance that no legislation be passed which would serve to unsettle their titles, or tend to impair the principles of the Land Registration Act which protects them.

Section 40 of the Act concerning land titles provides for the issuance of certificates of title. This section, as originally enacted in 1897, provided that every certified title should be subject (among other things) to "any tax or special assessment for which a sale of the land has not been had at the date of the certificate of title." This original provision was plain and simple, and was intended to protect the city, county, and state, and other taxing authorities, for the payment of current taxes and special assessments while in process of collection.

When the tax or special assessment had gone to sale, the tax or assessment was paid to the public authorities, and the purchaser or "tax-buyer" became substituted as the holder of a tax certificate of sale.

This section was amended in 1913 by providing that the certified title should be subject in all cases to "general taxes for the current or fiscal year in which the certificate is issued, and special taxes or assessments which have not been confirmed." This new provision probably is not as extensive as the original provision, and it would seem that some amendment which would reinstate the original provision of section 40, with reference to taxes and special assessments, would better protect the public interests.

I have been informed that the city of Chicago, in order to protect itself on sales of real estate for delinquent special assessments, has been obliged from time to time to buy in delinquent real estate at tax sales, and in lieu of collection of the tax in money, has been obliged to take tax sale certificates which were expected to ripen into tax deeds.

It has been represented to me by the proponents of House Bill No. 69 that the main purpose of the proposed amendment is to facilitate the collection of taxes and special assessments, and to enforce the payment of tax sale certificates and tax deeds held by the city of Chicago as against registered titles in Cook County. This is a proper and laudable purpose.

But the proposed amendment to section 40, embodied in House Bill No. 69, permits memorials to be entered upon certificates of title, of unpaid taxes and tax sale certificates, without any limitation as to time. It covers and provides for all "unpaid general axes for any year or years prior to the current or fiscal year in which the certificate of title is issued," and for all "uncancelled tax sales not already entered upon the register of titles." This would inure to the benefit of the so-called tax-buyers and would enable them to place upon the register of titles in the recorder's office of Cook County, as a lien against registered lands, all of their tax sale certificates, most of which have been long since outlawed by the lapse of time.

The fact that private tax-buyers are put in this favored position as to the collection of their ancient tax claims is in my opinion the most vital objection to House Bill No. 69. An Act so general in its character would permit tax claims and uncancelled tax sales, which have been in existence forty or fifty years with no attempt to collect the same, to be resurrected and placed upon the register of titles. In many cases tax claims which had been paid, evidence of the payment of which may not be readily accessible, might for the second time be charged against registered lands, and, having once been placed upon the register of titles against a particular certificate or particular title, the only way to remove the same as a lien or charge against the land would be by payment of the claim to the owner of the tax certificate of sale. I believe there is scarcely an abstract of title to real property in Cook County that will not disclose one or more of these old tax sale certificates upon which no deed was ever issued and upon which no deed can ever issue, and this present bill, if it became a law, would inevitably bring forward and place upon the register of titles a large number of these ancient and outlawed tax claims, owned by individuals and not by the public authorities. Such a result would be unjust and intolerable to the last degree.

It is quite true that the public should be protected in the collection of its general taxes and special assessments, and if the present provisions of the so-called Torrens Law or Land Titles Act are not adequate for that purpose, the law should be so amended as to provide such protection. Two subjects might properly be included in framing an amendment to the present law: one, providing for the collection of current taxes and special assessments and that the lien of the public for such current taxes and special assessments shall not be lost by a transfer of title; another, providing that the city of Chicago should be protected on its tax sale certificates, so far as it is possible to do so, as against these registered lands. It is eminently proper that the city of Chicago should have this protection, but it is plainly possible so to frame an amendment to section 40 of the present Act that the same protection and the same privileges shall not be given to private tax-buyers. Without going further into detail, I am also of the opinion that the amendment in its present form comes in conflict with other sections of the present Act, and with provisions of the Revenue Act and Local Improvement Act, and that the probable consequence of such conflict and contradiction would be that the benefit expected would be entirely lost. It should be possible so to frame a bill that such conflict would be avoided and its provisions restricted to the sole purpose of protecting the public authorities in their claims for taxes and special assessments and collection on their forfeitures and tax sale certificates. It is my belief that the present bill would altogether fail of such purpose; that, while conferring no benefit upon the city or other tax authorities, it would operate as a hardship upon owners of lands registered under the Land Titles Act, and, conversely, bestow benefits upon private tax-buyers to which they are not entitled. I, therefore, am constrained to exercise my constitutional right of veto, and I do hereby veto this bill.

Respectfully submitted,

The foregoing veto message from the Governor was received and ordered placed on file.

A. G. MURRAY, Secretary of the Senate.

The foregoing Senate bills numbered 190 and 319 were taken up, read by title, ordered printed and to a first reading.

A message from the Senate by Mr. Murray Secretary:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has concurred with the House in the adoption of the following preamble and joint resolution, to-wit:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 30.

WHEREAS, Hon. Len Small, Governor of Illinois in his inaugural message to the Fifty-second General Assembly, addressed himself to the question of the relations between the United States and the State of Illinois, as follows:

FEDERAL RELATIONS.

The affairs of the State of Illinois are inseparably linked with the affairs of the nation, and we have a right to express ourselves upon national policies to which we may become perpetually bound. I feel that I would be remiss in my duty to the people of Illinois, if I did not take this occasion to direct their attention to threatening policies confronting the country of which we form a part.

We have emerged from the actual conflict of a great world war. The strain and soreness of that conflict still bears heavily upon most of our people. On top of the grief and distress of our people over the shedding of American blood has come their resentment and anger toward the rich and powerful interests that, in the nation's most sorrowful hours, exacted merciless tolls of profit on the necessary and essential commodities for the sustenance of human life.

These interests that oppress the people never were, and are not now, partisan. They operate with equal facility in either the Republican or Democratic party. They are not American, though intensely patriotic in all outward manifestations. They are predatory in character, and wordly in their aims and objects.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

It is our duty to ourselves and to the people to investigate closely the interests back of every measure that comes up for consideration, and thereby prevent the forces of organized wealth and greed from continuing to rob the masses.

The so-called Covenant of the League of Nations advocated by President Wilson, was submitted to a "solemn referendum" in accordance with his dictum in the recent election, and as solemnly rejected by an overwhelming vote of the American people. Nevertheless we hear whisperings of a proposal for a League of Nations, or Association of Nations, for the pretended guarantee of world peace. If I interpret aright the sentiment of the people of Illinois, as well as other states, they are in no mood to have their sovereignty subjected to discussion by discredited old-world monarchies, or to pool their issues with countries where liberty, and the right of the people to determine their own political systems, is more restricted than in their own.

Under no circumstances should the American Congress forsake the policy laid down by George Washington, by entering into any League or Association of Nations, which would involve this country in foreign entanglements or alliances, without first submitting the proposed covenant of the League or Association of Nations to a vote of the American people.

The Congress of the United States should again adopt for the approval of the incoming President, a resolution declaring our country at peace with the world, that this proclamation may follow, lawfully terminating the present war, that obnoxious war-time legislation may be summarily repealed, and that American soldiers now in Europe and Asia in the theater of foreign strife, may be returned to our shores forthwith.

BONUS FOR SOLDIERS.

The soldiers, sailors and marines who responded to their country's military and naval needs, jeopardizing and sacrificing their lives relinquishing home ties and foregoing their income-earning opportunities, are entitled to every honor and consideration that may be bestowed. My platform favored the payment of a liberal bonus to those men and I urge upon our Senators and Representatives in Congress the consummation of plans that will bring this about.

And especially do I urge that immediate relief be provided for those who, because of injuries received in the service of their country, are suffering in body or mind, to the end that no American soldier shall ever become an object of charity.

MILITARISM.

Compulsory military service, or conscription defies the opinion of a free people. It is the ancient instrument of kings and princes, and of despotism and tyranny, and inevitably induces war. I recommended to the General Assembly the presentation of a memorial to the Congress of the United States, protesting against compulsory military service and conscription for foreign service.

The military policy of the United States directly concerns the people of Illinois. They must bear its burdens and share its benefits with the people of other states. To insure domestic tranquility and provide for the common defense are principles on which our system of government is founded. Our national army should be so organized, equipped and disciplined, as to serve the fundamental principles of our government comprehensively, and should extend no further, and thus help reduce present oppressive taxation.

FEDERAL TAXES.

The American people are now burdened with an amount and variety of Federal taxes, due to the war which is without precedent in the nation, largely owing to the unparalleled waste and extravagance practiced by those entrusted with administering expenditures during the period of the war, and subsequent thereto. To reduce this oppression and maintain the honor of the nation's just obligations is one of the first problems that should engage the efforts of the new President and Congress.

I am pledged to the proposal of exempting from Federal taxation incomes of American citizens of less than $5,000 per annum. The United States Government is now collecting in the State of Illinois more than the cost of administering the State and the counties and municipalities therein. This excess is entirely disproportionate to necessities; and

WHEREAS, The views thus expressed by His Excellency, the Governor, in his inaugural message, represent the sentiments of a vast majority of the citizens of Illinois, and appeal to us, as the representatives of the people, as correct policies of government, the wisdom of which have been demonstrated in the past four years; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein, That we appeal to the President and the Congress of the United States to take prompt action to put in effect these principles of government, which are essential to the welfare of the people of Illinois and of the whole country; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this memorial be transmitted by the Secretary of State to the President of the United States, the President of the Senate of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and the members of the Congress of the United States.

Concurred in by the Senate, April 21, 1921.

2. The same ceremony shall be observed when messages shall be sent from the House of Representatives to the Senate.

3. Messages shall be sent by such persons as a sense of propriety in each House may determine to be proper.

4. In every case of disagreement between the two Houses, if either House request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, the other House shall appoint a committee to confer therewith upon the subject of their disagreement. Said committee shall meet at a convenient time to be agreed upon by their chairman, and, having conferred freely, each shall report to its respective House the result of their conference. When bills are transcribed and typed, they shall be examined by a joint committee, which shall consist of five members, two from the Senate and three from the House, to be appointed by the Senate and the Speaker of the House, respectively. The Clerk of the Committee on Enrolling, Transcribing and Typing of Bills of the respective Houses shall act as clerk of the committee whenever their services are required. Said committee shall carefully compare the transcribed and typed bills with the engrossed bills, so passed by both Houses, correct any errors which may be discovered in the enrolled bills, and make their report forthwith to their respective Houses; the Secretary or Clerk having previously certified on the margin of the roll in which House it originated.

8. After examination and report, each bill shall be signed in the respective Houses, by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and by the President of the Senate.

9. After a bill shall have been signed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, it shall be presented by said Joint Committee to the Governor for his approval. The said committee shall report the day of presentation to the Governor to each House, which time shall be carefully entered on the Journals of each House.

WHEREAS, The said Pittsburg Plus System has served to restrain the development of the manufacturing of steel products in the West, and has served to retard the growth of competition in this important industry which works an unjust hardship on the manufacturers of this State, and also on the agricultural interests which are among the largest consumers of iron and steel products; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the facts and conditions in relationship to such "Pittsburgh Plus" practice are such as to warrant an order from the Federal Trade Commission directing that the said practice shall cease; and, be it further

WHEREAS, The General Assembly of the State of Illinois passed a law in relation to the conservation of game birds approved June 24, 1919, and in force July 1, 1919, which said law is subject to the Migratory Bird Treaty Act; and

WHEREAS, The Secretary of Agriculture of the United States and the President of the United States have not permitted the hunting, taking, capture or killing of said migratory birds, to the great loss and damage to the farmers who raise the grain to feed said birds during their passage through the State of Illinois; therefore be it hereby

WHEREAS, The Interstate Commerce Commission, acting upon what it claims to be the intent of Congress in the enactment of section 13 (4) of the Transportation Act, 1920, has assumed full and exclusive authority over all intrastate rates in the State of Illinois and through its action has divested the Legislature and the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Illinois of power to regulate the intrastate rates of the railroads in said State; and,

WHEREAS, The United States District Court, Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, February 14, 1921, enjoined the State authorities from interfering with rates, fares, or charges established by the carriers pursuant to the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission; and,

WHEREAS, As a result of said order of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States District Court, the Public Utilities Commission is prohibited from entering any order which may require the removal of unjust, unreasonable, or discriminatory rates; and,

WHEREAS, No change may be made in any intrastate rates within the State of Illinois until an application has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission and authority granted by said Commission to the carriers to change such rates, notwithstanding that such procedure is not necessary or required of the carriers with respect to interstate rates; and,

WHEREAS, The delay and expense of appearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission in matters purely local to the State of Illinois is so great that many unjust, unreasonable, and discriminatory rates are permitted to remain in effect; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate, the House concurring therein, That the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, hereby respectfully petitions the Congress of the United States to amend the Transportation Act, 1920, so as to protect and preserve the powers of the State of Illinois with relation to the regulation of intrastate rates, service and facilities, and the local affairs of the common carriers within said State, and to make such amendment or amendments in language so plain that the authority of said State shall be maintained without impairment; be it further

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 36.

WHEREAS, The Interstate Commerce Commission, acting upon what it claims to be the intent of Congress in the enactment of section 13 (4) of the Transportation Act 1920, has assumed full and exclusive authority over all intrastate rates in the State of Illinois and through its action has divested the Legislature and the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Illinois of power to regulate intrastate rates of the railroads in said State; and

WHEREAS, The United States District Court, Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, February 14, 1921, enjoined the State authorities from interfering with rates, fares, or charges established by the carriers pursuant to the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission; and

WHEREAS, As a result of said order of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States District Court, the Public Utilities Commission is prohibited from entering any order which may require the removal of unjust, unreasonable, or discriminatory rates; and

WHEREAS, No change may be made in any intrastate rates within the State of Illinois until an application has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission and authority granted by said Commission to the carriers to change such rates, notwithstanding that such procedure is not necessary or required of the carriers with respect to interstate rates; and

WHEREAS, The delay and expense of appearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission in matters purely local to the State of Illinois is so great that many unjust, unreasonable, and discriminatory rates are permitted to remain in effect; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, hereby respectfully petitions the Congress of the United States to amend the Transportation Act of 1920, so as to protect and preserve the powers of the State of Illinois with relation to the regulation of intrastate rates, service and facilities, and the local affairs of the common carriers within said State, and to make such amendment or amendments in language so plain that the authority of said State shall be maintained without impairment; be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of State of Illinois be, and hereby is, directed to transmit a certified copy of this resolution to each United States Senator and each Representative in Congress from Illinois.

WHEREAS, Three prominent and valued members of the House of Representatives have recently departed this life; namely, Representative Thomas N. Gorman of the 18th district, Representative Charles F. Franz of the 12th district, and Representative Ben Phillips of the 42nd district; all honored and respected citizens of their communities and of the State of Illinois, active in public affairs; and their loss is keenly felt by all; therefore, be it Resolved, That on Wednesday, May 18th, the business of the House of Representatives be suspended at the hour of 11:00 o'clock a. m., that opportunity may be given for tributes to the memory of the late Hon. Thomas N. Gorman, Hon. Charles F. Franz, and Hon. Ben Phillips.

And the resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Mr. Rice offered the following resolution, which was ordered to lie on the Speaker's table:

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 47.

WHEREAS, The present excessive taxation has been and is arousing wide protest, by press and public, throughout the State of Illinois; and

WHEREAS, Urgent demands are being made for increase of taxation to meet the pressing needs of the public schools and the charitable and educational institutions of the State; and

WHEREAS, Like insistent demands are springing up from every avenue of the State calling for retrenchment in public expenditures and reduction in taxation; and

WHEREAS, The president, unprecedented, wide spread, financial and business depression calls loudly for brave, sane and conservative action in the handling of the financial affairs of the State; and

WHEREAS, Every apparent, or actual, excessive, unnecessary or extravagant expenditure of public moneys is calling forth condemnation of the people on every hand, and is adding to the great unrest and discontent of the people; and

WHEREAS, Within the past year there has appeared in the public press of this State, without regard to political affiliation, alarming charges of apparent, or actual, unjust expenditures of public funds of the State, such charges being, among others, of the nature and character set forth in the CHICAGO EXAMINER of September 5, 1920, as follows:

"Records of the State Auditor's office show that Governor Lowden made the taxpayers of Illinois pay for the maintenance of his presidential headquarters at the Blackstone Hotel from December 1, 1919, to the close of the campaign.

"The records of the Auditor show that Governor Lowden himself, ordered the State to pay, with the people's moneys, the following monthly bills: December-January, $4,410; February, $1,572.55; March, $1,567.45; April, $2,472.50; May, $1,156.35; June, $734.00; Total, $12,234.15.

"The bills paid the Blackstone Hotel and included in the above summary, also contain those contracted at the Blackstone during the same period by George Sutton, the Governor's private secretary, Joseph C. Mason, the Governor's publicity manager, who is on the State pay roll as Examining Auditor, and John Tracy, the Governor's valet and personal bodyguard. Their bills, like those of the Governor, are for rooms, restaurant, extras, etc. The presidential suite was by no means an inexpensive institution. The Blackstone is not a cheap hotel. It charged the Governor at the rate of $36.90 per day, for 707-8-9, $258.30 per week, and various rates for the rooms of Messrs. Sutton, Tracy and Mason." And

WHEREAS, On the 7th day of September, 1920, in a great public meeting in Chicago, a prominent Republican politician of the State of Illinois added further publicity to the said apparent, or actual, unjust expenditures of public funds in the following language, directed at Governor Lowden:

"Do you not know that it was an act of dishonesty for you to use the State funds for your personal and private ends through the maintenance of your presidential headquarters at the Blackstone as exposed by the Chicago Herald and Examiner?"

"Do you think that you have a right to reach your hands into the pockets of Illinois taxpayers and extract therefrom some $12,000.00 that you may live in luxury at Chicago's most exclusive millionaire's hotel on the plea that you were there on official business, when as a matter of fact you were simply directing your campaign from those headquarters?" And

WHEREAS, Like utterances have appeared from time to time in other avenues of publicity in this State; and

WHEREAS, Such alarming disclosures, so publicly made, tend to arouse unjust criticism of public officials, distrust and contempt for the Government of this great State, as well as for its laws and executives, thereby fostering unrest and unhappiness among the people of the State; and

WHEREAS, If such charges are in fact unfounded or untrue, then and in that case, they tend wrongfully to impeach the honesty, integrity and reputation of one of Illinois' most honored sons, one who will go down in history as the great war governor of Illinois, and tend unjustly to blacken the fair name of the State itself; and

WHEREAS, On the other hand, if said alarming charges, so publicly made, are based upon facts or founded upon truth, then no higher civic duty can be performed by this House than to bring such positive facts to the knowledge of the General Assembly, that remedial legislation may be enacted to protect the public in the future from such reckless, unjust and extravagant expenditures, so that public distrust may be allayed and the people freed from extortion; and

WHEREAS, Thus far, and to this time, said alarming charges have met no denial on the one hand or proof on the other, sufficient to satisfy the outraged conscience and belief of the public at large; so that unrest may be allayed, and confidence revived; so that the fair name of the State may be protected and the reputation of its honored son may be defended; so that no like future incident may be possible to wreck the confidence in our Government or its officials; and

WHEREAS, This House can render to the State a most important and efficient service in determining and giving to the public the truth or falsity of the said alarming, alleged disclosures; so that if unfounded, justice may be done to the injured, and if true, reoccurrence may be prevented; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the State of Illinois, That the Speaker of this House appoint a committee of three of its members to make prompt investigation of the records, files and vouchers in the Auditor's office of the State of Illinois to determine and report the truth or the falsity of the said alarming charges; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee when appointed shall call upon the State Auditor of the State of Illinois, make an inspection of such vouchers, records and files of his office as may shed any light upon the truth or falsity of said charges; and, be it further

Resolved, That the State Auditor of the State of Illinois be and he is hereby required to submit to such committee for inspection any and all vouchers, records and files of his office, which said committee may deem necessary for the determination of the truth or the falsity of the said foregoing alarming charges of alleged improper disbursements of the public funds of the State of Illinois; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee when appointed be and they are hereby authorized speedily to proceed to a thorough investigation of the truth or the falsity of the said alarming charges and report to this House with all convenient speed their findings in the premises.

Sims, Julius Rosenwald, John V. Farwell, Abel Davis, Silas H. Strawn, Henry H. Rathbone, Frank L. Shepard, Bernard E. Sunny, M. L. C. Funkhouser, Emil C. Wetten, Carl R. Latham, Fred L. Rossback, Marquis Eaton, Frank J. Loesch, Charles R. Holden, Eugene U. Kimbark, Harry H. Merrick, Professor Robert H. Gault, Charles W. Folds, and a large number of others who have never been identified with the Thompson wing of the Republican party.

If the effect of the provisions that these gentlemen have recommended is baneful, they must take the responsibility for it. The representatives of the City administration took the word of their representative that the bill had received careful consideration from these gentlemen and was recommended as a desirable piece of legislation.

The Chicago Tribune, on May 11, 1921, on the first page of the second section of the paper, printed an article to the effect that it was shown conclusively on May 10th, that this bill was introduced by the Lundin-Thompson machine for the purpose of making "a quick grab and an immediate transformation of the Cook County jury commission for its political purposes." The Tribune gives as the basis for this statement the fact that it was discovered that the bill was quietly introduced some time ago by Representative Peter S. Krump of the Second District, a City Hall follower, and announces that this is indisputable evidence of the conspiracy that lies back of it.

The article is interspersed with subheadings which read, "Scheme is a Masterpiece," "Punishment Fits the Crime," "Where the Little Cards Go," and other headings all designed to bear out the statement at the top of the column that "Jury Control Is Latest Goal of Thompson Men," and that "Krump Bill Coup Awaits 'Raid on Bench'". This nightmare, conjured up to the discomfiture of the very respectable gentlemen who compose the Crime Commission, emanates from some newspaper correspondent whose name is not disclosed.

Such members of the City Administration and of the Legislature as had anything to do with the introduction of the bill at the request of the Crime Commission do not feel called upon either to defend the bill or to say anything further about the charges contained in the article in question.
